Ex-Judge Lindsey Disbarred Over Stokes Gifts

3 PLEAD GUILTY IN RUM-PLOT TRIAL

Today

Any Memory After Death?
Many Brave Men Left.
Will Sloan or Ford Do It?
Will Coolidge Run? Ask Him.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE

DOES anything interest us after we die? Does Clemenceau know that he saved his country?

Is Nelson proud to point downward and show his tall monument to Emma Hamilton?

When the Duke of Marlborough refused to receive them at Blenheim because they were not married the sprightly Lady Hamilton said:

"Nelson shall have a monument, to which Blenheim shall be but a pigsty." Nelson has it.

DOES Washington point to his fine monument by the Potomac, thus impressing Sally Fairfax, flying around near him. Or are the pessimists right, and is it true that:

The cloud-garbed towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself.
Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve
And—leave not a rack behind.

IN ANY case, T. P. Nelson, brave pilot of the Postoffice air service, killed on duty, would have been proud of his funeral, could he have seen it.

While they lowered him into the earth, to drive his plane among the clouds of the earth no more, his flying friends of other days, including Lindbergh, flew over his grave, dropping flowers, and tears with the flowers.

WE MAY know nothing beyond the hour of death. But even so, it is worth while to do something that will make good men remember us and regret our going.

MANY brave men are left on earth, as brave as Lahire, Crillon, Duguesclin or John L. Sullivan, himself, and brave sometimes in a better cause.

In the great storm sweeping British coasts, wind going 108 miles an hour, a French steamer, the Ornais, seemed doomed with its crew of 19. No boat could be launched and live. The coast guard could not send a line by rocket.

A YOUNG Cornishman named Laity said he thought he might live through the 100 yards of raging water, separating the ship stranded from land. He took a life line, swam through, saved the whole crew and himself.

It will be forgotten by the world, before next Monday but that does not matter. This earth, and the solar system will be gone and forgotten, in time. A few extra millions of years make little difference.

L'A JOURNEE INDUSTRIELLE, French business newspaper, says Henry Ford plans to manufacture a "baby car," a small, cheap automobile, in Europe.

The French editor says Ford will make the car "wholly" in Cologne, not bringing in parts for assembling, as is done in other American and European plants.

MR. FORD said last Friday at Dearborn that he had bought some 30 acres for a plant, in the City of Cologne, but said nothing about a light car, to compete with small European cars.

He has always had a small, very cheap car, in the back of his head. Many years ago he showed the writer an engine, so light he could lift it, made by him, to run a $250 car. That was when his minority stockholders refused to sell. Perhaps that little engine helped them to decide.

IN ANY case, Mr. Sloan, of General Motors, might be first with a small car, here, and especially in Europe. There he has bought a controlling interest in two of the greatest companies in Germany and in France. He could start production on short notice.

Taxes in Europe, Britain especially, penalize severely cars embodying American ideas as to bore and horsepower.

ASKED "Do you plan to run for the Senate next year?" Mr. Calvin Coolidge does that which he does most easily, says nothing.

Ask him, "Do you mean to run for President again in 1932 or 1936?" and he will be just as silent.

But that will not mean that he does not plan to run for President again. To be silent and watch, a program so easy for Mr. Coolidge, is to have 80 per cent advantage over the talkers.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED Haitians made a mistake when they undertook to rush a small force of American marines. Five of them are in their graves, 20 in the hospital, the other 1,475 thinking hard.

If Haiti is doing anything to us, confiscating the property of Americans, for instance, we must attend to that.

OTHERWISE, why not let them fight it out, among themselves, since the country, however unwisely, was given to them.

It would be embarrassing to have Russia send word to us,

M'KEESPORT POLICEMEN NAMED IN CHARGES

Versailles Justice of Peace Also Linked With Alleged Whisky Conspiracy Case

BULLETIN.

Three defendants in the McKeesport liquor conspiracy case signed pleas of guilty to conspiracy late today as a jury was being selected in Federal Court to try the remaining 29 accused men.

They were Adolph and Meyer Markovitz, brothers, and Julius Schreiber.

McKeesport's so-called rum conspiracy case, accusing 32 ficers, was scheduled to open late today in Federal Court.

Sixty government witnesses, including several women, were on hand to testify today as a new panel of 125 jurors reported for duty.

The McKeesport case was third on the list.

MARKOSS RETURNED

First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh will prosecute the case.

Harry Markoss, one of the defendants, was brought back today from Brownsville, Tex., where he was arrested on a bench warrant by a deputy United States marshal. He was released after signing his own bail bond of $2,500.

OFFICERS INVOLVED

Prominent among the defendants are present and former McKeesport police officers, as well as Justice of Peace Charles E. Reinhard, of Versailles. The police include John F. Brennan, ex-chief of police; Lieut. James H. Gray and Desk Sergeant Fred Kreiling. Former Chief of Police Charles Bergstedt, of Versailles, is also included.

Nathan Friedman, who was brought here to testify before the grand jury while serving a two-year term at the Federal Prison Camp, Alderson, W. Va., and his brother, Charles Friedman, convicted in a former McKeesport conspiracy case, are defendants. Nathan Friedman was paroled a few days after testifying through a recommendation from former United States Attorney John D. Meyer. Friedman testified after pleadings from his wife.

OTHERS ON TRIAL

The other defendants coming to trial are:

Fred Lux, ex-motorcycle patrolman; Jack Morton, motorcycle patrolman; Leo P. Vennebush, motorcycle patrolman; Robert Hurley, patrol driver; Albert Rasp, exmotorcycle policeman; Dudley Presser, motorcycle patrolman; Martin Manning, plainclothes policeman; Robert Prosser, ex-constable; Harry Uskowitz, Sam Katz, Meyer Markovitz, Mike Pausic, Walter Rosier, Julius Schreiber, Louis Davidson, Ben Frank, Sam Crown, Jacob Perlstein, Louis Klein, Jack Tucker, Martin Firestone, Adolph Markovitz, William Englert and Markos.

Patrolman Paul Moore leading Mrs. Mary Radosevich, 117 First avenue, to safety with her children, Mildred, 2½, and Mary, 12, and Miss Nettie Golinska, roomer, when the house burned today.

DOWNTOWN FIRE ROUTS SCORE

Twenty persons in two rooming houses were driven to the street early today when fire was discovered on the third floor of the A. Mamaux & Son Company, awning and tent manufacturers, at 121 and 123 First avenue. The fire was confined to the cutting room.

Patrolman Paul Moore, who discovered the blaze at 6:40 a. m., turned in an alarm and then ran to rooming houses at 117 and 119 First avenue, and aroused the guests, many of whom left their rooms in night attire.

Mrs. Mary Rodosevich, proprietor of the rooming house at 117 First avenue, and her two children, Mildred 2½ years, and Mary, 12, were aided to safety.

Firemen from seven companies fought the flames from the street and the roofs of nearby buildings.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. Sigourney Thayer have separated. Thayer, a theatrical producer, married the former Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt a year ago.

LAWYERS SEEK DAVIDSON FEE

The latest legal dispute to attend the $3,000,000 estate of Mrs. Eleanor H. Davidson was being argued before Judge James B. Drew at a hearing in Common Pleas Court today.

Attorney Arnold M. Replogle and the law firm of Thorp, Bostwick, Stewart & Reed asked the courts to approve a $100,000 charge for services to the estate of the woman who has been adjudged mentally incompetent.

Today in court counsel for Mrs. Davidson's mother and two sisters proposed that the lawyers accept $50,000 after terming the higher charge excessive.

The Davidson counsel, Frank C. McGirr, contended that the court's order in this case would be final and therefore unappealable.

ATTORNEY TESTIFIES

In his argument, McGirr said the estate's former committee, former Judge Henry G. Wasson and Attorney George H. Calvert,

Busy Week Ahead as Girls Seek Wonder Dolls

By THE DOLL LADY.

Anoother Monday! Time to go back to school again and the beginning of another busy week at the doll headquarters.

I noticed that many of you took my suggestion and strolled down past the doll headquarters Sunday afternoon. I was sitting at my desk for a while during the afternoon and I was actually happy to see so many interested people enjoying our doll windows.

Doll Lady.

This will be one of our busiest weeks. All sorts of nice things are going to be happening and I warn you all to read every story that appears in the Sun-Telegraph so that you won't miss any of my announcements.

Making little girls happy is what I love doing best in the whole, whole world. That's why I'm in Pittsburgh seeing that every little girl who wants one can get one of my beautiful dolls.

There were just scores and scores in to see me Friday and Saturday, and many of them came back within a short time ready to take one of my wonderful children in their arms as their very own. I've made hundreds of little girls happy since I've come to Doll Headquarters at 135 Sixth Street, Roosevelt Hotel, and Davis Theater lobby, Smithfield street.

You see it's this way, children. I love every one of my talking, walking, singing, praying and sleeping dolls, but I can't be as good to each and every one of them as I want to be. There are too many of them to allow that.

Doll Lady's Headquarters

THE Doll Lady has established two convenient downtown headquarters where children are invited to see and hear her wonderful dolls.

The Doll Lady is ready to receive you at No. 135 Sixth street, Roosevelt Hotel, or in the main entrance of the Davis Theater on Smithfield street, near Oliver avenue.

HIGH COURT DISBARS LINDSEY

Acceptance of $48,000 Made Basis of Action; He Blames Klan and Foes

International News Service.

DENVER, Dec. 9.—Ben B. Lindsey, internationally known lecturer, former Juvenile Court judge here and advocate of "companionate marriage," was disbarred from practicing law in Colorado by the State Supreme Court today.

The disbarment proceedings against Lindsey were an outgrowth of his acceptance of money fro mMrs. Helen Elwood Stokes and Samuel Untermyer, New York attorney, in connection with the settlement of a large fortune upon the two children of Mrs. Stokes from the estate of their father, the late W. E. D. Stokes, New York millionaire hotel owner.

ADMITS GIFTS

Lindsey admitted receipt of $38,000 from Mrs. Stokes and $10,000 from Untermyer, but said the money came in the form of a "gift" and not for legal services rendered while he was judge of the Juvenile Court.

Judge Lindsey, stunned by the decision of the Supreme Court, told International News Service that the fight to disbar him was launched by political enemies, including the Ku Klux Klan.

"The money I accepted in the Stokes case was purely a gift," Lindsey said. "Its acceptance was approved verbally by several judges of the Denver County and District courts, and even one member of the State Supreme Court, now dead, told me it was perfectly legal and ethical for me to receive the money from Mrs. Stokes and Untermyer."

At the time of the settlement upon the two children, Muriel and James, Lindsey was judge of the Denver Juvenile Court, of which the children were wards.

AWARDED MILLIONS

Through Lindsey's activities, it was claimed, the children were awarded several million dollars.

In a brief with the State Supreme Court by Attorney General Winbourn, Lindsey was charged with resorting to "mental witchcraft" and "serving two masters—the law and deception"—in his connection with the Stokes case.

The original charge against the noted judge named "professional misconduct."

Lindsey maintained that his conduct throughout the Stokes case was disassociated from his

SENATOR'S RUM CHARGES FAIL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—The grand jury today decided to ignore testimony by Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, relative to the "Wall Street Booze" party given by Walter Fahy, New York broker, to new members of Congress in 1926, at which Brookhart said liquor was served.

Prior to his appearance before the grand jury, Brookhart had said in the Senate that he sat at the dinner between Otto Kahn, New York financier, and E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and that the latter poured "some alcoholic stuff" from a glass and drank it.

Loomis was also called before the grand jury, as was the manager of the New Willard Hotel, where the dinner took place.

The grand jury in its report said it was "deemed that the lack of evidence, together with the extraordinary lapse of time between the alleged violations and the revelation of the facts relating to this affair, make it impracticable for the grand jury to consider the matter further."

Senator Brookhart said he had no comment to make on the failure of the grand jury to return indictments.

"The information I gave the grand jury did not make a full case," he said, "and, of course, I do not know what additional evidence the jury got or tried to get."

TWO TOWN HALL SITES DEBATED

Trouble, which has been brewing in the ranks of Town Hall advocates, was close to a crisis when the Allegheny County Town Hall Association appears for its final hearing today before the County Planning Commission.

The association, which advocates a site in the downtown district, has eliminated all but two of the available sites in the Golden Triangle. A letter stating this went out to all members of the organization after a meeting of the executive committee held Friday.

BOTH SITES NEAR RIVER

The two sites, according to the letter, are:

1—Bounded by Liberty and Penn avenues, Water and Barbeau streets.

2—Bounded by Second avenue, Grant and Water streets, and the Pennsylvania Railroad

U. S. SIGNS PACT AT GENEVA

America Membership Hinges Now Upon Ratification Vote of Upper House

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—With the signing of the World Court protocol containing the so-called Root-Hurst advisory opinion compromise in Geneva today by J. Pierrepont Moffat, American charge d'affaires, on behalf of the United States American membership in the court now becomes dependent upon Senate ratification.

President Hoover declared in his annual message to Congress that he would submit the instrument when convenient. In some quarters it was believed he would wait until a majority of the signatories of the original protocol, some 50 nations, took final action. Thus far about 50 have signed the amended pact, but only a few have ratified.

OPPOSITION LIKELY

That considerable opposition will develop in the Senate when the pact comes up for ratification, was indicated today. Already there is some talk of attempting to amend the compromise made by Elihu Root in Geneva last summer further to protect the interests of the United States.

The Root-Hurst compromise permits the United States to withdraw from the court in the event an advisory opinion is sought without the consent of this country in any case in which it has or claims an interest.

In making the announcement of President Hoover's authorization for Moffat to sign the instrument, the State Department made public the correspondence which passed between the President and Secretary of State Stimson.

STIMSON'S STAND

In anticipation of charges by opponents that it would drag this country into the League of Nations through the back door, Stimson told the President:

"Although this final movement, which established the court, was initiated by the

ACCORSI'S PLEA 'NOT GUILTY'

Salvatore Accorsi, 38, former Cheswick miner, charged with the murder of State Trooper John J. Downey, pleaded not guilty when arraigned today before Visiting Judge John A. McLaughry, of Mercer County.

The accused man's counsel indicated his defense will be that he was not in Acmetonia two years ago when Trooper Downey was shot down in a riot following a Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration.

At the press table when the trial opened was Sinclair Lewis, writer of best sellers. He was covering the trial for a labor press service and may write a magazine article about it.

Joseph P. Costello, skilled laborer, of 201 Elm street, Clairton, was the first juror chosen and automatically became foreman of the jury. John S. Rosencrance, a laborer, of 2239 Manor avenue, Swissvale; Charles E. MacGuire, salesman, of Cherry street, Whittaker, and Mrs. Florence Snyder, housewife, of 912 East street, North Side, were accepted in the order named.

Hurley Confirmed As War Secretary

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—President Hoover's official family became complete again today when the Senate speedily ratified his nomination of Patrick J. Hurley, of Oklahoma, as secretary of war, succeeding the late James W. Good. The Senate acted without investigating Hurley after Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, had explained that the Senate had once before confirmed Hurley as assistant secretary.

13 Hit-and-Run Cars Kill Lone Pedestrian

DETROIT, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—A man was killed here today by a hit-run calvacade of about 13 cars. Jockeying for the green light at a bus intersection, the first car in line raced and struck down George Caniff, 52. Twelve or more cars followed.

Police believe the first driver, Percy Brummel, 31, was the actual killer. They are inclined to exonerate all the drivers who followed, only one of whom stopped.

Police Machine Gun Mows Bank Bandits in Ambush

SHAKOPEE, Minn., Dec. 9.—Three bank robbers were shot and probably fatally wounded today as police officers, lying in wait for them, opened fire with a machine gun as the robbers left the First National Bank.

Working on a "tip" from the protective department of the Minnesota Bankers' Association, that the bank would be robbed, the officers had maintained a watch for several days. The robbers were permitted to enter the bank and were preparing to drive away with $1,500 when the officers opened fire.

Charles D. Brown, Minneapolis, manager of the bankers' protective department, led five officers in the ambush prepared for the bandits and operated the machine gun.

After firing, Brown rushed up to the car. As he opened the doors, he said, two men fell out. The third stepped out of the machine and staggered into the bank.

"How do you like it so far, boys?" Brown said as he reached the car.

"You've got us all right this time, Mr. Brown," one man replied.

50 SHIPS IN DISTRESS AS STORM LASHES EUROPEAN COAST

WIND RATED WORST IN CENTURY

65 Lives Lost, Toll May Grow; Craft With $70,000,000 Art Treasures in Peril

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—The bitter hammering by a storm, believed the worst in the past century, to which Great Britain and the continent have been subjected for nearly a week, continued today with somewhat lessened force, but with the possibility of a worse blow to come.

No less than 50 vessels along the coast were reported in distress, while the raging seas prevented assistance being sent to them.

At least 65 lives have been lost, and it is possible that the death list will number more than 100.

TWO SHIPS SUNK

These figures include 16 lives lost in the sinking of the steamer Frances Duncan on Thursday; 21 lost with the sinking of the steamer Radyr on Saturday with all hands; seven men washed overboard from vessels along the English, Dutch and Danish coasts, and a score killed in land accidents due to the gale.

Much interest centered on the Italian steamer Leonardo da Vinci, en route from Italy to England, bearing pictures valued at £14,000,000 for exhibition in London.

The Leonardo Da Vinci reported that she still was fighting the furious storm and hoped to be able to ride it out.

45 SAILORS SAVED

A further sinking of a steamer was reported today by the steamship Manchester Regiment, which picked up 45 sailors. One lifeboat was lost in the rescue.

There was some doubt as to the identity of the vessel, believed to be the Volumnia, en route from the British isles for Philadelphia.

LIFE SAVERS RUSH AID

The Ramsgate lifeboat put to sea in the teeth of a gale today in response to a mesage from Deal that the "Steamship Frieda" off Deal was sinking fast.

The Spanish steamer Mar ROJO, 2,202 tons, was reported drifting on the rocks five miles south of Hastings, on the Channel coast.

The ship reported that her engines had broken down and asked for immediate help.

A lull during the storm this morning was sufficient to allow resumption of some cross-channel services which had been tied up over the week-end, but the channel was still seething, and transport proceeded under difficulties.

In the North and Irish seas conditions also were still rough and the rest of England reported that the gale was yet raging.

"WORST WEATHER"

Arriving at Plymouth today, the captain of the liner Nieuw Amsterdam reported gales throughout the voyage, saying that it was the worst weather he had experienced during his career.

Anxiety regarding the steamer Alberta was alleviated by news of her arrival at the Channel Islands from Southampton after a 24-hour journey.

The continuance of the gale prevented the resumption of regular air services. One airliner carrying freight succeeded in flying from Paris to Croyden this morning, while a British airliner carrying eight passengers and mails flew from Paris to Lympne on the , the passengers completing journey to London by machine to leave Croyden was one for Brussels, all other services being suspended.

American's Yacht Wrecked in Storm

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—The yacht Cuananiche, owned by Percy K. Hudson, of Great Neck, Long Island, was wrecked off Cuxhaven today en route from Hamburg to Amsterdam. The crew of 11 and two guests were aboard. The guests were R. H. Wagner and his son. All were rescued.

RIGHT IN HIS OWN BACK YARD

By Quin Hall

THE Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce Committee on Recreation has announced that it will ask the County Commissioners to take over the Squaw Run recreation project recently approved by the Chamber. The plan is for a third county park in the scenic Squaw Run Valley for a distance of 3,800 feet back from the Allegheny River, just above Aspinwall.

THE park would be devoted almost entirely to water sports, with a swimming pool to accomodate 17,000 bathers, a shallow lake, a wading pool, and an elliptical boat harbor in the river with banks rising to form a great water amphitheater for aquatic sports. Mr. Hall in his cartoon shows you how Allegheny County people would welcome the municipal "beach."

BUSY WEEK FOR DOLL LADY

So I'm giving my children away to you little Pittsburgh girls because I know you're giving them good homes, homes where they'll be taken care of and loved as they deserve.

My dollies make such a lovely armful; they're as big as a 2-year-old baby. Some of them are bigger than the little "mothers" who get them. They have real hair that you can wash and curl, beautiful eyes that shut and open, and are dressed in dainty, pretty little dresses.

Be sure to see me at 135 Sixth street, Roosevelt Hotel, or Davis Theater Lobby, Smithfield street. I love to chat with you and tell you about my dolls.

I will let you hold them a little while. You know that my dollies are all very good and I want all the little girls who are good to their mothers to have one, for the girls who are good to their mothers and dollies will be good to my dollies and I know they will have nice homes.

Hunters Kill 200 Deer in Venango

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 9.—More than 200 bucks were shot in Venango County the first week, District Game Warden Herbert Beatty said today. The kill may run close to 350 deer for the season, nearly twice the usual mark. Clarion, Warren, Forest and other counties report heavy kills.

Newport to Watch Cowboy Break Colts

NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 9.—Mrs. Muriel Vanderbilt Church has brought a real cowboy from Wyoming. John Scott, who has appeared at rodeos, is to break in colts and wild ponies at her farm.

Royal Train Late For First Time In History

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—For the first time in history the royal train was late today.

The train, bearing King George and Queen Mary to London from their Norfolkshire estate at Sandringham, was delayed 18 minutes by the violent gales which are sweeping all of England.

Trackwalker Dies In Path of Freight

JEWETT, Dec. 9.—John Young, 51, Jewett, track walker, was killed when struck by a Pennsylvania freight train.

Rothstein Sleuths Accused of Laxity

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—Charged with laxity in the investigation of the murder of Arnold Rothstein, gambler, Detective Sergeant John Cordes and Detective Patrick Flood were to go on trial at police headquarters today, with Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen presiding.

Carbon Monoxide Gas Kills War Hero

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Capt. George Fraser Kerr was unharmed in the war by gas, shrapnel and the like. He won the Victoria Cross, the Military Cross and Bar and the Military Medal. Carbon monoxide fumes killed him while the motor of his automobile was running in his garage.

U. S. Sets Up Standard For Women's Measure

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—What every woman should measure has been determined by the highly scientific and sexless U. S. Bureau of Standards, the government's laboratory of industry and research.

Details of the standardization of dress patterns, made public today, give these measurements of bust, waist and hips. Whether they conform to the glorified beauties of the Follies and Vanities of Broadway wasn't stated, but anyway they are considered "the thing" by Uncle Sam.

The measurements were worked out by a joint conference of representative manufacturers, merchants and educators. The industry has accepted and approved for promulgation by the Commerce Department the specifications for the standard feminine. Secretary of Commerce Lamont sanctioned the measurements and th , becomes what might be termed a czar of women's shapes.

For the "standard lady" a "thirty-four" should have bust of that measurement, 28-inch waist and 37-inch hips, the third dimension taken seven inches below the natural waist line.

The well-known perfect "Thirty-six" of some years ago, rendered passe by the epidemic of boyish figured flappers, but now reported about to become popular again, should have a 31-inch waist and 39-inch hips, according to the government.

Other larger sizes ranging from 38 to 50-inch bust, with waist ranging from 32 to 44 inches and hips from 41 to 56 inches were placed in the standard sizes.

73 AMERICANS RESCUED AT NANKING

Women and Children Taken Aboard Warship; Peiping, Shanghai Reported Quiet

International News Service.

PEIPING, Dec. 9.—The revolt now flaming across the Chinese horizon has reached such serious proportions as to imperil the lives of Americans and other foreigners in the affected areas.

The American legation here announced today that 73 of the 120 American residents of the Nationalist capital, Nanking, had been taken aboard the U. S. S. Tulsa.

WOMEN, CHILDREN SAFE

The refugees represented all the American women and children and some of the men of Nanking.

Other foreign women and children are expected hourly.

The Tulsa is now standing by at Ichang to take aboard Americans endangered by the fighting between rebels and Nationalists there.

Admiral McVeigh, in charge of the fleet of American destroyers in Chinese waters, is distributing his craft among the various Chinese ports now in the danger zones to facilitate evacuation of Americans.

The British and other foreign governments are taking similar measures.

FIGHTING IN NANKING

In Peiping there is quiet, but in Nanking, stronghold of the Nationalists, it is reported a heavy barrage is being laid down by the rebels with government troops already beginning to retreat as the upheaval against the rule of President Chiang Kai Shek continues.

In the provinces of Honan, Hupeh, Anhwei, Kiangsi and Canton, similar conditions exist.

According to reports, the Nationalists have been put on the defensive almost everywhere, their numbers depleted by mutinies and desertion.

Chiang still claims the rebellions in the five areas are under control but reports received here indicate that the Nationalist leader will have to perform military and political miracles to emerge from the present crisis still holding the reins of government.

BRITAIN SHIFTS TROOPS

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—The British government is preparing to send British troops to Shanghai to protect British subjects and their property, should the flames of revolt now spreading throughout China reach that city, Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson announced today.

Addressing the House of Commons, Henderson said arrangements already had been completed for transferring a battalion of the troops now quartered at Hongkong to Shanghai, should it be deemed necessary.

Sidi, veteran of three marriages, the third with Prince Suad Chakir of Turkey, whom she deserted, has taken her fourth husband, 27-year-old Lieut. Roger Alan Gardner, U. S. Air Corps, graduate of West Point in 1925. They were married in Virginia.

U. S. WOMEN SEE PIRATE BATTLE

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—Details of a daring attempt by Chinese pirates to commandeer a British vessel today disclosed that three American women witnessed the battle.

While en route from Swatow to Hongkong, a band of Pirates who had boarded the steamer Haiching as passengers suddenly turned upon the officers and crew of the ship and a battle royal followed.

The first officer of the ship was mortally wounded and the third officer instantly killed. About a dozen of the pirates were killed, 25 wounded and the rest captured when the British destroyers Serapis and Sterling answered a radio call for help.

Many Chinese passengers were drowned when they jumped into the water in the heat of the battle on the deck. The pirates succeeded in setting fire to the ship before they were subdued.

When the ship arrived at Hong Kong, all the surviving Chinese passengers were arrested to determine who were in the bandit gang.

The three women, who with an Englishman, were the only non-Chinese passengers aboard, were uninjured, according to the reports.

A Central News dispatch from Hongkong states that a Mrs. Campbell and her two daughters, American missionaries, were the women aboard the Haiching. The Campbells had been captured by bandits last August in the interior of China and later were released.

Pursues Wounded Deer, Kills It With Knife

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 9.—Brad Walker, of South New Castle, killed his deer with a hunting knife.

After wounding the animal, which he shot in the Laurel Run district of Clearfield County, he gave chase and overtook it.

SIDI CHAKIR WED TO ARMY FLIER

FAIRFAX, Va., Dec. 9.—(INS.)—Sidi Chakir, nee Wirt, recently divorced wife of Count Chakir, was married here Saturday to Lieut. Robert A. Gardner, of the Army Air Corps.

Elton R. Holbrook, clerk of the County Court, performed the ceremony, which was a quiet one.

Gardner's bride was formerly the widow of John Spreckles, sugar multi-millionaire, and receptly was divorced from the count, whom she married in Constantinople. The marriage was her fourth.

The couple was accompanied by the 8-year-old daughter of the bride and Spreckles.

Mrs. Gardner gave her address as Reno, Nev., and Gardner was identified as from Hampton, Va.

TWO TOWN HALL SITES DEBATED

Company's Panhandle tracks. The letter also states that the two sites selected were unanimously agreed upon by the executive committee.

ULTIMATUM DISREGARDED

When the association appeared the last time before the Planning Commission it was directed to decide on one site and given 60 days additional time to pick out this one site.

What the attitude of the commission will be on the submission of two sites, after the ultimatum to the association to present one site, is a matter that several of those most interested in the action believe will precipitate a battle at this afternoon's meeting.

Youth Claims He Is Murder 'Victim,' Fiancee Skeptical

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—A young man who says he is Connie Franklin has sung "The Lonesome Pine" by request of the girl whom he regards as his fiancee and whose story that he was slain has resulted in the arrest of five men on charges of murder. At the request of the girl's father, the young man played "Turkey in the Straw" on a harp.

Yet neither the girl nor her father would admit yesterday that the young man was Connie, and the question of identity probably will be decided next week when the cases against the five men accused of torturing and burning Franklin to death are called to trial. Defense attorneys profess to welcome a trial.

Tillier Ruminer, 16-year-old mountain girl, had told authorities that she and Franklin were on their way to be married last March when a band of men mutilated and burned him and attacked her.

Yesterday she was confronted by a young man brought from Humphrey, Ark., who insisted he was Connie, her 23-year-old farmhand sweetheart.

Questioned, the youth gave detailed descriptions of the country, and recalled minor happenings with which, the spectators said, only Connie Franklin could be familiar.

The defense had the young man placed under $1,000 bonds for his appearance in court.

Defense attorneys charge that when Franklin suddenly dropped from sight last March, enemies of the accused men in an old feud conspired to convict them of murder, going so far as to place some old bones on an ash heap in the woods which Sheriff Johnson later found and held as evidence of Franklin's murder.

The defense attorneys said they would seek to prosecute the persons responsible for the torture murder story.

SENATE O. K. ON FISHER MAN SEEN

Governor's Appointee to Fill Vare's Place Will Be Accepted, Capital View

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—Any nominee of Gov. John S. Fisher to fill Pennsylvania's vacant seat in the Senate—whether it be William S. Vare, Joseph R. Grundy or a Grundy lieutenant—will be admitted and seated.

This was the sober judgment of party leaders on Capitol Hill today in the face of individual threats that a fight will be made to bar Grundy or any other appointee from the "Fisher-Mellon-Grundy" group. Most of the Senate's influential leaders declared the power of the Governor could not be assailed and that the credentials he would issue to a senator-designate would be sufficient to win that appointee a seat in the Senate.

TITLE CLEAR

"Unless it can be shown the seat was purchased from the Governor," observed Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, the insurgent leader, "his appointee would have a clear title to the seat."

The Capitol's politicians meanwhile were watching for Vare's next move.

Vare's purpose to enter the Pennsylvania primaries next May to regain his seat at the polls also attracted notice. The state's apparent sympathy for him would probably make him a victor. Then, despite his recent exclusion, he would be able to achieve his lifelong ambition of sitting in the United States Senate.

By W. I. GRUNDISH,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 9. — The appointment of a senator to succeed William S. Vare will not be made until after the funeral of Congressman W. W. Griest in Lancaster tomorrow, Gov. John S. Fisher stated definitely today.

Friends of the Governor, who must do the appointing and who has been deluged with telegrams and long-distance calls concerning it, declared that so far as they know he has not deviated from his plan to name Joseph R. Grundy, head of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association.

The governor received official notification from Vice President Curtis today that a vacancy exists in the Senate due to the ousting of Vare.

PINCHOT WAITING

Should the governor's appointee and Vare both be candidates at the spring primary there probably would be a factional split in the party organization, with Gifford Pinchot ready to step into the battle as a third man if the situation looks favorable to him. Such a situation would have the tendency to eliminate Francis Shunk Brown, Vare's counsel, as a possible candidate for governor.

JUDGE LINDSEY DISBARRED

duties as Juvenile Court judge, and that he merely acted as an arbitrator and mediator.

Lindsey was ousted several years ago as judge of the Denver Juvenile Court following charge of ballot box stuffing in an election at which he was chosen on the face of the results. Since then he has devoted most of his time to lecturing and writing, and was the object of commendable as well as severe criticism for his advocacy of companionate marriage and birth control.

According to attorneys, Lindsey has no appeal from the decision of the state's highest court, and he will be barred from practicing his legal profession in the state henceforth.

UNJUST—UNTERMYER

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Samuel Untermyer, who represented Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes in the controversy growing out of Stokes' will, when informed that Judge Ben B. Lindsey had been disbarred, said, "I believe it to be a gross injustice."

He declined to make any further comment.

WAGE TAX CUT HELD SURE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Downward revision of taxes on earned incomes and on surtaxes is certain to result from the impressive demonstration staged under the sponsorship of the Hearst papers here Saturday.

This has been generally conceded by members of the Senate and the House following the presentation of petitions signed by more than 1,000,000 persons who earn their livelihood by their brains and their hands, seeking a relief from the existing tax burden.

"There is no doubt that presentation of the mammoth petition gave tremendous impetus to the movement," was the comment of Senator Reed Smooth, of Utah, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

HAWLEY AGREES

It was Senator Smoot, who with Congressman Willis C. Hawley, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committe, who received the petition on the steps of the capitol in behalf of Congress.

Congressman Hawley likewise expressed the opinion that the drive for further tax relief had been forcibly impressed upon members of Congress through the medium of the petitions gathered by the 28 Hearst newspapers.

IMPRESSED BY PETITIONS

Other members of both the Senate and House emphasized tht the need for materially lightening the tax burden upon salaried people, and especially upon the professional man and woman, had been impressed upon them by the petition presentation.

While it was generally agreed that the object sought by the petitions could not be attained in connection with the $160,000,000 cut now pending, there was unanimity of opinion that the further reduction had been brought a long step nearer.

The pending resolution, it was pointed out, merely makes the same 1 per cent reduction on earned incomes that it does on unearned incomes. The taxpayer who earns his living is therefore given no greater relief than the taxpayer who cuts coupons for his living.

TWO SENATORS SWORN IN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Patrick J. Sullivan, of Cheyenne, Wyo., was administered the oath of office in the Senate today as successor to the late Senator Francis E. Warren, of Wyoming, but his credentials were referred to the Committee on Elections for consideration.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, assistant Democratic leader, said doubt had been expressed of the power of the Wyoming Governor to make an appointment under Wyoming law, although he was convinced that the appointment was legal.

Because of the uncertainty held by some, Walsh, however, asked that Sullivan's credentials be referred to the committee.

Sullivan's appointment is only temporary as Gov. Emerson has called a special election for next month to select a successor to Warren.

David Baird, Jr., of Camden, was sworn in as a senator from New Jersey, succeeding Walter E. Edge, who resigned to become ambassador to France.

Gov. Larson, of New Jersey, who appointed Baird, a Republican, accompanied him to the Senate floor. Larson has announced that Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, will take Baird's seat when Morrow has concluded his duties with the American delegation to the London naval parley early next year.

Good Hat 'Swiped' While Governor Sees Hoover

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—While Gov. Louis L. Emmerson (Rep.), of Illinois, conferred with President Hoover at the White House today, somebody got away with his hat. The Illinois governor was forced to return to his hotel with a headgear which he described as "much too big and much inferior in quality."

Emmerson discussed with the President the completion of the final link in the Illinois River project, a 62-mile strip between Lockport and Utica.

Boy, 16, With Gun, And Pal Arrested

Unable to give a satisfactory explanation of a revolver found in their possession when arrested late yesterday, Richard Johns, 16, of 2709 East street, and James Foltz, 22, of the same address, were held over in Morals Court today.

The youths were arrested in a restaurant at Liberty avenue and Smithfield street when they were unable to pay for a meal they had eaten. Patrolman Thomas Lawence, who arrested them, said he found a revolver in Johns' pocket.

Italy Names Envoys To Naval Conference

ROME, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—The Italian delegation to the five-power conference in London next month, unless there are eleventh hour changes, will be composed of Foreign Minister Grandi, Admiral Sirianni, minister of the navy; Admiral Acton, who participated in the Washington naval conference, and Ambassador Bordanaro, whose post is at London.

There will be numerous advisers and experts, among them Minister Plenipotentiary Augusto Rosso, formerly counsellor of the Washington embassy, and Capt. Ruspoli, who also participated in the Washington conference.

YOUNG FAVORS WIRE COMBINE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—A single giant American communications company, serving the world, would give America the cheapest and most efficient service, Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric Company and the Radio Corporation of America, told the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today.

Called to give expert advice on proposed legislation for the administration of all communications agencies, Young said competition in the communications field was ruinous rather than helpful to the industry. He explained competition in this field necessitated useless duplication of facilities and resulted in unduly high rates. The communications industry, he added, was not yet ready for government control.

Adequate supervision of the government by legislation, he said, was all that was necessary at present.

Young told the committee he would like to see the Western Union Telegraph Company and the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, which carry on a foreign communication business, united under governmental regulation for the transmission of messages by telegraph.

Under present law, consolidations are prohibited, but Young said that if Congress should hesitate to permit unification of American communication facilities with foreign countries, the government itself ought to take over control and operate a single system.

The committee is considering the Couzens bills authorizing a special governmental commission for the administration of all legislation concerning communications facilities.

'TALKIE' ROUTS BANDITS

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—A ghostly voice from a talking movie today prevented the robbery of a Brooklyn theater and probably saved the life of a watchman. The watchman was being tortured by robbers in view of his father in an effort to have the latter reveal the combination of the office safe when the "talkies" scared the intruders away.

Three robbers entered the B. F. T. Theater in Brooklyn early today, overpowered Edward Jones, a watchman, 68, and then when his son, Charles, also a watchman, went to look for his father they overpowered and disarmed him.

Strapping the two men in orchestra seats one of the robbers placed a cord around the younger man's neck and started to draw it tight.

"Tell us the combination of the safe," they demanded of the elder Jones. "I don't know it," the father replied.

The robbers gave another twist to the cord. Just then a faint sound of voices was heard. One of the robbers opened the door to the manager's office and the voices became louder. Frightened, the men ran to an exit and escaped.

Releasing themselves from their bonds, the two watchmen investigated. Far back on the stage they found electricians working on the "talkie" mechanism which had been out of order.

Gen. Bullard Gains After Heart Attack

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Maj. Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, retired, who suffered a slight heart attack a few days ago, was reported at his home to be making slow but steady progress toward recovery.

"He is making slow—not too slow—but steady recovery," Miss Rose Bullard, the General's daughter, said. "He has not had a relapse and is feeling very much encouraged."

SENATE DELAYS TAX CUT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Immediate consideration of the $160,000,000 tax reduction resolution in the Senate was blocked today by Senator Black (Dem.), of Alabama, when Chairman Smoot, of the Finance Committee, asked that it be taken up ahead of the tariff measure and voted upon by tomorrow at 4 p. m.

Smoot was prepared to act on an offer from leaders of the Democratic-Republican independent coalition in charge of the tariff measure to give the tax resolution right of way under an agreement providing for a limitation of debate.

But, as he proposed the agreement, Black objected. The Alabaman gave no explation, and a program for disposition of the tax resolution was temporarily unsettled.

Later Senator Black announced he would oppose any tax reduction unless the Senate provided in the same agreement for consideration of the Muscle Shoals issue.

Teacher Beaten to Death, 5 Dead Cats Also Slain By Clubber Are Clues

International News Service.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Dec. 9.—An attractive young school teacher mysteriously slain in her bedroom, the arrest of a well-known Rockford dentist formerly prominent in Hollywood for questioning, five dead cats found in his automobile and a dead mouse found in his pocket, today presented a weird kaleidoscope of events to police attempting to solve the mysterious slaying.

The school teacher, Miss Cordelia Gummersheimer, was found apparently clubbed to death with an iron pipe which the slayer had obtained not far from her apartment.

The imprint of a man's band upon her body, a footprint on the bedspread and fingerprints on the pipe were the only tangible clues police had to work upon.

"INTOXICATED TWO WEEKS"

The dentist, Floyd Leach, 36, had been intoxicated for two weeks, police said, and was unable to account for his actions during that time.

An extradition hearing is scheduled for January 6, when a judge will rule upon the request of California authorities that the dentist be brought back to Los Angeles to face charges of deserting an invalid wife.

Leach is under $1,000 bond.

SEEKING ANOTHER

State's Attorney Knight insisted Leach was held only for questioning, to learn if he had seen anyone leaving or entering the apartment in which Miss Gummersheiner lived. While he admitted another man was sought, State's Attorney Knight would not divulge the man's name.

CATS CLUBBED, TOO

Police said the five cats had been clubbed over the head with a pipe. The manner in which the mouse met death is not known.

The office in which the dentist worked is next to the apartment building of the teacher.

The body was discovered by three girls, whom Miss Gummersheimer was to have given German lessons.

She had been dead about 18 hours, physicians declared.

Leach is an ex-service man and has been practicing dentistry in Rockford about a year, coming here from Hollywood, where he was said to have been the dentist for many prominent moving picture stars.

MAN'S LETTER FOUND

Police found more than 100 letters in the slain woman's apartment. Many of them were from Glen Wiseman, vice president of the Tugwell & Wiseman, Inc., with offices at Modeltown, N. Y., and Tarpon Springs, Fla.

In a telegram received by a Rockford newspaper today from Tarpon Springs and signed "Glen Wiseman" a copy of the paper with an account of the slaying of Miss Gummersheimer was requested.

"CLOSE FRIENDS"

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Glen Wiseman today expressed regret when told of the slaying of Miss Cordelia Gummersheimer at Rockford, Ill. Wiseman said he had not been engaged to the girl, but that they had been close friends for a number of years.

Origin of the fire was not determined. Equipment, including saws and cranes, was damaged.

2 Die in Explosion at Liquid Asphalt Tank

EVERETT, Mass., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Two men were killed today in an explosion at the plant of the Trimount Oil Company, and several others were reported injured. The explosion occurred in a tank from which a truck was being loaded with liquid asphalt. Force of the blast shook the neighborhood.

Coolidge Sought As States' Claim Arbitrator

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—The appointment of former President Calvin Coolidge, now Attorney Coolidge, of Northampton, Mass., as special master to take testimony in the law suit between New Jersey and Delaware over the ownership of subaqueous lands in the Delaware River near Newcastle, was proposed in Supreme Court today by Duane Minard, assistant attorney general of New Jersey.

"We want a lawyer who will get in the atmosphere of 1664 and one with sagacity, intelligence and time. The English Magna Charta is involved."

Chief Justice Taft chuckled broadly and took the suggestion under advisement.

2 Jailed in New Dry Raid At Harvard Dormitory

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Prohibition sleuths paid their second successive week-end visit to the vicinity of Harvard University, when a squad of local police entered an apartment in exclusive Fairfax Hall to seize 20 gallons of alleged liquor.

Two men were arrested charged with keeping and exposing liquor for sale. They identified themselves as John O. Ware, 29, and Edward Dunlin, 34.

Neither is connected with Harvard, although many Harvard students live there.

Just a week ago Federal prohibition agents arrested two alleged bootleggers outside of Russell Hall after Harvard students had complained to Maj. Henry E. Goodnough, assistant prohibition administrator, that persistent liquor salesmen were becoming nuisances in the dormitories.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Charges of disorderly conduct against nine University of Michigan students as the result of a raid on an alleged liquor resort yesterday were withdrawn today after a conference between the students and police officers.

Carl H. Stuhrburg, prosecuting attorney, told the students they might be called as witnesses against William Morgan, 50, operator of the place where the raid was made.

BOY PRISONER STUDY URGED

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—As a result of the recent murder of a 17-year-old boy in Sing Sing prison, a bill providing for the appointment of a commission to study the question of juvenile incarceration has been drawn and will be presented to the New York Assembly next year.

This announcement has been made coincident with the assurance of a majority of Assemblymen that a bill of this nature would be supported by them.

The bill has been drawn by Assemblyman Fiorello S. Morar and designates that a temporary commission, consisting of nine members shall make the study. It is provided in the bill that three members of the commission shall be appointed by the Governor, three by the temporary president of the Senate and three by the speaker of the Assembly.

Strong support of the bill was indicated by a number of Assemblymen. Among these was Assemblyman John A. Bines, Twelfth District, Manhattan, who said:

"What chance is a young boy to reform when he is thrown in daily contact with men who are veterans in crime. I will support Assemblyman Moran's bill in the next Assembly which is designed for the correction of this situation."

The stabbing of 17-year-old Reuben Kaminsky in Sing Sing prison focused public attention on the fact that the boys are confined in the institution alongside hardened adult criminals. Young Kaminsky was fatally stabbed during a "line up" of prisoners last Sunday.

U. S. DRUG FLOW AT NEW PEAK

By KENNETH CLARK.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Flaunting the advice of leading physicians that less narcotics be used in the treatment of disease, the federal government permitted increased quantities of these dangerous drugs to enter the country during the year ended June 30, 1929, Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran revealed in his annual report.

The narcotics unit is a branch of the prohibition bureau. Under a bill by Representative Porter (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, the two services would be divorced and a seperate narcotics bureau created in the Treasury Department.

INCREASES SHOWN

Imports of raw opium, from which morphine and other drugs are manufactured for medicinal purposes, totaled 144,925 pounds during the year, compared to 140,172 last year. In addition there were imported 242,834 pound of coca leaves, from which cocaine is made, an increase of 8,552 pounds over 1928.

The 1929 imports give the United States a greater per capita consumption of narcotics than reported by any other of the leading world nations. The United States makes no scientific survey of its medical requirements for narcotics.

The report showed that little progress was made during the year in checking the practice of the government in settling narcotics violations for cash.

PAINTS DARK PICTURE

Doran painted a dark picture of the illicit dope traffic. Narcotic smugglers and peddlers, he asserted, are becoming so expert in supplying dope to America's thousands of addicts that "greater difficulty is experienced in making cases against them." He added:

"Smuggling and subsequent illegal selling of opium, morphine, heroin and cocaine continue to constitute the principal enforcement problem. These drugs may evidently be purchased readily in Europe and Asia, because drug addicts in the United States so far apparently have not suffered generally from any great shortage of their drugs."

First of 5 Women Radium Poison Victims Dies

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—An autopsy established that radium poisoning was a contributory cause of the death Saturday of Mrs. Quinta McDonald, of Orange, N. J., one of five women poisoned by radium in a New Jersey factory several years ago.

Mrs. McDonald, the mother of two children, died at Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient for 10 weeks. She and the four other women were poisoned by using their lips to point brushes with which they painted luminous watch dials.

CHILDS TO FORM NEW CHAIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—William Childs, ousted head of the chain of restaurants that bear his name, is organizing a new chain of restaurants.

He and a group of associates have taken over the premises of an old restaurant on upper Broadway, where the first of the new restaurants will be opened.

William Childs, who, with his brother, the late S. S. Childs, 40 years ago began the chain of eating places which now is a $37,000,000 company with 120 restaurants all over the country, retired from active participation in its operation last March 7, when a majority of stockholders' votes was cast against his policy of subordinating meat to vegetarian dishes.

WORLD COURT PACT SIGNED

League of Nations, the court took its existence and became effective not by action of the league, but under a statute and protocol separately signed by over 50 states, not all of whom are league members. It thus owes its existence to the independent authority of those signatory states."

Representative Porter (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said today he seriously doubted the wisdom of the United States in joining the World Court unless reservations previously proposed by the Senate were adhered to.

He said he considered the Root formula a poor substitute for Senate reservation five, and asserted that the majority of the people of the United States did not wish to become entangled in the political affairs of Europe.

U. S. SIGNS

GENEVA, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—The United States government today, subject to ratification and approval by the United States Senate, became a signatory to the World Court.

Jay Pierrepont Moffatt, American charge d'affaires at Berne, Switzerland, acting under the authority of President Hoover, affixed his signature to three historic documents signifying the United States' adherence to the world tribunal, conditional only upon the consent and approval of the Senate.

There was an almost total absence of ceremony. Moffatt signed in the presence of Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League of Nations, and Under Secretary Buero.

Moffatt signed three separate documents at 3:20 p. m. (9:20 a. m. Pittsburgh time). One of these documents was the original World Court protocol. The second embodied the revisions made in the original protocol by member nations and the third set forth the reservations under which the United States agreed to enter the court.

Five Stores Robbed In City-Wide Thefts

Five minor robberies were reported to police today.

Robbers forced a door to enter the Brunswick-Collender Company store, 957 Liberty avenue, where an electric drill valued at $100 was stolen. Men's apparel valued at $50 was stolen from the Levitt and Goldenberg store, 817 Fifth avenue. In the George Green store at 213 Fifth avenue, burglars climbed through a transom window and took $50 worth of apparel.

Cigarets and candy worth $50 were taken from the P. H. Butler store at 437 Atwood street. Several air rifles were stolen by robbers who forced a door to gain entrance to Stanier Brothers store at 4739 Second avenue.

LAWYERS SEEK DAVIDSON FEE

had, by returning $386,000 to the estate, admitted the sum was an overcharge.

Attorney Earl F. Reed, first witness, detailed the labor involved in unraveling the tangle into which it is claimed the estate had become involved by Wasson and Calvert. He characterized some of the charges against the estate as "extravagances and misappropriation of funds." He reviewed all the allegations made in the original complaint of Mrs. Davidson's mother.

FORMER FEES CITED

Through the efforts of the present plaintiffs, $386,000 in cash and $25,000 in bonds, purchased out of estate funds, had been recovered from the former committee, Reed declared. He listed among the items, $99,000, comprising four years fees to Wasson and Calvert, and $55,000 with approximately $5,000 interest recovered by the estate from the government for excess income tax and charged, he alleges, against the estate as legal fees by the former committee.

Replogle and the law firm contend that in having Wasson and Calvert ousted as the committee they saved the estate $386,000. Numerous "irregularities and inaccuracies" were charged to Wasson and Calvert in their handling of the estate.

Mrs. Davidson is the mentally incompetent widow of Frederick Davidson, late president of the Union Drawn Steel Company.

Before Reed testified Judge Drew overruled McGirr's objection to counsel fees being paid in advance of an accounting of the estate from the new committee.

6 SENTENCED IN RUM RING

Two sets of Cambria County rum ring defendants pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to violate the liquor laws and were sentenced to jail terms in Federal Court today.

Ralph Facciani, John Podda, Emil Sciproni and Joe Ramini, all of South Fork, each were fined $500 and sentenced to six months each in the Cambria County jail by Judge Nelson McVicar after they had entered pleas. The court was informed that Albert Paul, another defendant, was ill in St. Francis Hospital and that Mike Facciani, a sixth, was ill at home.

James McCuster and William Wallace were sentenced to serve three months in the Cambria County jail.

Herbert Berkebile, who also pleaded guilty, was paroled. Two others, Henry Reitler and his son, William, also involved in the alleged conspiracy which included placing a dynamite bomb at the entrance of a whisky dugout near the Reitler farm, were convicted last week. They have not been sentenced.

Andrew Smeltzer, convicted last week of selling and possessing liquor at 528 Island avenue, McKees Rocks, was fined $300 and sentenced to three months in jail. Valentine Becker, found guilty of selling and possessing liquor at 437 Third avenue, was fined $500 and sentenced to four months in jail.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Dec. 9.—Willard Webster, 29, College Hill, has a slight wound on his scalp and a hole in his hat after an attempt at assassination. Webster was walking along the Pennsylvania Railroad near Fifth street, when a Negro hidden behind some bushes, fired at him, he told police.

Veteran Passenger Agent Succumbs

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 9.—R. B. Stevenson, 53, lifelong resident of Smith Township, is dead in his home at Raccoon after a long illness. For the past 23 years he had been a passenger agent for the Pennsylvania Railroad. He leaves his wife and four children.

Finance Company's Safe Foils Robbers

Thieves made an unsuccessful attempt to break open the safe of the Personal Finance Company, 6218 Penn avenue, last night, according to a report to detectives today. The safe crackers were probably frightened away after knocking off the combination, detectives said.

Man Buried Under Coal Revived In 2 Hours

STEUBENVILLE, O., Dec. 9.—After miners had rescued him from a coal bin in which he was buried when he lost his footing, Martin Kolcum, 18, loader at the Castner mine, was taken to the Ohio Valley Hospital where doctors and firemen saved his life after two hours hard work with a pulmotor.

Erskine Not Dead, Injured Or Shot, He Assures

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—Albert R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker Corporation, is not dead. Neither is he sick. In fact, he has not been shot. Furthermore he was not hurt in an automobile accident.

That comes from the highest authority—Mr. Erskine himself, who is at South Bend, Ind., personally disclssed with a reporter for the Chicago Herald and Examiner his reported death, illness, wounding, automobile injuries, etc.

"I am absolutely positive that I am alive and in good health," he mentioned. "If my word cannot be taken for that, I suppose I will have to have a physician sign a life certificate.

"This is definitely no time for me to be dead. I am too busy.

"Next year should be a banner time industrially. An upturn is sure to follow and we are prepared to capitalize on it."

2 FLIERS KILLED, PLANES BURN

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Two aviators were killed and two planes wrecked in the ninth attempt of the Monoplane Sealdsweet, of Florida, to set a new endurance record yesterday.

E. A. Dempsey and Stanley Smith, both of St. Louis, were killed when their machine, the refueling ship for the Sealdsweet, crashed at the Municipal Airport. The Sealdsweet, itself, groping in a fog with its fuel running low, fell into a pine tree in a woods near Kissimmee, Fla. Its pilots, R. W. Schrock, St. Louis and Chicago, and Leonard Carothers, Cedar Rapids, Ia., were injured slightly. Both planes caught fire.

The Sealdsweet, which had been in the air for nearly 24 hours, had sufficient gasoline to fly until 10 a. m. A half hour before the time limit was reached Dempsey and Smith took off with 80 gallons of fuel. Their heavily loaded machine turned over on its left wing as it skirted the field in an effort to gain altitude. It burst into flames and the two pilots were trapped in the cabin.

Carothers and Schrock walked several miles to Kissimmee after their accident and had cuts and bruises treated.

Dempsey was a former Western mail pilot and friend of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Smith was a licensed mechanic.

LAWYERS NAMED IN RUM RING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(INS.)—A sensational charge that U. S. Attorney J. D. E. Meyer, of South Carolina, headed a gang of narcotic and liquor smugglers, was investigated by the Department of Justice and resulted in a recommendation by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt that he be removed from office, she reported today to the Brookhart Patronage Committee.

Mrs. Willebrandt told the committee by letter, that she had reported to the Attorney General that the inquiry into Meyer's connection with this gang "discloses sufficient misconduct to warrant the dismissal of U. S. Attorney Meyer and of Deputy Marshal Hendricks." Her recommendation was never acted upon by the department.

The committee investigated Meyer's activities in connection with the sale of Federal offices in the South.

Hunter Found Killed West View Man's Kin

Arnold Edinger, 18, living on a farm between Foxburg and Parkers Landing, a cousin of C. V. Shoup, president of the West View Board of Trade, was shot to death while hunting near his home Saturday, according to word received in Pittsburgh yesterday. Neighbors found him hanging in the crotch of a tree. He dropped his gun while climbing, it is believed, the shell exploding as the weapon struck the ground.

Unusual Gifts

A Stocking Ambulance Is a Helpful Gift

A Stocking Ambulance is a compact leather case holding all the necessary implements for rendering first aid to an injured stocking. Silk threads in the fashionable colors, needles, scissors, tiny darners and a thimble are the standard equipment of most of the ambulances. A business woman would be glad to have one of these kits to keep at the office. Priced $2.00 to $5.00.

. . . Leather Goods, Main Floor . . .

The Bird World Poses for Ashtrays

Pelicans, sparrows, robins and some species not yet classified in standard ornithologies may be seen decorating bright colored ash trays. Some of the fatter birds look like Brazil nuts fastened together . . . and some appear more slender in a bakelite composition. A few more fantastic birds spread their fan-shaped tails and provide holders for cigarettes. Priced $1.95 to $10.00.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

Gay Hassocks for the Fireside

Hassocks are quite comfortable to sit on before the fire, or by a bookcase, or to use as a footstool. These new ones are attractive—covered in leatherette — round, square and octagon, in checkered and modernistic effects. Black combined with bright colors in most of them. Prices $1.55 to $12.50 each.

. . . Horne's, Fourth Floor . . .

Something New to Make

A footstool is such a useful gift for a man who has an easy chair . . . and this one, already padded, is walnut-finished . . . to harmonize with living room or bedroom furniture. A needle-point tapestry to cover the stool has a lovely center design. In less than an hour the cover may be tacked on the stool . . . and one has a unique gift! The stool is priced at $1.95 . . . the tapestry cover, $1.00.

Power Trust's Secret Lobbying Exposed

The Sun-Telegraph today publishes the first of a series of articles by Mr. [illegible] Washington correspondent of the Universal Service, telling of the secret activities of the Power Trust hitherto unknown to the public. An inside story of the power trust's operations in the country. The first story tells how payments of $69,000 to Dr. Pierce are believed to be a single power company contribution to a national fund to perpetuate control of water power by many private companies whose identity although known to the commission has not yet been disclosed. The story also tells how these payments are passed on to taxpayers and ratepayers as part of the "cost" of hydro-electric projects.

By M. L. RAMSAY,
UNIVERSAL SERVICE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The inside story of 10 years of Washington lobbying by Power Trust interests in the campaign to seize and exploit the enormous hydro-electric resources of the country was revealed today.

The cost of the lobbying has been written into the claimed "construction cost" of hydro-electric plants licensed by the federal and state governments. In an attempt to charge it up to electric consumers and taxpayers.

This attempt has been blocked at least for the time being and insofar as the federal power is concerned, by refusal of the Federal Power Commission's accounting division and the Alabama Public Service Commission to approve such charges.

These facts were disclosed in a sweeping investigation by the Federal Commission still in progress.

Records of the investigation have been examined by Universal Service, one of the Washington and Birmingham offices of the Alabama commission. They show that:

About $68,000 of the lobbying expense, with millions of dollars of stock allowed to be nearly all water, was charged by the Alabama Power Company into the cost of its hydro-electric projects, including Mitchell Dam, a project on the Coosa River in Alabama, and to be built soon, all of which completed under the Federal Water Power Act of 1920.

Billion Involved

Financing of Mitchell Dam was to be a precedent for the financing of other projects throughout the country, ultimately involving cost and value claims of at least $5,000,000,000.

Power companies of the country made up a fund for Henry J. Pierce of New York, as a reward for his seven years' work in Washington promoting and helping to frame water power bills.

The Alabama Power Company, paying $7,000 as its share of this fund, charged this amount to the construction cost of Mitchell Dam. This cost is substantially the price the federal or state government must pay, under the Water Power Act, to take over the plant 50 years hence. It is an important element in determining the rates consumers must pay meanwhile.

Josiah T. Newcomb, veteran lobbyist and present head of the Washington Power Lobby, was paid $35,186 to see that after the Water Power Act was passed, the rules and regulations drawn by the Federal Power Commission to carry it out, were "reasonable." These rules and regulations, like the cost figures affected the power companies' profits and the price they would be paid upon "recapture" on the projects licensed.

The payments to Newcomb were in addition to the $35,000 a year paid him recently by the power lobby, as disclosed by the Federal Trade Commission.

C. A. Beasley, leading lobbyist and propagandist for power company operation of Muscle Shoals, was paid $27,268, Thomas W. Martin, Alabama Power Company president, said this was "legal services" connected with the handling of the Mitchell Dam license application before the Power Commission.

Secret Payment

The payments to Beasley and a large part of the payments to Newcomb were secret, appearing only on the records of a construction company to whose books the commissioners originally were denied access.

It is known that other portions of the Pierce fund have been charged by other companies into the cost of other projects. Payments to other lobbyists also have been so charged.

The Alabama Power Company payments to Newcomb and Beasley were charged to construction costs, like Pierce's $7,000, although they were in some instances allocated instead of being charged to Mitchell Dam alone.

Since the investigation has become more searching, the Alabama company has agreed to eliminate the secret payments to Newcomb and Beasley from its cost claims. On the other Newcomb payments, and its share of the Pierce fund, it is standing pat.

Pierce's lobbying activity centered about the proposed mammoth power development on the Columbia River in Washington State, greater than the Niagara Falls development.

He is president of the Western Irrigation and Development Company of Seattle, which, through the American Power and Light Company, is a part of the giant Electric Bond and Share Company group. The Alabama Power Company also is closely identified with this group.

Pierce's company has for eight years kept a grip on the Priest Rapids development site, on the Columbia, without beginning construction. A preliminary permit and a license it obtained have expired. It has an application pending before the Power Commission for a new license. Its project would have a capacity of 750,000 horsepower.

Item Rejected

The payment to Pierce was recorded in November, 1921. Power Commission accountants have rejected it as an item of construction costs. In a state valuation proceeding in Alabama it has been left for final determination by the commission, whose members have made statements indicating they will reject it.

Martin told the Alabama commission in a written and sworn statement, seeking to justify the charge, that Pierce "devoted a great deal of his time in Washington in consultation with engineers, bankers, government officials and developers in the preparation of a Federal Water Power act.

"In the course of his efforts different bills were passed either by the House or the Senate with the ultimate approval of both houses and the President."

Commissioner Lee asked at a hearing if Pierce had billed the Alabama company. Martin replied:

"No, sir. He got us together and put it up to us and told us he felt that he had rendered this service for the power companies of the United States, and that the companies ought to make some compensation to him. I accepted his statement and agreed to it, and was very glad to do so, because I think that he contributed to the public benefit, and it was a very modest amount that was finally paid to him."

The full amount of the Pierce fund has not been disclosed.

The Alabama company's direct and indirect payments to Newcomb, as found originally, amounted to $12,775 and were made in 1921 and 1922. They were for "services." Recently, in breaking down a lump sum "overhead" account of a construction company, investigators found $22,411 more. Company officials promptly agreed to eliminate this.

Works for License

Defending the $12,775 payments, Martin said Newcomb was retained for the preparation of a license application and the obtaining of a license. He continued:

"The development proposed by the Alabama Power Company at Mitchell Dam was an important one not only to the company but as a precedent with respect to regulations and conditions incorporated in the license under the discretionary administrative authority vested in the commission.

"Reasonable rules and regulations within the limits of the act were a matter of the greatest importance to the licensee, especially with respect to methods of financing and account and the ascertainment of net investment and other conditions which might or might not impose burdens on the licensee such as would embarrass satisfactory financing if not altogether defeat the development."

"Net investment" is substantially the "recapture" cost and an element in rate-making.

Martin added that the officers of the company made no mistake in enlisting the services of Mr. Newcomb.

Newcomb is the man who five years later was quoted by Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, as boasting:

Opposes Government

"I represent an investment of $7,000,000,000 and we do not propose to let the government enter the power business at Boulder Canyon."

Martin personally employed both Newcomb and Beasley, he testified. He could remember no contract or agreement with either, nor any correspondence which would show the nature of the work they did.

Beasley was paid $19,750 in 1921, 1922 and 1923, in the form of a salary ranging from $375 to $625 a month. He also got $6,861 for expenses and another payment of $657. These were charged to a construction company's overhead, whence about 40 per cent of the total was allocated to the cost of Mitchel Dam specifically. The payments were set down as for "legal services."

Beasley learned about power as secretary to the late Senator Bankhead, of Alabama. Upon Mr. Bankhead's death it was thought Beasley's services, as Martin said, "would be of great value to the company."

Martin's statement threw no night on the details of Beasley's activities, except that his Washington office became the "clearing house" for Mitchell Dam matters, and "he kept in constant touch with officers of the Federal Power Commission" regarding thet license application.

The second story of this series tomorrow will show how lobby payments and other outlays were kept secret and padded by charging them to dummy companies. This swelled the sums the government would have to pay to take over the power projects, and the "investment" which is an important element in fixing rates.

BEWARE OF DIETS WITHOUT BULK

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Will Protect You

People are more careful than ever before about diet. They diet to clear complexions. They avoid certain foods to stay thin. They eat others to get fat. But many are running a serious danger because they are missing the "roughage" or "bulk" foods that every person must have to keep well.

As a result, constipation gets in its deadly work. Headaches, listlessness, circled eyes are only the first symptoms. In the end, constipation ruins health, wrecks beauty and may cause serious disease.

Don't neglect your daily roughage. That is nature's rule. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply it. A healthful cereal to eat each day. To use in cooked dishes or to serve with milk or cream. To mix with other cereals.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—to prevent it. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It is 100% bran. Doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Rail Detective Held For Killing Boy, 16

DETROIT, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—George A. Jones, 42, a New York Central Railroad detective, was held on a charge of manslaughter today as the result of the shooting yesterday of Walter Driedzinla, 16. The boy, Jones said, died when he called on him to halt after discovering him on the roof of a Michigan Central Railroad platform. Jones said he fired once in the air and when the boy failed to heed this warning, shot at him. The bullet entered the boy's back.

GIRL, 11, HOLDS BIG FORTUNE

DENVER, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—An 11-year-old Denver girl has become the eventual owner of a million dollar fortune, the foundation for which was laid in a dubby-hole shoe shop in Colorado's early days, by a court decision in her favor against an aunt and uncle who contested the will of the girl's grandmother.

By the terms of the will Josephine Barth, granddaughter of Mrs. Georgia A. Barth, inherits the fortune after the deaths of her father, M. Allen Barth, Mrs. Alice Houghton, of Golden Hill, Mass., and James B. Rhodus, Denver, provided she is then 30 years old.

Meanwhile, the estate is held in trust, and the income from it is divided equally among the three. Mrs. Houghton and Rhodus, children of Josephine's grandmother by a previous marriage, contended in contesting the will that the girl's father, M. Allen Barth, unduly influenced his mother in making the will.

The girl's grandfather started building his fortune as a young German emigrant making hobnailed boots for miners. He died in 1918. His widow died October 2, 1928.

2,000-Year-Old Manuscripts in Bible Display

Ancient manuscrips, including Egyptian papyrus 2,000 years old and still legible, were used yesterday by Dr. W. C. Lyne in illustrating his lecture in observance of Universal Bible Day in the parish house of Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church.

In Dr. Lyne's collection also are illuminated manuscripts on vellum, many centuries old, and script rolls of the Torah (Pentateuch).

The lecture was under auspices of the Adult Department for Bible Study.

For 25 years Dr. Lyne has directed adult Bible study in the Third Presbyterian Church and his manuscript collection includes ancient Hebrew, Greek, Latin and old English versions of the Bible.

He declared that the Bible still is the "best seller."

Wilkinsburg Worker Killed at New Castle

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 9.—(INS.)—Edward Smith, 29, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., an employe working on construction of a water tank for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at New Castle Junction, is dead today from shock and burns he received when he came in contact with a high tension wire while at work.

Smith died last night in the hospital here. The shock knocked him from position on the tank and he fell 35 feet to the ground.

Declines Job on School Board

Joseph R. Dick, elected a member of the Wilmerding Board of Education at a special meeting, has declared his intention of not serving, and William B. A Glorious Gift to Cherish Through the Years

Perfect—Exquisite—Modern—Durable Little Instruments. Made with that care and attention to detail that insures a lifetime of unqualified satisfaction. Instruments worthy of a place in the finest homes—in the studios of the finest musicians—yet at a price positively lower than most poor pianos.

The manufacturer—urgently in need of immediate cash, offered this store three carloads—and three carloads only—at a price actually below factory cost.

The unprecedented opportunity is passed along to you at the most appropriate season. We urge immediate action. By all means come in tomorrow, or phone Fairfax 2600 or 2619 tonight between 6 and 9 o'clock. A deposit will hold your selection until Christmas.

The Importance of a Piano

Consider!... how rare is that musical performance that lacks a piano. Be it a jazz orchestra, an artist concert at Carnegie Hall, or the multitudinous musical entertainments in between—a piano is almost invariably a feature.

The little boy or girl studying music at school—the student of music in any one of its forms—vocal, instrumental — harmony, rhythm—finds a piano to be more than a great help—it is practically indispensable.

A piano is the basic musical instrument—the most universally used musical instrument—the only musical instrument embodying all the elements of musical art—melody, harmony, rhythm.

A piano is highly important to the "completeness" of a home.

PIANO COURSE OFFERED FREE

New methods of teaching have made it possible to learn the fundamentals of playing the piano in three months. Formerly, it took two years to learn the tedious mechanics of the art.

The Wurlitzer Music Foundation has recently conducted classes in other cities, using the new teaching means. A duplicate of a piano keyboard is given the pupil, and he learns the keys by playing simple melodies. No sound comes from the keys to confuse the student.

As he learns the keyboard by playing melodies, he soon learns the designation of each key. In a short time, his fingers can execute the standard combinations of chords easily and rapidly. These exercises, including learning of many melodies, take three months. They used to take two years, or more.

OPEN TO EVERYBODY

In Pittsburgh, the Sun-Telegraph is offering, through the Wurlitzer Foundation Piano School, these lessons to everybody. Men, women and children can now learn the hardest part of playing the piano—without expense, other than $2.50 for keyboard, music and general supplies. These become the property of the pupil, of course.

In order to take this course of lessons, you need only find three friends who are not reading the Sun-Telegraph and have not subscribed to it for the last 30 days. Ask these friends to order the Sun-Telegraph, daily, or daily and Sunday, for home delivery. When you have secured three subscriptions you may start the lessons right away.

You do not need to collect anything for these orders. The carriers will do that. To make it easier to obtain the class, day, and hour you wish, you may enroll in the school as soon as the Sun-Telegraph has started delivery on your first order. The other two subscriptions may be handed in between the time you enroll and your first class.

KNOWLEDGE VITAL

Whether you want to play the piano, violin, saxaphone, clarinet, or some other instrument, some knowledge of the piano is absolutely necessary. Great musicians say it is impossible to appreciate good music without a knowledge of the fundamentals of the piano.

Enroll in the Wurlitzer Foundation Piano School at your earliest opportunity. Modern methods will enable you to cover the early ground faster than ever before. The Sun-Telegraph has enabled you to take the course which sold in other cities for $25, without cost to you.

PIANO COURSE BOMBING FATAL TO 3 CHILDREN

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Police today were investigating the bombing of a Brooklyn home yesterday which cost the lives of three children.

The bomb was of the lethal type and of tremendous destructive force. Police believe the assassin, with cold-blooded intent, had planned to wipe out a family of seven which occupied the house.

The dead are: Mary Falzone, 15, killed instantly; Philip Falzone, 13, killed instantly; Rose Falzone, who died on the way to a hospital.

The mother, Mrs. Jenny Falzone and two children escaped the blast, as did the father, Joseph Falzone, who was said to be away on a hunting trip. The father returned late last night and was questioned by police. He was later released.

Behind the brutal murder run strangely divergent clues. These include two Blackhand extortion letters, Falzone had told police he received, demanding $6,000 and ordering him back to Italy.

As a strange sidelight to the affair, detectives were investigating the story told them by Mrs. Fay Stoehrer, of Brooklyn. This concerned a six-year romance with Falzone and the birth of a son whose parentage she lays to him.

The deadly instrument, fashioned with the cunning of an expert, had been timed to explode at 8:45 a. m. and had been placed on the table in the kitchen, where the entire family usually were to be found at that hour.

It happened by merest chance that Mrs. Falzone and her two youngest children, Pasquale, 5, and Sally, 3, were on the upper floor of their two-story stucco house when the blast occurred. Otherwise they would have been included in the slaughter.

The neighborhood for blocks around was shaken by the blast.

Church, 3 Other Buildings Burn

GLYNDON, Md., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The Glyndon Methodist Episcopal Church, its parsonage and Sunday School buildings and the home of G. W. Arnold, president of the Baltimore County Fire Association, were destroyed by fire which broke out shortly after 10 o'clock last night, entailing a loss estimated at $75,000. It is thought that the blaze started from an overheated furnace in the basement of the church.

Sisters Give $5,000 For Masonic Temple

STEUBENVILLE, O., Dec. 9.—Two sisters, Misses Mary and Jennie Prentiss, headed the subscription list at the opening of the Steubenville Masonic Temple campaign with a gift of $5,000 as a memorial to their father, the lat Capt. Benjamin Prentiss.

Initial gifts totaled $55,000. The order seeks to raise $150,000 for the new temple fund.

Old Idea of Hell Makes Atheists, Says Pastor

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—The Rev. Dr. John Thompson, eminent churchman and pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, is convinced that the old idea of hell has been a factor in the making of atheists.

"It is impossible," he declared "for the universal heart to accept a God that would shut men up in a place of torment forever and ever.

"Clemenceau revolted from that kind of a God. So did Voltaire and so does the world heart. We have traveled far from the Old Testament idea of God. We have seen Jesus and he has shown us the Father, and that satisfies the human heart."

MRS. J. M. SULLIVAN

REM unanimous choice for coughs

The first that Mrs. J. M. Sullivan of 3113 Hillcrest Ave., Cleveland, knew about REM was when her brother told her about it. It had ended a bad cough for him and he thought it would do as much for her. It did. And it went even further. As Mrs. Sullivan herself puts it: "My mother, father, husband and myself all get coughs at times during the winter, but the bottle of REM we keep in the house always relieves us and we wouldn't be without it." Simple coughs usually yield to a single bottle, and that is why REM is so economical, despite the fact that it contains a special ingredient too costly for ordinary cough syrups. If REM doesn't relieve you promptly, your druggist is authorized to return your money. What could be fairer than that?

SONG RACKET, BLONDE IN ENRIGHT

By CLARENCE I. GRUNDISH

Alan Hale is on on the Enright screen this week as a song racketeer whose chief weakness is women. A blonde and a brunet are prominent in the foreground. And this Alan though he isn't as young and shall we say, as attractive as he used to be, has a way about him with the ladies. Incidentally he goes in for a lot of "necking" and some of it isn't so very nice.

The picture is titled "Red Hot Rhythm" and it takes a slant on the song racket. Hale is seen as a smart, but quite likable fellow, who promises to publish songs for budding composers, provided they furnish half of the cash. But, as it turns out he isn't so clever after all. While he's making suckers out of would-be composers, the above-referred-to blonde is putting it over on him. She is a gold-digging miss who fools him into thinking she's the personification of Little Innocence.

SONGS AND COLOR

Josephine Dunn portrays the blonde and Kathryn Crawford (we don't recall having seen her before) plays the brunet—a night club entertainer who also is a big interest in Mr. Song Racketeer's life. And Miss Crawford is a pleasant surprise. She has talent and she can sing.

The production, tending to farce—and at times to slapstick—packs a lot of laughs. Yet as a screen story, it doesn't measure higher than the usual program "stuff." It has five or so song numbers, several of them pretty good and has a couple episodes in color.

SPICES BY MR. MILLS

"Spices of 1929" is the Jay Mills stage show. Mr. Mills starts off in a chef outfit, says "hello everybody," and from then on steps up the entertainment merchants in the usual M. C. style. He contributes a soft shoe dance and helps in a piano display with Milton Slosser. Imported entertainers include two fellows who are clever on saxophone and another of the golf diners and another team that is the last word in "sillies." The Enright Rockettes romp from bal boxes, step and prance. The band does a specialty on "True Blue Lou." Also there's an organ logue by Mr. Slosser.

Hours They Begin

Hours at which feature films at the Pittsburgh theaters begin today in accordance with the following time schedule:

PENN—"Romance of the Rio Grande"—10:44 a. m., 1:43, 4:29, 7:14, 9:59, 10:14 p. m.

STANLEY—"Half Way to Heaven"—11:30 a. m., 1:30, 4:11, 6:57, 8:13, 10:59 p. m.

ALDINE—"A Song of Kentucky"—9:46, 11:45 a. m., 1:52, 3:50, 5:58, 9:02, 10:04 p. m.

GRAND—"Glorifying the American Girl"—10:47 a. m., 1:04, 3:21, 5:38, 7:55, 9:05, 10:12 p. m.

ENRIGHT—"Red Hot Rhythm"—1:55, 4:14, 6:35, 8:56, 10:35 p. m.

HARRIS—"Woman to Woman"—1:30, 3:54, 6:27, 8:50 p. m.

SHERIDAN SQUARE—"Rio Rita"—12:05, 2:32, 5:00, 7:31 and 9:50 p. m.

Triangle

Betty Compson is one point of a triangle in "Woman to Woman," offered as the Harris screen feature.

MONTAGUE LOVE "DOUBLES" UNWITTINGLY IN CAFE FOR IRVIN COBB

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright 1929—By Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9.

MR. AND MRS. MONTAGUE LOVE traipsed to Caliente for the week-end. That night they dined in pre-war comfort, topping off a demi-tasse with a liquor. The waiter had been most adroit and agile in serving them. After removing the liquor glasses, he placed another at each place.

"I have admired your work for so long, sir," he said to Love. "Would it be presumptuous of me to serve you this as a token of my esteem?"

Monty didn't think so. The waiter then asked him to autograph the menu card. His wife, he added, saved famous autographs. Monty scrawled his name. An expression of acute dismay flitted across the waiter's face.

"Oh," he moaned, "I thought you were Irvin Cobb!"

Mr. Love, still a little stricken, manages to heavy in "Back Pay" with Corinne Griffith.

Three Minutes By the Watch!

FINIS FOX is Eddie Carewe's brother. He writes Eddie's flick stories. Finis has one terrible weakness. Anybody who sends word into his office that he is from Oklahoma and wants to see him can. Finis hails from the state Will Rogers helped make famous, and he opines its a kinda swell block of geography.

On this particular day, the information clerk brought in a card and explained the stranger's name by saying he was from Oklahoma.

"All right," nodded the busy Mr. Fox. "Send him in. I'll give him exactly three minutes."

In breezed a bluff, hearty soul. "I'm an author," he boomed. "I've got a story to sell you."

"We don't want any stories," said Finis, one eye on his watch.

"All right," good-naturedly. "I'm an actor. Can I get a job?"

"Okeh," unperturbed. "Look. I got some fine, undiluted white horse whisky. How about it?"

That guy deserved to make a sale.

Adventure On High Seas

Mr. and Mrs. Tay Garnett (Patsy Ruth Miller) set out to sea with a few friends in their yacht. Something happened to the lighting system. Came night. A rather dim lantern was hung on the masthead. Bime by a speed craft hove into view, a machine gun mounted on the forward deck. The boat circled nearer and nearer to the yacht. Shadowy figures on the forward deck tripped the machine gun for action.

Patsy Ruth Miller

The Garnetts et al didn't know what the heck—pirates, bootleggers or hi-jackers. Tay, however, deciding to take no chances, ordered the motors stopped. They were. The speed boat drew along side. Three men stepped on deck. They were armed. They flashed revenue badges. They searched the Garnett boat. No liquor. Apologies. Explanations. Introductions. Capt. Stanley W. Gardner, with Seamen Edward Engle and Floyd Smith aboard revenue cutter CG901, were out to enforce law.

Tay established his identity. Whereupon Gardner dispatched his men to port for an electrician. The electrician repaired the lighting system of the yacht. "Better be careful about a light on the masthead in the future," Gardner advised. "Somebody's liable to take a shot at you."

They Call Con Eccentric Lad

They call Con Conrad eccentric. Mebbe because he's a song writer. Mabbe not. At all events, he trailed into a dog store on the boulevard. The salesman showed him two pups. "Fifty dollars each," he said. "Here's their pedigree." Conrad read the information. "I'll take 'em." He wrote a check. "For $150," he said. "They're worth more than a hundred dollars." Yep, they call Con Conrad eccentric.

TWO WOMEN PUT DRAMA IN HARRIS

By CHARLES A. EARLY

Although men have solved their problems as "man to man" for centuries back, both in fact and fiction, it remained for the movies to vary the theme to a woman angle. The result is "Woman to Woman," a talkie current in the Harris, in which Betty Compson carries through a psychological battle with Juliette Compton, her feminine rival.

It is a picture, despite adequate dramatics, good direction and a comprehensive supporting cast, which will not prove a box office smash. It has an unhappy ending.

Miss Compson does some of the most natural acting of her long screen career. George Barraud, male lead, does his best with an English accent that is obnoxious. Cawn't rawthers and words of like ilk spurt forth through the run of the film.

A WAR ROMANCE

Miss Compson plays Deloryse, a petite French cabaret dancer of World War Paris. She falls in love with Barraud, who is supposed to be a British officer on leave in Paris. He is called back to the lines 10 minutes before he was to have married Deloryse. He is wounded, suffers amnesia and forgets all about her existence. Some years later, Deloryse becomes famous and secures a London Music Hall engagement. The officer, who by this time has married a sedate English woman, cold and unemotional, one night attends the theater. And the sight of his old sweetheart returns his memory and complicates the film story.

Little Georgie Billings, who plays the juvenile lead, is good.

NEW GRAFF TALENTS

The stage presentation, under the supervision of Victor Graff, master of ceremonies, is better than usual. His Harrisonians play hot music and Graff displays some hidden talents as a singer and musician that he should have put to the fore long ago.

Especially good is Dolly Dalton, in character impersonations. The Six Rockets, a girl acrobatic act, presents novel ladder and athletic formations and the "Two Black Buzzards," a take-off on Moran and Mack, deserve laurels. An organlogue by Charley Mitchell and Fox Movietone News complete the bill.

PLAN BANQUET FOR ATHLETES

The committee in charge of the annual testimonial dinner to athletes of McKees Rocks and Stowe Township, has set January 14 and the Chartiers Heights Country Club as the place for the annual event.

Three athletes, Toby Uansa, Charley Winoski and Frank "Dundee" Rosger, will be guests of honor although all athletes in schools or colleges will be invited. Harry Howell is in charge of reservations and already has had many inquiries.

Ransom Money Vanishes Despite Presence Of Detectives

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Mary Patricia Dawn, young and beautiful, is in love with Guy Elliott, handsome aviator. Guy is perfecting a plane which old William Bryce is to manufacture. Pat meets Bryce's widowed daughter-in-law and wonders if Guy is intrigued by Barbara's beauty. Bryce sends Tom Burns, a workman, to jail for attempted robbery. Pat has gay times with Lee Templeton, young college student. Pat's father is stricken with pneumonia and dies. The family considers giving up the big house because of the heavy expenses. Guy, hoping to help the Dawns, tries to urge Bryce to manufacture his plane. He learns the old man has lost a fortune. Mrs. Dawn gives her life savings to Bryce to invest. Guy, fearing Bryce may use the money to cover his own losses, tries to recover it. Bryce reluctantly surrenders the bonds, swearing vengeance on Guy. He discontinues financing the airplane factory, but holds Guy to his contract which prevents another concern from selling Guy's plane. Billie Bryce is kidnaped. The same day a stranger makes off with Guy's plane with Pat in it. Guy disappears, the third person to vanish. Detectives find a few of Billie's hairs in Guy's abandoned automobile. Bryce receives a ransom note saying Billie will die unless $20,000 is paid. Bryce follows instructions given in the note and places the money at a designated spot.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"BY the time you receive this message the fate of your grandson will be settled. He will either be alive and well and soon again in your possession. Or he will be meeting death. It depends on whether or not you have followed directions. If you have placed the ransom according to the specified plan, then Billy Bryce will be found in a certain hotel, the name of which will presently be furnished you. Do not get excited by this delay. Do not whip the police into action. Any move in this direction will be fatal despite the payment of the ransom. Wait!"

Wait! Hank longer on this cross of anguish, the wind and the dark and the terror sweeping upon them from the Outposts of Hope. Hang through the black night with the vision of a child tortured, passing and passing until the very mind is seared, and in the glaring day while the sound of a child crying beats down the heart.

Barbara Bryce sat with her eyes closed and her hands pressed against them. She tried to shut out the wild and utter desolation into which she now sank. She murmured blankly: "I can endure no more . . . "

Her father-in-law came to her across great frozen spaces. His words echoed forlornly.

"Perhaps they took him away in the plane. They're holding him at a distance until sure of the ransom. It will take time to bring him back. See—this message was sent before the ransom could possibly have been acquired. Bear up. You will have Billy soon."

Ah—but suppose something goes wrong with their plan? Suppose they take the ransom and successfully make the getaway, but it becomes too difficult to return my child? Suppose that—Bryce flung a hand against his eyes. And suddenly sobbing caught the girl in his arms: "There is a God, Barbara. I have felt him these days—when that woman I would have cheated came—gave me life money. I felt His Spirit. He will not let our child be harmed.

"By now the money has perhaps been taken, Barbara, by now Billy is on the way back to us."

Crouched in the brush with the impenetrable dark pressing on them, men waited. They kept alert eyes in the direction of the flume. They couldn't see it, but they knew where it was.

Not a sound came from them. Little scurrying movements in the undergrowth, the snapping of a dry twig or the rustle of dead leaves broke sharply now and then through the black quiet. The watching men tightened their attention. They were poised and ready.

No one could reach that flume; no one could remove that square packet of bills without five men pouncing upon him. Other men were posted further up the hill. Any footfall, any human sound, however stealthy and guarded—instantly they would spring with flashlights and pistols upon the intruder.

No one could come up or down this foot path. And no machine would pass the highway for miles and miles on either side of the flume without first answering to the police.

Since 11 o'clock they had waited. One hour after the second ransom note arrived, the police of two counties lay in wait for the kidnaper of little Billy Bryce.

They threatened to kill the child if any watch was kept. Yes—kidnapers always give this warning. But if they mean to kill they will do this whether a ransom is paid or no. Hickman promised an agonized father to return his child alive if the money should be paid. It was paid. And the shocked world knows how Hickman's promise was kept. The Chicago kidnapers promised little Bobby Frank alive to his distracted parents. And the child lay dead in a culvert.

So the chief of police decided when he ordered the pick of his men to duty.

Pitchy dark tonight. Moon not due till 1:30. He could get his men out and stationed before the kidnaper arrived. Fellow was probably concealed somewhere near at hand. But they would use extreme caution. The darkness would aid their maneuver. They would mingle swiftly with the shadows. The main utterly quiet until the man should come for the money. Then all at once—seize!

And they would file in one by one so that the kidnaper would at first imagine he heard Bryce. He would suppose Bryce arrived early and moved about nervously waiting for the appointed hour before placing the ransom. Yes—they could accomplish the job! By morning the criminal would be caught.

At 12 o'clock or a little before this Bryce might be expected. Be prepared for this. His machine would be allowed to pass. It would be the only one which would be permitted to drive within a mile on either side of the flume's outlet.

A flashlight wavered over the trees. Then a nervous foot crunched heavily through the brush. Ten minutes before 12. That was Bryce. Anyone would have known the agitated, plunging steps.

Now his light touched on the flume—and now looking at his watch. Ten long ominous minutes. Midnight!

He laid the money with a definite thump in the mouth of the flume. Then reached down and felt it as though frightened lest the box be not placed at a correct angle.

Bryce hurrying away. His feet went stumbling along the fence. The echoes grew faint, now were lost. And the dark drew down in heavy silence.

Each man crouching there listened with burning intensity—each had his own theory. The kidnaper would follow immediately—almost in Bryce's shadow, seize the box and be gone.

Or he would wait hours—discourage any watcher who might, despite the warning, be lurking here. The kidnaper would come toward morning, after the police had given him up.

He would come up the footpath. This was the only easy approach.

But no, thought others, rejecting this, he would be hiding out there on the cliff and come stealing along the ledge—or he would slide along the flume.

But each was flamingly alert. A quarter of an hour and not even a squirrel moved.

Then a wind fluttered the dry leaves with disturbing rustle along the ground. The wind blew intermittently like this for an hour.

After 1 o'clock now, and cold. Bitter lying here against the moist October earth. At 1:30 the moon would rise. He must come before this.

But the light swept up and hung in the trees—a wan light that but dimly opened the shadows. No man could see his fellow, but after long searching they made out where the white fence ended. The flume was just there.

And just there the man must come for the ransom box. If he came by the cliff or the path he would step on that underbrush. They would all hear.

If he tried to slide along the flume, he would be caught in the arms of a man who sat out there.

No escape!

Hours went slowly—painfully. Only the wind fluttering a leaf—only a rat scampering over twigs.

Morning's approach — the gray light washing over the trees. Now they could see each other—now they glanced nervously to the flume.

Panicky—the fellow had lost his nerve, failed to come . . . But they must wait till dawn—till the sun rose.

Six-thirty. The captain of the squad moved stealthily to the flume. He reached down—then drew back with a start.

He turned with shock to his men. The next moment they were gathered about him. No one had approached that flume. But the ransom box was gone.

New Brooms

Scald new brooms in hot suds before using, as this will toughen the fiber. Always stand new brooms with the brush end up and the weight also, and I answered that impetuously.

"You know better than that," I said. "You always are wonderful about doing things for me."

He took a quick step toward me, his eyes alight. But I was not to know what answer he meant to make, for Harry Underwood's double knock sounded upon the door, and with an annoyed little exclamation, Dicky strode across the room to admit him.

Fay King Sees Little Joy Ahead for Wife of the Oft-Married Man

I COULD HAVE NO FAITH IN A MAN WHO SO EASILY CAN PUT OUT OF HIS LIFE A YOUNG WIFE AND THEIR LITTLE CHILD
I WAS NEVER REALLY IN LOVE UNTIL I MET YOU!
HOW CAN SHE EXPECT HIM TO CARE MORE FOR HER THAN HE DID FOR THEM?
IT IS USUALLY ONLY A MATTER OF TIME UNTIL SHE TOO FINDS HERSELF DESERTED FOR ANOTHER FAY KING

By FAY KING

THE GIRL who marries a man who has been married several times before is taking a great chance.

How can she fairly consider the woman before her who suffered unhappiness and neglect, and still figure that she will succeed where they failed.

A girl must have colossal conceit or blind confidence to marry such a man. Yet many do!

It is true some marriages have been a mistake, and a second marriage has proved happier. And men are not always alone to blame.

But a man who marries, and marries, and marries, and can readily turn from one wife to another proves him a bad risk.

He may as soon forget your child as he did that other little one he held so proudly in his arms.

Dicky Offers to Prepare Harry for Reading of Letter

TO GET hold of Harry Underwood, before Lillian waked, and warn him of her obsession concerning Charles Owen, was an easier thing to plan than to accomplish. That he was still in the "tiger trap" downstairs watching the man whom he suspected of being a lookout for the desperado members of Kenellos, who had sworn Prince Georges' death, I knew. And I also knew that under no circumstances could I go near that room which was being so artfully prepared as a lure for the men bent upon murdering the young heir to the throne of Trees.

There was but one thing to do, and that was to appeal to Dicky, much as I disliked asking him to do anything for me. I thankey my particular little joss when I saw that he was seated by the window reading, so far from our "international romantic quartet" that they could not hear my murmured appeal to him even if they were not engrossed in a game of bridge.

I crossed the room and leaned over his chair with the air of careless cordiality which we always assume toward each other in public.

"Oh, the very latest!" I exclaimed. "Tell me, do you think a 'ghost writer' did it, or is she the real goods in authors?"

Before he could answer, I murmured quickly:

"Must see you at once. Our apartment."

He took my cue quickly, laughed to cover my words.

"A 'ghost writer' is my guess. But it isn't worth wasting time on from any standpoint. I'm going to quit right here."

He closed the book, rose and stretched his arms.

"I'm going to beat you to it," he announced in tones sufficiently loud to attract the attention of the bridge players "No, I haven't all my unpacking done, but I'll finish it right away, if you'll come along and help me."

"I'll be charmed." I laughed, and as we passed the players, Mary wrinkled her nose at me.

"Atta—girl, Auntie Madge!" she said. "Just you keep Uncle Dicky's nose to the grindstone. He's like all the men—lazy things—there isn't one of 'em but needs some woman after him with a hickory switch."

The other three looked up at her sally, and I had a good view of their separate reactions to the nonsense. Noel patently recognized it as such and laughed promptly with evident enjoyment. Prince Georges also laughed indulgently, but not before a puzzled questioning expression had appeared in his eyes, an expression which lingered despite his mirth. But Princess Olive's smile was distinctly supercilious and disapproving.

Dicky must have seen what I did, but to my relief he made no comment upon it. Instead he played into my hands as soon as the door of our own apartment had closed upon us.

"What's on the alleged mind?" he asked.

"I must see Harry before Lillian does, and without her knowing it," I told him, then hurriedly explained. He listened attentively to my hurried story of Marion's surprising news concerning Charles Owen and Lillian's reaction to it, and nodded approvingly when I related what I had said concerning the man.

"It's a good lie," he smilingly quoted Tom Sawyer's aunt—"Lil's nerves are shot enough without having Owen's possibilities for mischief on her mind. What do you say to my taking this little job off your hands? I'll flag Harry before he comes down and warn him he's to listen to Marion's letter and then act the part of a skeptic convincingly."

"Oh! if you would, I'd be grateful," I said.

My husband looked at me curiously.

"Look here," he said a bit roughly. "Why didn't you come right out and ask me to see Harry for you? What's the big idea, anyway? Am I such a discourteous bounder that you can't ask a simple favor of me?"

There was resentment in his voice, but there was real hurt

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, December 10

THE stellar operations on this day seem to make for many factors of disappointment and postponements of live issues. It may be difficult to overcome these stubborn obstacles. This condition will not, however, react on the personal affiliations which should be pleasant and prosperous in spite of some phases of subtlety or intrigue.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which tenacious obstacles may seem to thwart the best endeavors. Nevertheless there may be much personal happiness and satisfaction by way of compensation.

A child born on this day should be endowed with many graces and accomplishments, but will have to work hard for business success.

Cleans Marble

To clean marble, dip slices of lemon in salt. Rub over the surface, leave on for an hour, then wash off with a soft cloth and tepid water.

Preserves Rubber Goods

Bathing caps and other rubber goods can be kept fresh and new by giving them a "bath" in talcum powder when dry after use.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Now, We KNOW!

SOME bright soul out in Hollywood has solved the great problem of the ages. Shush! He has discovered why a man SINGS in his BATH!

* * *

It seems that it ISN'T the cold water that wakes him up and starts him warbling. Nor the sparkling morning which inspires him to musical pyrotechnics. Nor yet the carolling of the birds in summer—nor the cheep-cheep of the radiator in winter.

HELEN ROWLAND

* * *

It isn't the fact that business is good and he has just closed a big deal. Nor, that he and his wife have made up and decided to call off the lawyers. Nor, that his mother-in-law isn't coming, after all! * * *

It isn't because last night's dinner agreed with him, and his digestion and his conscience are in perfect working order. Nor because it is Saturday, and he has an intriguing date for luncheon or an afternoon of golf ahead of him.

* * *

It isn't because it is a habit with him, and he automatically bursts into song at the sight of the "ole swimmin' hole." Nor because, like the canary, he is inspired to lift his voice at the sound of flowing water.

* * *

It isn't even, as I have always suspected, the "cock-a-doodle-do" spirit within him! That primitive urge to announce to all the world that HE is awake and up and full of vim, vigor and good spirits—and that, therefore, it is time for all within hearing to arise and get BUSY!

* * *

No, it is for a far deeper, more vital, more urgent reason!

* * *

It is because he can make more NOISE in the bathroom than in any other room in the house! Because the hard, polished surfaces of the mirrors, tile and porcelain intensify the sound-waves and multiply their volume—and thus, he can get the full force and beauty of his OWN VOICE!

* * *

Some song may escape through the window and a little may seep through the walls, alas; but most of the din rebounds from wall to wall, falling upon the ears of its creator, like a grand hallelujah—thereby, filling him with joy and a superiority complex. And satisfying that atavistic instinct to make a BIG NOISE!

* * *

That is the theory of this Hollywood sage. A small boy is never so happy as when he is yelling and beating a drum; and a man is never so joyous as when he can hear his own voice above the rush of roaring water and the buzz of the vibrator!

* * *

The only solution for wives, it would seem, is to turn the bathroom into a padded cell and line it with damask; which is, I believe, the last word in sumptuous bathrooms, anyway.

* * *

Those old Roman wives had the right idea. They turned their husbands loose in the back yard or something, where man could splash around with the birdies, lift up his voice to the heavens and announce his exuberance to the whole world!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Vigor Cannot Live Where Darkness Is

IN AN English newspaper the other day I saw a number of interesting advertisements. One of them had a conventional picture of the sun with its radiating stream of light. But it was the headline that caught my eye:

DR COPELAND

"Give your son the best the sun can give!"

One of the encouraging signs of the times is the interest in sunlight. No longer does anybody doubt its healing qualities.

Oppenheim makes one of his characters say, "A drop of good rain water does do good to the skin and body—freshens things up, like. Too much dry sunshine breeds disease, they do say."

In reply, another character, the local butcher, agreed. "Sun makes dust and all the doctor folks say that when there's dust there do be germs."

Well, I shall not dispute the fact that dust is dangerous. Indeed, it has a double danger. First, the particles of matter irritate and actually wound the tissues of nose, throat and lungs. In this manner they prepare openings for the direct entrance of germs into the body.

Second, the bits of substance acts as vehicles, so to speak, to carry the germs through the air. Infection and disease are scattered with the dust.

But it is not true that sunshine breeds disease. On the contrary, it does much to control and what is more important, to prevent disease. The best the sun can give is the priceless gift of health.

The mother who takes into the sunlight her baby son and baby daughter, too, is laying the foundation of health, growth is promoted, the circulation benefited and the general welfare advanced by daily exposure to the rays of the sun.

Near the Gap of Dunloe, in Ireland, is the "Black Valley." The region is so named because it is surrounded by high mountains that for four months of the year shut out the sunshine from its narrow confines.

This is bad for the unfortunates who dwell there. In all regions of the earth where there are seasons of darkness, the health and vigor decline. The lack of sunshine is like the lack of food. It may not produce death, perhaps, but it results in positive damage to the body.

Kind Nature has provided many blessings. One of the greatest of them is sunshine. But we must do our part. We must reach out and seize upon these proffered gifts.

Certainly that is good advice to every parent. "Give your son the best the sun can give." When the children are too young to know what is good for them, we must see that these gifts are rightly bestowed. We can take the youngsters in the open air and have them get the blessings the sun can give.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Cards in Place of Presents

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Kindly let me know what to do. For years I have always given and received Christmas gifts from a large number of people. Both friends and relatives. Now I want to stop and I want to do it in a right way.

MRS. E. M.

I WISH that I could tell you "the perfect way" of doing this. And I'm sure that a very large number of people in the world would also like to know the gentle but firm way to stop giving and receiving so many Christmas presents.

But the only way to stop giving presents at Christmas is—to stop giving presents at Christmas! If for one Christmas we substitute for a gift the thoughtfulness of a fine Christmas card, we will find the next year that our friends have gotten the point. They will be as relieved as we are, and that the whole difficult question of Christmas presents has been solved.

As we grow older, we naturally, if we are sociable at all, collect many friends, and it becomes increasingly a problem to "remember" each one at Christmas time. As a matter of fact, this promiscuous giving has gone a bit out of fashion—we just can't keep up with it—and handsome and personal cards have taken its place.

Delivering Graduation Gift

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have a very dear little friend graduating from high school this term, and I wish to give her a little present. Which is the best way to give my present—mail it, call on her personally and present it, or how?

SEND it to her from the shop in which you purchase it, enclosing your card. Or mail it to her.

A Courteous Remark

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When a man and woman are parting after having been introduced, whose place is it to say "I am glad to have met you?" NELL.

EITHER may say this—the one who leaves first. It is a perfectly human thing to say and there is no reason for the idea that it is consistent only for the man to say it.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9. — (AP.)—Vittorio Trevisan, basso of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, has been informed he is to be decorated with the Order of the Cross of Italy. His contribution to Italian opera on the American stage is understood to have been the reason the decoration is to be awarded him.

For COLDS

We all catch colds, and they certainly make us miserable; but yours needn't last long if you do this: Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin as soon as possible after cold starts. Stay in the house if you can—keep warm. Repeat with another tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin every three or four hours, if symptoms of cold persist. Take a good laxative when you go to bed and keep the bowels open. If throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in a quarter-glassful of water and gargle. This soothes the inflammation and reduces infection. There is nothing like Bayer Aspirin for a cold, or sore throat. And it relieves aches and pains almost instantly. The genuine tablets, marked Bayer, are absolutely harmless; they do not depress the heart.

GIRL MISSING 7 WEEKS FOUND

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 9.—Margaret Mitchell, 15, Jefferson High School cheer leader, who has been missing from home for seven weeks, was located at Bentleyville, in Washington County, where she was working in a private home.

She consented to return to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Mitchell, of near Rogersville.

At the time she disappeared, the girl was living with a relative at Jefferson in order to attend high school there. A quarrel over automobile rides was given by her as her reason for leaving.

Tasker, Prison Author Released on Parole

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., Dec. 9. — (AP.) — Robert J. Tasker, who entered San Quentin upon being convicted of robbing an Oakland Restaurant in 1924 and turned author in prison, today was preparing for a future of freedom. He was among 15 convicts paroled yesterday by the state board of prison directors. Tasker, who reached his 25th year a few weeks ago, served the minimum time required of a regular 10 year sentence. One of his novels, "Grimhaven," attracted favorable comment in literary reviews.

'Old Ironsides' Soon To be Ready for Sea

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—The frigate Constitution, "Old Ironsides," undergoing restoration at the Boston navy yard through public subscription, is expected to be ready for the water again this month. Boy Risks Life Saves Pet Dog From Creek

LANCASTER, Pa., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—George Butt, 13, of this city, risked his life here to have his pet dog "Pal," who fell through the ice on the Conestoga Creek while playing with him near the Engleside power plant. The boy plunged through the thin ice and went to the rescue of his dog.

John Westonberger, a passing motorist, noticed young Butt's plight and with the aid of a pipe and tree branches rescued the boy, who clung tightly to his pet.

When they reached shore, the dog shook himself violently and barked his appreciation.

Social Set Busy With Benefits

THIS week everyone's going to have every minute taken, it seems, with all these benefits planned. But most folks will have to squeeze out a bit of time for their Christmas shopping, though, for when the college and school set comes back to town for the Yuletide season, life's going to be gayer than ever.

Tonight an event everyone's been looking forward to for ages will take place, the Cinderella ball, in the University Club. And this year there are going to be more folks there than ever before. And the entertainment will be particularly attractive, given by Pittsburgh's debs.

On Wednesday the Stage and Play Society will have its opening performance in the Carnegie Music Hall, and then the rest of the week will be purely social.

Wednesday Mary Franklin Robinson will be presented to society at a tea in the home of her father and mother, the William Christopher Robinsons, and on Friday Jane Miller, daughter of Frederic Walsingham Miller, will be introduced at a dinner-dance in the University Club.

* * *

ON the eighteenth of the month the school set will begin to arrive. And then there'll be innumerable dinners and dances for the younger school set, and the college set will attend the debutante events.

On the day after Christmas the Junior W. H. Stevensons, of Coraopolis Heights, will give a dance for the younger school set in the Montour Heights Country Club. And the guest of honor will be their daughter, Leaugeay Stevenson.

* * *

FROM now on folks will be making plans, too, for the remainder of the winter. Most of our society folks will go to Palm Beach again this year, but Asheville, N. C., White Sulphur Springs and Hot Springs and Miami Beach will also attract a number.

* * *

DOWN at Asheville a number of events are being planned for the opening days of the new year. A Mexican cabaret to be sponsored by the Asheville Junior League December 26 and a New Year's ball on December 31 will be the outstanding entertainments. Already there is a small colony of Pittsburgh folks here.

* * *

AMONG the benefits of the coming days is a benefit tea dance, sponsored by the Girl Scout Council, to be held in the Hotel Schenley ballroom on December 21 from 4 to 7 o'clock.

MISS LOUISE HILL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fulton Hill, Kinsman road, became the bride of Harry Wendell McCobb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clyde McCobb, of New York, on Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The ceremony was solemnized in the Hill home.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore ivory satin in princess mode. Her veil was of tulle with a cap of rose point lace, and she carried calla lilies. Her sister, Miss Eleanor Hill, and Miss Betty Lyons, were the bridesmaids and wore similar gowns of coral chiffon fashioned extremely long. They carried Talisman roses. The best man was John Thompson.

After the wedding a small reception was held, after which Mr. and Mrs. McCobb left for New York and will sail Christmas day for Columbia, South America, where they will live.

* * *

MISS MARTHA M'MASTER, daughter of Mrs. John M. McMaster, of Coraopolis, became the bride of John Friend Eckel, of New York, on Saturday evening, November 30, at 7:30 o'clock, in the United Presbyterian Church, Coraopolis. The Rev. J. Philander Anderson, of Sunnyside, Washington, uncle of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Bruce Wilson, officiated.

The bride wore a gown of ivory panne velvet and carried sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor was her cousin, Miss Jane Donaldson, and the bridesmaid was Miss Alice Eckel, sister of the bridegroom. They wore peach and orchid taffeta embroidered in silver, and carried pink roses and Scotch heather. Curtis Eckberg, of New York, served as best man and the ushers were David Gamble, of John Hopkins University, and Donald Harper, of Coraopolis.

A reception followed the ceremony in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. J. J. Crawford. Mr. and Mrs. Eckel will live in New York.

FRIDAY evening, January 17, has been selected for the University of Pittsburgh Junior promenade, the dance to take place in the Hotel Schenley. Fred Lucas, general chairman, will be assisted by Miss Marie Brackman, who will have charge of programs and decorations; Franklin Felker, favors; Charles Seidle, publicity, and Edward Hugh, tickets.

* * *

MISS REBECCA LUICK, Miss Jeanne Schugar and Mrs. Jack H. Friedman will entertain Miss Dinnetta Friedman, whose engagement to Saul Luick, of Pittsburgh, was announced recently, with a bridge-shower and luncheon on Sunday, December 22, in the El Tower.

* * *

THE Pittsburgh Chapter of Trinity College Alumnae held a meeting Friday in the home of Mrs. Paul F. Eichenlaub, of Dalzell place. Final arrangements were made for the dinner dance to be held in the Schenley the night of December 26. Tea was served after the meeting.

* * *

MISS MAY L. ALLEN, after a long sojourn abroad, is paying a two-week visit to her cousin, Mrs. Frank Moore, of Fifth avenue.

* * *

ON Friday night the Woman's Club of Mt. Lebanon will be entertained by the American home department with a Christmas program in the Washington School auditorium. Joe Menke, a magician, will entertain the children, each one of whom will receive a gift. The club choral, under the direction of Mrs. Lucille Miller Werner, will sing Christmas carols. This meeting will be the last for 1929, a reception to new members on January 13 inaugurating the '30 season.

The music department also will have a Christmas party, this, however, is for members only. There will be a Santa Claus, who will distribute gifts, and several novel games for grownups will be played during the afternoon. Mrs. W. H. Shaffer, Jr., of Orchard drive, will be hostess for this meeting at a luncheon on Friday afternoon.

* * *

MUSIC and readings are program features at today's meeting of the Woman's Historical Society in the Congress clubhouse. A quartet composed of Mrs. Regina Spilker Linn, Mrs. Harold Hansom, Mrs. Eda S. Kreiling and Mrs. Minnie B. Heck is singing, accompanied by Mrs. M. Homer Seifert, and Mrs. Norval R. Daugherty is giving the readings.

ATELIERS INTRODUCE RETURN OF THE PRODIGAL SUIT

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 9.—A suitable addition has been made to the mode this season. We refer with a feeling of gratitude to the return of the prodigal suit. It has been many seasons since the fur-trimmed suit in all its charm and usefulness has been of such importance, that it is included in almost every wardrobe. And despite the fact that it is ubiquitous during the mild autumn days that we have been experiencing here, it is capable of so many delightful variations that there is no danger of it becoming hackneyed, or being driven to oblivion and then extinction by a surfeit of popularity.

Suits of leda, of velvet in many weaves, of broadcloth, all these are seen, trimmed in a variety of furs, including astrakan, caracul, beaver, and most of all, fox in various shades. The blouses are, in most cases, of satin, severely cut and tailored, lending a finishing touch of distinction to the smartly cut, befurred suit. Such suits are observed promenading along the Bois, and at fashionable restaurants at luncheon time.

THE suit that we have had sketched for you is one of the smartest of Paquin's smart collection of fur-trimmed suits, and so you may rest assured that it embodies all the salient characteristics of the mode at its best. The three-quarter coat of leda cloth is heavily trimmed with beaver. It is slightly fitted at the waistline and dips to a deep curving point in back. The moderately circular skirt dips the same way at the back. A slight widening and puffing at the wrist is noticed in the sleeves. Beige satin makes the bodice, a simple straight blouse worn outside the skirt top and trimmed with an irregular shaped frill at one side.

PATOU contributes the smart sports ensemble also shown. It is blue and gray tweed, belted high at the natural waistline. The frock is very youthful of line with double box pleats at front and back and a white pique piping edging the neckline and cuffs. The straight three-quarter length coat has double patch pockets and transverse piecing on the cuffs.

Jose Mojica Sings Here On Jan. 3

JOSE MOJICA, tenor of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, who is to appear in concert under auspices of the Tuesday Musical Club January 3, is descended from one of the oldest Spanish families in the Mexican state of Jalisco. Mojica is immensely proud of his Spanish-Aztec ancestry, for both the Aztecs and the Spanish conquistadores who subjugated them were fierce fighters. Senor Mojica will sing Mexican folk songs in costume, the silver hat and jacket of which were the property of Gen. Villagran, who wore them when he fought for the independence of his country more than a century ago. The concert will be in Carnegie Music Hall.

THE Women's Christian Temperance Union of Allegheny County will hold its quarterly institute tomorrow in the Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street. After assembly singing, the prayer by Mrs. W. T. Larimer, the flag salute led by Mrs. J. V. Murdock and other opening business, including greetings from Mrs. Dora L. Ritchey, president of the Foster Union, there will be short talks on the various branches, by Mrs. Eleanor Burke, Mrs. T. E. Carson and Mrs. Lyda C. Boone, and two minute "worth whiles" by the delegates to the recent state convention. The Rev. Dr. George Shelton will offer the prayer at the afternoon session when reports will be heard, music will be furnished by a quartet from the Foster Union, and Mrs. J. J. Walker, county delegate, will speak on "Broadcasting the National."

LIVE WIRE KILLS IRONWORKER

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 9.—Edward Smith, 29, ironworker for the Youngstown Tank and Boiler Company, was fatally burned yesterday when he came in contact with a high-tension electric line. He was working on a new water tank for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at New Castle Junction.

Smith was thrown 38 feet to the ground. He suffered a fractured hip and other injuries, dying in the New Castle Hospital. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mae Lewess Smith; his mother, Mrs. Maude Smith, of Wilkinsburg; a brother, Frank C. Smith, and a sister, Mrs. J. D. Mohrhoff, both of Wilkinsburg.

Two Prisoners Shot In Bolting Jail

COLFAX, Wash., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Two prisoners were shot and seriously wounded yesterday by officers who quelled an attempted break from the Whitman County jail.

Jimmie Engle, forger; Frank (Blackie) Sherry, burglar, and Clarence Harper, thief, slugged Deputy Sheriff Frank Dailey with an improvised blackjack, took his automatic pistol and keys and dashed for freedom. Sherry and Harper were shot through the body and Engle was captured. Dailey was bruised but not seriously hurt.

Auto Skid Kills Physician, Wife

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Dr. Frank W. Simpson, wealthy Berkeley physician, and his wife, Elsie, were killed when their automobile skidded and struck a tree on the San Jose road near Alvarado yesterday. Passing motorists extricated them from the wreckage and took them to a hospital where Dr. Simpson was dead on arrival and Mrs. Simpson died a few minutes later.

Cardinal Dougherty Received by Pope

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Cardinal Dougherty, of Philadelphia, was received yesterday in private audience by Pope Pius XI. The Cardinal was greeted with familiar and cordial kindness and thanked warmly for his visit at the close of the jubilee year of the Pope.

The audience lasted nearly an hour.

Nathon Milstein, youthful Russian violinist and disciple of the great Auer, gave a rousing recital last night under the auspices of the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association. The Musical Society of this organization has always been fortunate in its discovery of new talent for the entertainment of the "Y," and this young man was no exception.

Fred Lissfelt

The program was built about the highly emotional and dramatic Bruch Concerto. Before it and afterwards came variations upon variations in all styles, a wearisome pattern when overworked. A few French miniatures of minor importance, an excellent dance of DeFalla, and a richly embroidered Jewish folk tune of Bloch were the relief numbers.

Milstein has talent to spare. The many variations served their purpose well in displaying every stunt that a violinist must learn to be the virtuoso. This player has all these tricks at his fingers' end; for a young artist he keeps them strangely obscured by a most fluent tone, which he can imbue with fire or subdue to almost a whisper. Besides, there is nobility in his playing that makes him seem somewhat impatient with Debussy and to prefer the classics.

Serge Tarnowsky played accompaniments.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

ORTIZ RUBIO ON WAY EAST

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Dec. 9 (AP.)—Shortly after receiving a long-distance telephone call from New York, Pascual Ortiz Rubio, president-elect of Mexico, left here last night, presumably for New York City.

Although his rather hurried departure prevented his making a statement to newspapermen, it was believed he left to meet former President Plutarco Calles in New York. A meeting of the two had been arranged for New Orleans.

All of Ortiz Rubio's party of 16 left at 9:30 p. m. on a Missouri Pacific train bound for St. Louis.

While resting here from the strain of his recent campaign, Senor Rubio had said he intended to meet Calles in the United States. He also expressed desires to meet President Hoover and to rest at Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore.

Too Much Love Liquor for Turk Taxi Drivers

ISTANBUL, Constantinople, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Insanity and love affairs were blamed by Mazhar Osman Bey, a leading alienist here for the alarming number of automobile accidents in the city involving taxicab drivers.

The prefecture took the alienist's diagnosis so seriously it announced periodical examinations for the drivers, stating that mentally unbalanced chauffeurs would be sent to asylums.

The alienist said the taxi drivers' insanity was due to alcoholism and use of drugs. The love affairs were attributed in part to the glamor imparted chauffeurs uniforms which were said to be as effective in winning hearts as are the brass buttons of American policemen. The alienist said the taxi men's flirtations while driving and quarrels caused by mutual jealousy caused many accidents.

IMPROVE YOUGH, PARTY URGES

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 9.—A delegation of 10 Board of Trade members, accompanied by a group of 13 from West Newton, four from McKeesport, and a representative of the Uniontown Chamber of Commerce, left here this morning for Washington to urge the passage of a measure authorizing canalization of the Youghiogheny River between McKeesport and West Newton and a survey of the river between the latter town and this city with a view to ultimate extension of navigation.

Possibilities of flood control and water power through location of locks and dams in the upper Yough will also be stressed.

Maj. J. K. Blake, secretary of the Board of Trade, headed the Connellsville party. He has arranged for an audience with government officials Tuesday morning and the entire group will appear before the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, in session there this week.

Child Stabbed While at Play

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Dec. 9.—Accidentally stabbed in the side by scissors in the hands of a playmate, Ernestine Castelli, 13, Eastvale, is in the hospital.

ACCUSE NEGRO OF MURDER

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 9.—William Flint, 46, Negro, of Wellsburg, W. Va., is held here charged with the murder of William Hudson, 33, Negro, of Avella. Hudson succumbed to stab wounds inflicted in a quarrel the day before Thanksgiving. The argument started over the purchase of a brace of ducks for the Thanksgiving dinner.

Flint and his common-law wife, Fannie Smith, began quarreling, it was said, and Hudson interceded. Flint is said to have grabbed a knife and fatally wounded him. State police arrested Flint after he had returned to Wellsburg.

Auto Crashes Dark Trolley; Three Hurt

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 9.—Three persons were injured at the end of the North Liberty street car line, when the automobile of John F. Cope of R. D. No. 8, crashed into a street car which had jumped the tracks. The lights of the car were out. Fred Nelson, operator, was trying to get the trolley on the wire and Claire Milliken and Paul Hunt were standing nearby when the Cope machine crashed into them. Nelson and Milliken were taken to the New Castle Hospital for treatment.

Prisoners Flog Man Who Fails Contribution

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9.—Irl Strawn, Warren Township, complained in Justice Eli N. Fairs' court that he was flogged 27 times by prisoners in Tuscarawas County jail, who applied a rubber hose when he refused to pay $2.50 into the chewing tobacco fund.

Strawn was released after he was bound over to the grand jury for assault.

Boy Walking Tracks Struck by Trolley

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—John Lavella, 7, was probably fatally hurt last night when struck by a West Penn interurban trolley. The motorman said he failed to see the lad, who was walking on the tracks with a black coat over his head.

65 PIANOS LOANED FREE

Sixty-five Pianos (Grands, Players and Uprights, both new and used instruments) will be placed in homes of Pittsburgh and vicinity and they may be used until we need them—which will be an indefinite time. We have discontinued eight of our large branch stores, and are placing these instruments in our "Frederick's Annex," located at 915 Liberty Avenue. Instead of storing and holding these pianos for the regular price, we are going to slaughter the prices and take our loss now. If you have ever thought of buying a piano, now is the time. We do not wish to place our instruments in storage and all Pianos not sold outright will be placed in the homes of families who are interested in owning a piano in the immediate future, and for the valuable advertising we will receive by having good families use them. We reserve the right to select the homes in which these pianos are to be placed.

Positively No Charge For Anything

No cartage, no rent or any expense whatever. You must call at the store to make your selection. There are no strings to this offer, which comes but once in a lifetime.

'Y' BOYS OPPOSE GIRLS SMOKING

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 9.—Approximately 350 boys, who attended the older boys' conference of the Southwestern district, Pennsylvania Y. M. C. A., went on record as opposed to the dress, smoking and drinking of modern girls.

The group had talks by various leaders in state "Y" work. Mrs. Lillian B. Firestone led a discussion of boy and girl relationship. Charles B. Stone, state boys' secretary, led general discussions.

James Lee Ellenwood, member of the staff of the New York state committee, delivered the address at a banquet in the Masonic Temple.

Final sessions were addressed by C. T. McNary, educational and vocational director of the Pittsburgh Y. M. C. A., and other Western Pennsylvania workers.

RADIO DEALERS PLAN PARTY

Elaborate plans have been made by radio distributors for a Christmas party to be held Wednesday evening in the Keystone Athletic Club. The party is being sponsored by the newly-formed Pittsburgh Radio Trade Association which comprises the jobbing and distributing branches of the radio industry.

The meeting is to be a distinct departure from the usual business and technical considerations. Entertainment and music have been booked, with an exchange of gifts at the close. The keynote address will be delivered by M. A. Kendell, vice president of the Farmers Deposit National Bank. The Christmas spirit will prevail throughout the meeting. A special Christmas dinner will precede the program and entertainment.

Refineries Plan Increased Output

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 9.—Refineries in Northwestern Pennsylvania are contemplating heavier business next spring. Most of them have completed costly improvements and extensions running over several years and will be able to produce increased output with lower overhead.

HAD RHEUMATISM 12 YEARS UNTIL SHE GOT KONJOLA

New and Different Medicine Ended Pittsburgh Lady's Long Search for New Health

What is the secret of the amazing demand for this new Konjola? Why has this medicine become the most talked-of medicine in the nation, the medicine with more than a million friends?

Again and again these and similar questions are asked by those who have not as yet had personal experience with this new and different medicine. The answer may be expressed in three words—Konjola makes good! This medicine made good for Mrs. James Howarth, 52 McBride Street, Pittsburgh, although she had suffered no less than twelve years with rheumatism and kidney trouble, of which all other medicines she had tried had failed to relieve her. Strange as it may appear, Konjola seems to be at the very peak of its power when pitted against the most stubborn and obstinate cases—troubles that have held on for years, defying everything that was done to relieve them. Get acquainted with Konjola and its record of amazing results by talking with the Konjola Man. The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is at the service of all who wish information about this medicine. Now read Mrs. Howarth's story, just as she told it to the Konjola Man a few days ago.

"At last, after twelve years of searching for a medicine that would relieve that dreadful ailment, rheumatism, and kidney trouble, I have found relief in Konjola, and I will always praise this marvelous medicine.

"Rheumatism was so terrible that I could hardly walk and was unable to do any of my housework because of the dreadful pains in my lower limbs and arms. My kidney trouble kept me awake at night, and I would have to get up several times—some nights as many as ten. I was so nervous I could not rest, and my condition kept growing worse. For twelve years I spent dollar after dollar for medicine and treatments but did not get any lasting results.

"I heard a great deal about Konjola and the marvelous results people were obtaining from it, and finally decided to try it. I certainly am grateful to this medicine that did for me what so many other medicines had failed to do. I now can do all of my housework without any pain or suffering. I no longer have to get up during the night, but enjoy sound, restful sleep. I feel stronger and better in every way. I urge all my friends who need a good medicine to try this wonderful Konjola and feel certain that what it did for me it will do for all, as mine was a severe and stubborn case.

"At Konjola days is a chance to make a well man. It welcomes the sick and ailing.

"The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where daily he is meeting the public, introducing and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine.

For a Few Hours of Your Time

Come Pick Out the One You Want

The Doll Lady Says:

I want little girls who live in Pittsburgh and vicinity to have the most wonderful and accomplished doll girl in the whole world.

She actually sings and prays at night or any time you want her to, and she recites before any one—she is not bashful, but modest.

She is as large as a real live baby and truly a marvelous "character doll." Hold her hands and she will walk with you, singing as she goes.

She has real human hair to brush, has two front teeth and shows her little pink tongue.

She is irresistible, all dressed up and all of her clothes can be taken off when you want to put her to bed.

Silk socks and fancy colored shoes cover her little toes in size number two.

Then the last thing at night, her eyes closed tight, she says her prayers and forgets all her cares.

Yes, even the grown-ups say, "she's marvelous," and want one, too.

Don't wait. I want you to be one of the first to own the marvelous Dolly.

I'll gladly tell you how easy it is to get one. Come and see me at once.

She Sings

Rock-a-bye-baby upon the tree top,
When the wind blows the cradle will rock,
When the bough breaks the cradle will fall,
And down will come cradle, baby and all.

She Recites

Little Boy Blue, come blow your horn!
The sheep's in the meadow, the cow's in the corn,
Where's the little boy who looks after the sheep?
He's under the haystack, fast asleep.
Will you wake him? No, not I,
For if you should he will surely cry.

Detroit Orchestra Makes Radio Debut Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

OSSIP GABRILOWITSCH and his Detroit Symphony Orchestra will make their bow to the American radio audience in a WEAF hookup tonight at 9:30. WCAE will be the Pittsburgh outlet. The noted conductor will have a Schumann piano solo.

Next in importance and perhaps first in thrills will be the Empire Builders' studio creation of the "Fast Mail" tearing through the canyons, highways and byways of the wild and woolly west. Leave it to these boys to give us something good, KDKA at 10:30 o'clock.

James G. McDonald, WCAE at 7:15, and Grantland Rice, WCAE at 6:30, will carry off the speaking honors for the evening. McDonald, back from a trip around the world, will talk of "Changing China."

And what do we find on the Salon Singers' concert through WCAE at 10:30? An all-Schumann concert which we feel sure will measure up to the splendid rendition this group gave Liza Lehmann's "Persian Garden" last Monday night.

The Cmomodore Ensemble, WJAS at 7, will include the first movement of Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata."

We Now Present

Dear Santa Claus:

Please send me a derby like Paul Grine's and a mustache like Fred Webber's. Also some "El Ropeo" for my boss, Jesse L. Kaufmann. And a nice "Goodbye everybody" like Cousin Lora has.

C. Herbert McGee.

P. S.:

I'm an announcer at WCAE and I've been a good boy all year. Love and kisses. Herbie.

Reinald Werrenrath, new vocal supervisor for NBC, was one of the first American artists to declare for the radio.

Things are being moved around at WCAE preparatory to the installation of a thousand-watt transmitter. And in a few weeks the station will have an "A" studio and a "B" studio, one for talks and the other for concerts. The whole business will run $25,000.

Homer Rodeheaver, song leader with Billy Sunday for more than 20 years, will lead a nationwide Christmas carol sing from WLS, December 10 to 24.

TOLERANCE: In one morning's mail at WJAS there were letters for the Rev. Mr. Hall, English Lutheran Church; the Rev. Dr. Cox, St. Patrick's Church and Rabbi Weiss, no address.

Allen S. Johnson, 23, radio service manager downtown, went to New York to have Dorothy Mary Menahan, 23, say "yes." It happens today.

Schumann's "Concerto in A Minor," which Ossip Gabrilowitsch will play in his first radio appearance tonight, was condemned by music critics 75 years ago as "eccentric and conceited."

Drama of "Fast Mail"

The roar of the fastest locomotive in America, speeding overland mail from St. Paul to the West Coast, will echo tonight. Through the canyons and mountain passes which once concealed the robber band of Jesse James, flashes the train of unlighted mail coaches bound for Seattle and the Coast to pick up the Oriental mail and rush it back East. For the purposes of radio drama, one tear-stained letter in the west-bound mail bags contains a desperate appeal to a former lover for immediate rescue from an imminent "marriage of convenience." Radio listeners may ride the fast mail—in imagination only, for no passengers are carried—in its dramatic flight through the gorges and tunnels to the eager lover who, of course, gets back just "in the nick of time."

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Lamps Richly Wrought Are Gifts of Permanent Distinction

It is not too much to say that one may begin and end one's gift-shopping in the Lamp Section! Here is truly a gift-resource that this season is proving a real inspiration . . . to the seeker for the unusual.

A—A highly distinctive Desk Lamp of Flemish brass, having a pan base, an oil chimney and a flame-red shade, wreathed in gold. Complete 19.50

B—A floor lamp to grace a great hall—its base of richly hand-carved walnut, studded with nail heads and combined with hand-forged iron. Of solid weathered brass is the 3-candle fixture. Price 79.50. The fine shade by de Sherbinin, literally a work of art, uses an Old Master print for its theme. Hand-rubbed, hand-finished, hand-made. $65.

C—Glazed white porcelain forms the base of an extremely sophisticated lamp whose shade, hand-etched in the modern manner, is called "Diane." Complete, $45.

D—Vanity lamps combine finely cut crystal with gold plated metal; round or oval. Shades of taffeta and georgette, with lace and ribbon. Bases 17.50 each. Shades 7.50 each. A bed lamp to match, $10.

E—Borghese craftsmen made this little lamp to resemble Tole. Either red or green, gold-trimmed. Perfect for a small table or the flat top desks so much in vogue. Complete 19.50.

F—Beauty of form and material create a lovely effect with an urn-shaped lamp of English brass. The shade has the same feeling and is by de Sherbinin. Complete 44.50.

G—A distinguished shade of stretched silk, banded in velvet, graces this well-made junior floor lamp. Brass, bronze and gunmetal combine to make the base. Complete 49.50.

H—A bridge lamp in Spanish gold has either a silk or parchment paper shade. Complete 22.50

HANSEN GETS SENTENCE FRIDAY

Judge Halts Further Appeal For Convicted Racketeer; Forney Trial Faces Delay

William Hansen, of Library, convicted racketeer and brother-in-law of Alfred W. Forney, alleged slot machine operator, will be sentenced at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Nearly a year ago Hansen was convicted of maintaining gambling devices.

Many dates set for argument following appeal by his attorney, Edward G. Coll, have resulted in postponements. On Friday, irrespective of whether the attorney is in another court or not, the sentence will be pronounced, Judge Harry H. Rowand announced. The argument or sentence had been slated for today.

The trial of Forney, slated for tomorrow, may be postponed, it was revealed in the district attorney's office today. The arrival of four government witnesses, expected back in the city from Canada today, will determine the beginning of the trial, it was said.

Hiram D. Hirsch, attorney for Forney and also for the Public Service Commission, was closeted with District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner for an hour today.

GREGORY PRUSCHEK EXPLAINING HIS COMPOSITION TO ST. MARY ASSUMPTION PUPILS

Pruschek Brings His Art To Humble People

By PENELOPE REDD.

"All the earth might be walled out, but were the golden sun left . . . I should be happy," said the Slovenian painter, Gregory Pruschek. He could surprise the local intelligentsia with his 70 paintings, fine in their primitive quality and completely modern in style.

The paintings were on exhibition at the Slovenian Hall on Fifty-seventh street just above Butler street.

Penelope Redd.

Pruschek's idea is to show paintings to humble people. "It was not until I had had been for many years in America that I mustered courage to attend art exhibitions. At first I did not know I would be permitted to enter. Remembering this, I like to show my paintings where ordinary people will come without fear."

* * *

Pruschek's work is not overshadowed by his exceptional life. He has carried the idea of wandering as a painter over from his youth as a poetic vagabond. In his show he includes splendid landscapes and memories of places in New Mexico, Old Mexico, France, Croatia, Slovenia, and the northwestern part of the United States.

His still life paintings are strange in their uncany suggestion of physical nature's being as sentient as human nature. Pruschek describes abstract ideas in nature occasionally in decorations such as the one he calls "May," which shoes the movement of life in blossoms and boughs. His exquisite range of blues, the like of which I have never seen in any one painter, intimates the detachment of Pruschek's life.

* * *

For Pruschek was a vagabond because he loved nature. He did not see a great painting until he was well beyond 25 years of age. He is entirely self-taught, having painted for the last 14 years. His only visit to Pittsburgh was more than 20 years ago, when he paused for several days and had his food "al fresco."

In his vagabondage he worked for a little and then moved on. He has never since seen any one of the hundreds of wanderers he knew. They floated along life's highways and never passed again. In his seven years on the road, he met but one fellow, a muscian, who had a gift for any art.

He amused his comrades by carving their portraits in wood, or by taking clay from the river banks and modeling the animals and men engaged in farm life. "They would forget the world in watching me," said Pruschek. So probably Chapin-like genre portraits in wood and clay will one day puzzle archaeologists.

* * *

Pruschek's paintings made in the villages, cities and countryside of Jugo-Slavia during the past summer evoke fresh beauty. In them is the nostalgia of the Pruschek, who as a small boy crept into a blue cave to listen to the earth living. These landscapes remind one of his description of "vagabond music made by the rushing winds against the rocks."

Pruschek's painting of the ruined castle with its guardian rocks and sentinel trees done in mysterious violets and blues should be in the Jugo-Slavian room now being planned for the Cathedral of Learning.

Pruschek's poetic regard for living things communicates the mysterious quality known as beauty.

SCAR JAILS MAN AS SUSPECT IN 1923 CRIME

Patrolman Sees Resemblance Between Prisoner and Killer of Six Years Ago

A murder that occurred six years ago was aired in Central Police Court today when William Bryant, 32, of Anderson, W. Va., arrested Saturday by Patrolman Hugh Lavery as a suspect, was arraigned.

Bryant was arrested by Lavery on Water street as a suspicious person. Later while examining detective records, Lavery was struck by the resemblance of Bryant and Johnston.

Lavery testified that Bryant bore a scar on his left hand and one on his right eyebrow, similar to the ones that marked "Whitey" Johnston, who killed Tony Sarvich six years ago.

Sarvich had followed his wife, Mary, from their rooming house at First avenue and Grant street, to another place in Fourth avenue, and was stabbed with a butcher knife when he surprised her with Johnston, Lavery said.

Magistrate Thomas D. Jones ordered that Bryant be held for investigation. Bryant denied the charge, but admitted having been arrested in Philadelphia, Chicago and here for shootings and robberies.

TRAFFIC PLAN DISCARDED

East Pittsburgh's traffic plan, on trial for the last 90 days, has been thrown into the discard by the borough council, the members declaring the project was unsatisfactory. The rejected system provided one-way traffic in the congested districts. Many objections to the systems were received and at the end of the trial period it was discarded.

The old systems of two-way traffic in the congested areas will be resumed as soon as the traffic signs and signals have been changed. Council, however, intends using the new system during the rush periods.

MEETING IS SCHEDULED TUESDAY

$27,533,350 Appropriations Requested; $1,938,750 More Than in 1929

The city budget makers will meet at 10 a. m. tomorrow to arrange for expending approximately $27,000,000.

City departments have presented estimates calling for $27,533,350, or $1,939,750 more than for the current year.

The call for the meeting of the finance committee was issued by Chairman Robert Garland.

A few weeks ago Mayor Charles H. Kline submitted to Council the 1930 budget and a letter stating that the 1930 requests would require a tax levy of 26 mills on land and 13 mills on buildings, as compared with the current rates of 25 and 12½ mills.

If the proposed pay raises were eliminated, the tax levy for next year could be cut to 24.2 mills on land and 12.1 mills on buildings, or a reduction of .8 of a mill and .4 of a mill from the current levy, according to the Mayor.

The increased appropriations requests include $921,000 for the estimated cost of raising the pay of policemen and firemen in compliance with the referendum approved by the people at the last election.

Included also is $421,000 to give a 10 per cent increase to all employes paid on the per diem basis, excepting those paid the current union scale, and an increase of $120 a year to all employes paid by the month, excepting those salaries fixed by act of Assembly.

SOME ITEMS IN LIST

Other increased appropriations recommended by Mayor Kline were:

Mayview Home and Hospital, $181,000; deficit for the 1929 garbage and rubbish account, $125,000; increased cost of garbage and rubbish disposal in 1930, $150,000; deficit in the 1929 account with the South Pittsburgh Water Company, $30,000; increase for the 1930 account with that company, $60,000; bureau of engineering, $36,000; bureau of bridges and structures, $21,000; bureau of tests, $32,000; water meter tests and repairs, $86,000; traffic planning bureau, $59,000; street lighting, $21,000; Carnegie Library, $39,000.

Major cuts made by the Mayor before submitting the budget were:

An item of $814,000 for 350 additional policemen and 78 other employes in the police bureau; an item of $180,000 for 58 additional firemen and 25 other employes in the fire bureau; a third item of $29,000 for 12 additional employes in the bureau of building inspection; motor fire equipment, $53,000; repairs to engine houses, $110,000; motor equipment for the police bureau, $51,000.

Mayor Kline explained he had eliminated a number of department requests from the tax levy appropriations in the belief that they more properly should be financed by short term bond issues. The items:

Bridge repairs cut from $207,000 to $60,000; new fire engine houses, relocation of an existing house and the reconstruction of two others, $222,000, all cut out; traffic signal lights, cut from $421,000 to $243,000; extension of fire alarm system to Overbrook, parts of Mifflin Township, recently annexed to the city, and making changes necessitated by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's improvements in Penn avenue, $45,000; fire alarm box replacement, cut from $20,000 to $10,000.

Garland said hearings would be granted within a week to members of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, the Building Owners and Managers' Association, and any other persons interested in discussing methods of avoiding a tax increase.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's question: Should naughty impulses in children be allowed free play while they are young, so they can get the badness out of their systems?

EVELYN WILHELM, Glenshaw, Stenographer: Children should be taught and disciplined in right doing when they are young. I don't think that their impulse to be naughty should be given free rein. Evil impulses should be suppressed while they are young or they'll carry them into old age.

Evelyn Wilhelm

SILVIA ROSENSTEIN, East Liberty, stenographer and bookkeeper: I don't think parents should be too strict with their children. You can't let a child go free, though, or he'll have no respect for his parents. If a child is allowed to be naughty when he's young, he'll be naughty when he's grown up, because he won't know any better.

Silvia Rosenstein

GEORGE HOAGWOOD, Newark, O., U. S. Navy: Children should be controlled to some extent. A kid should have its own way in some things, but things that aren't good for his personal welfare should be governed. He won't be bad if he is kept out of trouble kindly, without harsh discipline.

Geo. Hoagwood

MARY GRUBER, Squirrel Hill, Bookkeeper: The child should have free rein. When he reaches high school age is time enough to start disciplining him carefully. He'll be all right when he grows up if he has enough liberty and independence when he's little. It teaches him to be self reliant and to know the difference between good and bad, because his playmates won't like him if he's bad. That is better than discipline.

Mary Gruber

MRS. HARRY C. MacDONALD, Mt. Washington, Girl Scout director: My experience has been that well-directed recreation will eliminate the necessity of discipline, as it has done in the Girl Scouts. Wholesome well-directed recreation will divert the mind of the child from bad things. Of course, vicious mischief is often due to sub-normal mentality. Here is where mental hygiene is coming to be recognized as an essential. A child must, however, be guided along the right path or he will hang himself on his own rope.

Mrs. MacDonald

G. W. Stacey, Downtown, locksmith: I think a child should be made to do right. It would be all right to let the naughtiness and mischief come out if it didn't go back again, but I think it will. A bad child will often make a bad man.

G. W. Stacey

End of Wars Near, Davis Tells Tech Students

"It is popular to talk peace. I believe that we are seeing the beginning of the end of all wars," Secretary James J. Davis, of the Department of Labor, told a gathering of Carnegie Institute of Technology students in the Sixth Presbyterian Church last night. The evening was set aside as Tech night.

"I was one of those who saw what war means," the secretary continued. "It will be a joy to every one of us to know that our children are not being brought up to be used for cannon fodder. It has taken us 2,000 years to reach the present stage, so let us take up the slogan for peace, and with the spirit of God manifest in us, we will be able to master the fight to end all wars."

Davis characterised the church as one of the greatest institutions on earth, declaring that if more parents would insist on their children attending religious services it would be better for the nation. He lauded the great fraternities of the country as the right arm of the church.

To the students he gave this advice:

"If you are to sow your wild oats, you young men and young women, wait until after you are 50 years old, and then you'll have too much sense to sow them."

Will Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 9.

With Mr. Hoover pleading with everybody to spend all this money, I wonder what a little gentleman in a rented frame house in Northampton is thinking. The idea of such spending will make him turn over in his bed of magazine manuscripts.

This Ramsay MacDonald on his peace mission visited the wrong country, it was Haiti where he belonged.

There is a tremendous movement on to get lower taxes on earned incomes, then will come the real problem: "Who among us on salary are earning our income?"

Yours, WILL.

$4,475 STOLEN, 4 KIDNAPED IN WEEK-END CRIME WAVE

BANDITS SEIZE TRIO AT GAS STATION

Constable Among Prisoners; Girl Locked in Office by Youths; Merchant Shoots

A week-end series of robberies and holdups in the Pittsburgh district brought a total of more than $4,475 to thugs who kidnaped four men, including a constable, in two of the holdups.

Four youthful bandits early yesterday entered the service station of John Knoep, on the Pittsburgh Pike, near Canonsburg, and, after forcing Walter Olminsky, a constable; Frank Smittle, the attendant, and J. Peresky, a bystander, into their automobile, a stolen one, dumped them off several miles away. The robbers obtained $22 in cash, a $180 radio set and $40 worth of tires, police were told.

The bandits gave the victims a flashlight to help them find their way back.

MT. LEBANON HOLDUP

The same robbers were blamed by police for the holdup a few hours before of the Hollywood Service Station, in Cochran road, Mt. Lebanon. L. C. Weiland, the proprietor, and Miss Z. M. Morris, of Beechview, were in the place when the bandits entered. Miss Morris was relieved of a purse containing $2 and locked in the office.

Weiland was forced to accompany the bandits in their car. After proceeding a half mile from Mt. Lebanon, he was ordered out, after being robbed of $113.

TAKE TWO IN HOLDUP

Two youths admitted in Morals Court today, beating and robbing James Aepereny, 55, of 2104 Lautner street, of a money bag and purse in front of 1123 Goettman street, last night.

Neighbors, hearing the man's cries, ran out and seized the youthful highwayman, police testified. Later the bag, containing $24, was found under steps in front of 1123 Goettman street, while the purse, containing a small sum and car checks, was discovered in the cushions of the patrol wagon in which the two were taken to the North Side Station.

The two, Steve Smith, 19, of 212 Goodrich street, and Peter Lucas, 17, of 517 East Lacock street, were held for court, charged with highway robbery, by Magistrate A. D. Brandon.

No trace had been found today by county detectives of three bandits who early yesterday exchanged shots with E. L. Berkley, store proprietor of Versailles avenue, McKeesport, when he frustrated an attempt to rob him. Instead of complying with the order to "stick 'em up," Berkley grabbed a revolver and began shooting. No one was hurt.

BUTCHER ROBBED

Two armed men obtained $61 from S. H. Zelsterling, after entering his butcher shop at 2349 Final street, while another armed pair robbed the grocery store of Joseph Zimmerman, of 285 Main street, and escaped with $15 after holding Zimmerman at bay with revolvers.

Tony Abbott, a grocer, of 1803 Cliff street, was relieved of $125 and Diab Mossa, of 1802 Cliff street, a customer, was robbed of $75 by two Negroes who held them up in the store last night.

Negro bandits held up James Fields, of 254 Maryland avenue, Millvale, at Foster and Forty-second streets, early yesterday and robbed him of $22.75, and later the store of Nathan Dell, of 2000 Webster avenue, where they rifled the cash register of $18.

Miss Blanche Biornacki, of 3505 Flavian street, was robbed of her purse containing $4 by a Negro in Fleetwood street.

Jewelry valued at $2,000 was stolen late Saturday night from the home of Mrs. Rose Meglicco, of 117 Mendota street. Early today North Side police arrested Raymond Moore, 33, of 232 Isabella street, in connection with the robbery, they said. Mrs. Meglicco told police Moore formerly roomed at her home.

PICKPOCKETS BUSY

Pickpockets robbed John Diamond, of 4125 Butler street, of $14, and Henry Isovich, of Butler, of $5 while they were riding in street cars yesterday. Mrs. R. Atkinson, of 1011 Laclair street, was robbed of $50 in a similar manner while shopping in a downtown store.

The theft of $1,220 in cash, and jewlery valued at $50 was reported from the home of Samuel Wise, of 311 Larimer avenue, last night. The money was stolen from a trunk, police said.

Five young men held in the South Side Police station as bandit suspects were to be questioned by police today, in connection with holdups in the South Side.

Although they admitted stealing automobiles, they denied participating in holdups, Capt. Dennis Hennessy, who arrested them after a chase early yesterday, said.

The suspects said they were Dominic Bartirone, 21, of 1540 Lincoln avenue; Thomas Martino, 21, of McKnight street; Joseph Angelo, 19, of 1034 Gibbons street; George Shannon, 19 of 506 Cedar avenue, and Louis Petrone, 18, of 86 Wabash avenue.

THINKING IT OVER :-: By Hal Coffman

YOU MAY EAT BETTER

Sound sleep is a blessing, the poets tell us. You remember that Shakespeare called it "calm nature's sweet restorer" and spoke highly of it as "knitting up the ravelled sleeve of care."

Eating, though seldom a subject for poetry, is also advisable.

Mr. Coffman pictures for you here the relative merits of sleeping and eating.

The gentleman in the upper part of the sketch is eating well, if not wisely. His 10 per cent from unsafe securities encourages him to do that, while he gets it. Later, when he doesn't get it, he will remember those meals with interest.

He will wish he had eaten less, and slept soundly on 5 per cent in gilt-edged securities, as the gentleman in the lower berth is doing.

His health would be better.

It is sad indeed when you can neither eat nor sleep, as Mr. Coffman intimates here.

Recent events may have taught you that, however, in which case this cartoon will not appeal to you.

BOOTHS OPENED IN SEAL SALES

The annual booth sale of Christmas seals under the auspices of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh opened today and will continue until December 21. Booths, presided over by club women and those prominent in church organizations, are located in the lobbies of public buildings, hotels and stores in various parts of the city.

A half hour musical program to be broadcast by KQV at 8 p. m., will mark the opening of today's public sale. The program features Catherine Mornewack, contralto; Mary Jones Kinnard, soprano, and Amelia R. Miller at the piano. It will consist of numbers appropriate to the season and to the cause. During the program Dr. H. B. Burns, director of hygiene, Board of Education, will give a talk in the interest of the seal sale.

The Christmas Seal Committee, Grant Curry, chairman, asks the public to help it complete its work by making prompt return on the seals that have been sent out by mail. Early payment for seals along with the return of those not desired, Curry said, aids the committee greatly. Persons able to take only part of the seals or unable to take any are asked to return them in the stamped envelope that has been enclosed for that purpose.

DRIVER BEATEN AFTER AUTOS COLLIDE

Motorist Seeking Names of Occupants of Car That Caused Crash Attacked

South Side police today were seeking the occupants of an automobile who beat and kicked John M. Kaufman, 19, of 319 Bausman street, when he leaped on the running board of their car after it had crashed into his machine, police declared.

The machine struck Kaufman's automobile as he was driving in the Liberty Tubes early yesterday. He pursued the car, forced it to stop at the end of the tunnel, and jumped on the running board to learn the driver's name.

The driver increased his speed, and when the car reached Pioneer avenue, one of the occupants knocked Kaufman to the street, according to his story to police.

The machine was stopped and its occupants continued to beat and kick Kaufman intil he lost consciousness. He was taken to South Side Hospital.

VICTIM OF SHOT IMPROVING

Physicians at the Presbyterian Hospital said today that the condition of William Gunther, 25, of Troy Hill, shot early Sunday while in an auto on the Babcock boulevard, was "slightly improved."

Carl Kunkle, 22, of Milvale, arrested by County Detectives Phil Goldberg and William Black after the shooting, told them, they said, that Gunther was injured while Kunkle was examining a revolver.

The two of them, with Andrew Baumgartner, of Millvale, were in the car at the time, detectives said. Baumgartner disappeared after the shooting and is being sought for questioning.

PUPILS SEEKING TEACHER VOTES

East Liberty school children are enthused over the "Earn Your Teacher a Christmas Gift" campaign being waged in that district, and merchants report a great demand for ballots from customers of all ages. Teacher after teacher, they say, has been nominated and voted for in this popularity contest.

The plan by which East Liberty merchants hope to find the community's most popular teacher has been outlined by Patrick Flood, of the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce.

Merchants participating in the campaign are called "Authorized East Liberty Merchants." Every 10 cent purchase in the store of one of these merchants allows the customer one vote. This vote may be cast for any teacher he or she prefers.

Fifteen teachers in various grades of the public, private and parochial schools of Pittsburgh will be awarded Christmas gifts of radios. The winners of these gifts will be chosen solely by the number of ballots cast for them.

The radio sets are each worth over $200. The campaign will continue until Christmas eve; radios will be awarded shortly afterward.

VICTIMS BURIED UNDER TONS OF EARTH

Workers Entombed 2 Hours In Carnegie Ditch Before Rescue Gangs Reach Them

One man was killed and two were injured, one seriously, when a sewer trench, in which they were laying a pipe, caved in, burying them under tons of earth, in Kennedy street, Carnegie, last night.

George Carminicci, 40, of 528 Logan street, Carnegie, was dead when dug out by rescuers. Mauro Martino, also of Carnegie, is in Mercy Hospital in a serious condition. The third victim was given first aid by a nearby physician. His name was not learned.

The men were at the bottom of the trench, Carnegie police said, laying a sewer pipe, 16 feet from the surface, when the plank retaining walls of the trench gave way and buried them.

Carnegie police first responded. Later the Carnegie and Glendale fire departments were called out. Under the leadership of Chief of Police Christ Keisling, of Carnegie, police, firemen and pedestrians worked with shovels until the men were taken out.

They were entombed for more than two hours, rescuers said. They were lifted out of the trench shortly before 7 p. m.

Weather Conditions.

The skies are overcast over much the greater portion of the country, and it is raining over Iowa, Missouri and Illinois and snowing at scattered places in the Northwest. Rain has also set in over the Pacific Coast states. A ridge of high pressure stretches from Saskatchewan southeastward to the South Atlantic states and a marked low pressure area, central over Washington covers the Pacific coast and most of the Rocky Mountain states. The temperatures are near freezing over the Ohio Valley states, between 25 and 30 degrees over the central plains and near zero over the Northwest border states.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling generally and in some stretches of the Allegheny the water is rising due to ice gorges. There does not seem to be sufficient water to bring ice out. Stage at Franklin is 3.6 feet; Parkers Landing, 7.0; Lock No. 7, 12.9; Pittsburgh, 13.0; Dam No. 2, 10.4; Dam No. 6, 9.6; Dam No. 9, 11.2, and Dam No. 12, 9.6. All the dams, excepting No. 4, are down.

MINES BUREAU IN BLAST PROBE

Representatives of the United States Bureau of Mines conferred with Coroner W. J. McGregor today in the probe of the gas explosions in Munhall last week which destroyed the postoffice and claimed six lives and injured 40 persons.

Deputy Coroner Frank Spitzer was detailed to the Homestead Hospital to interview postoffice employes, injured in Thursday's blast, who are now sufficiently recovered to give statements. Several in the hospital are still in a critical condition, according to physicians.

The date for the inquest will not be set until most of the injured are able to appear, the coroner indicated.

The new gas main, 400 feet in length, was installed today as workmen began to clear away the debris. The main replaces the leaky one believed responsible for the blast. Chief of Police O. E. McNaughton and Earl Honse of the postoffice department, are guarding the workmen and taking charge of mail and valuables recovered.

Rome Views Papal Guard Outside Vatican

ROME, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—For the first time in the history of united Italy a band of the papal armed corps, the Palatine Guard, was seen in the city of Rome outside of the Vatican City last night.

They marched to the Piazzi di Spagna, the American and foreign section of the city, where stands a column to the Immaculate Conception on which is a statue of the Virgin Mary. The Papal guards assisted in the celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the promulgation of the doctrine of the Immaculate Conception.

The column was heaped high with flowers and a number of searchlights were focused on it. A considerable crowd attended the ceremonies.

The appearance of the Palatine Guard is a result of the recent settlement of the Roman question by the Lateran treaty.

SLEUTH CHASE TRAPS FOUR

Three youths and a girl, who ran afoul of Detectives Guy Daley and Robert Patton, during investigation of the theft of an auto, were held for court today by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones.

Daley told the court they had located the car, stolen from William McMullen, Crafton, in the rear of Mercy Hospital. They waited and the three youths, Robert Thompson, 16, Malory court; Louis Manfredo, 18, 1810 Forbes street, and William Birch, 16, of 48 Chatham street, appeared.

The detectives said the youths ran Daley, a swimmer and trackman of note 20 years ago, caught Thompson as he ran into the apartment of Rose Melinchak, 20, at 1103 Fifth avenue.

The girl slammed the door in the detective's face, he said, and he had to kick it in. The girl was held as an accessory and the youths for larceny.

Policeman Killed Fighting Burglars

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—William Hicks, 27, Kansas City, Kan., patrolman, was killed last night in an attempt to arrest two men who had entered the home of Dr. Glenn D. Asdel here. A patrolman was killed and another seriously wounded last week by gangsters. A fourth policeman was the target of an assassin's bullets, but escaped uninjured.

Baseball Stage Is Set. • Leifield Lauds Traynor.

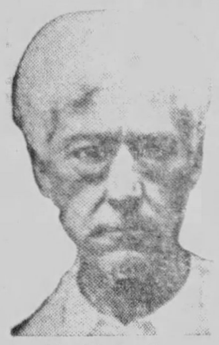
IMPORTANT ITEMS CONFRONT MOGULS

BASEBALL will now take the sport stage in real earnest. The minor league convention held in Chattanooga last week was only a sort of prelude to the big doings, the annual series of major league meetings, which will begin tomorrow in New York, when the National League opens its yearly confab. The magnates of the senior circuit will continue their deliberations on Wednesday, on which day the American League also will convene, and on Thursday the moguls of the two loops will meet in joint session, with Commissioner K. M. Landis presiding.



K. M. Landis

Sometimes these gatherings result only in prolonged gabfests, and are productive of little more exciting than the official announcement as to what clubs won the year's pennants, or the reports of the league presidents showing how many baseballs were used during the season. On this occasion, however, there is a fair prospect of developments that will be of greater interest to fandom in general.

FOR one thing, the club owners have got to do something toward shortening the period of the playing schedules and keeping the world series from running far into the football season. For another thing, there is a call for action that will reduce the number of joke home runs, either by taking some of the rabbit out of the ball or lengthening the 250-foot requirement.

In addition there are several other matters that demand attention for the good of the game, and if the magnates do not dodge the issues the annual proceedings should be far more interesting than usual. Besides, the possibility of some player deals being put through would appear to be stronger than is generally the case, in view of the fact that at least six new managers will be trying to strengthen their teams. At least there will be plenty of proposals and counter proposals, even if the pilots, as usual, fail to get anywhere in most cases, and on the whole the week promises to provide lots of fodder for the hungry fans.

THE continued growth of Knute Rockne's fame as Notre Dame's football coach has revived discussions of his playing days. Two local gridiron followers ask for information that will settle a dispute as to whether Rockne ever made the all-America team.

The answer is that he did not. The best he ever got was a position at end on Walter Camp's third all-America eleven in 1913, Knute's final playing year at Notre Dame, just before he became an assistant coach under Jess Harper.

Knute Rockne

CAMP selected as the ends on his first team that season Hogsett, of Dartmouth, and Merillat, of the Army. For the second eleven his terminal choices were Fritz, of Cornell, and Hardwick, of Harvard, and for the third team he named Solon, of Minnesota, and Rockne. Eichenlaub, of Notre Dame, was picked as fullback on the second all-America team the same year. No player representing Notre Dame was ever named on the first all-America eleven until 1920, when George Gipp received the fullback award. The only other first all-America position ever given to a Notre Dame man by Camp was that drawn by Harry Stuhldreher at quarterback in 1924. Just one other player among the Four Horsemen received more than honorable mention that season, Sleepy Crowley being shifted from halfback to fullback and named on the second team.

SPEAKING of Stuhldreher, that once great quarterback who is now head coach at Villanova, foresees a coast-to-coast use of the Rockne school of coaching. "With the completion of the new Notre Dame stadium within the next few months," he said at a Knights of Columbus luncheon in Philadelphia, "there will probably be a definite curtailment of the trips made by the Irish.

"Most of the team's games will be played at home, and the major portion of the schedule will be confined to the Middle West, instead of being nation-wide, as at present. However, this will not mean any lessening of Rockne's influence. Members of his teams who have absorbed and can teach his system are in greater demand than ever for coaching positions and will be found tutoring teams all over the country."

LEFTY LEIFIELD, who southpawed for the Pirates from 1905 until he was traded with Tommy Leach to the Cubs in 1912 for King Col and Artie Hofman, points to Pie Traynor as an example showing young baseball players how they may advance in their profession by taking their work seriously and trying to perfect themselves.

Pie Traynor

Leifield, who managed the Oklahoma City Club in the Western League last season, and was recently made manager of St. Paul in the American Association for 1930, asked while discussing the third basemen with Sid Keener: "Who's regarded as the best in the business on a sharp grounder close to the bag?" "Pie Traynor, of the Pirates," was the reply.

"THAT'S the one," came back Leifield. "And do you know why? He had a batter at the plate burn them down to him straight down the line for an hour each day when he started to play third base. Pie was a shortstop, originally. Until I told one youngster on my club this year of the big opportunity he was missing by failing to get out and hustle, the boy really did not take his baseball seriously. After the Fourth of July he became the best prospect on the team. In two years he'll be a big leaguer.

"THAT'S the trouble down in the minors—the manager does not take the proper interest in his youngsters. And the youngster himself does not realize that he has a profession worth $10,000 a year between his palms if he'll only keep hustling and try to develop his native ability.

"Ball players during my days as a major leaguer in Pittsburgh and Chicago a goodly while back were different from the majority of players in the big show today. There was more hustle and get-up in evidence on every side years ago."

UNLESS the thing winds up in a draw, which is unlikely, one of the heavyweight fighters remaining in the race for a match with Jack

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Taking a three-goal lead in the opening period, New York's Rangers trounced the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5 to 1, in a dull National Hockey League game last night. The Pirates were outplayed in every department of the game and were on the defense most of the time.

New York's brilliant trio of forwards, the Cook Brothers and Frank Boucher, slammed in three goals in the opening frame, each getting one.

Paul Thompson gave the Rangers a 4-0 lead early in the second period, while Boucher put in the final goal two minutes before the game ended.

Pittsburgh's only goal came late in the second period, Bud Jarvis, taking the rebound of McCaffrey's shot, to score. The lineup:

Rangers—5.		Pirates—1.

DUKES OPPOSE IOWA TONIGHT

IOWA CITY, Ia., Dec. 9.—The Duquesne University basketball squad addived in this city early today and tonight the Pittsburghers will open their 1929-30 court campaign by meeting the University of Iowa five. The Dukes are opening a three-game invasion of the middle west with tonight's contest.

The Dukes, with four veterans in the lineup, are favored to give the Big Ten quintet a strenuous battle tonight. The game will be the first in which a Duquesne athletic team ever has met a Western Conference team.

Tomorrow night, the Pittsburghers will be idle, returning to Chicago for a game with Loyola University there Wednesday night. On Thursday, the invasion will be brought to a close with a game in Elmhurst, Ill., with the Elmhurst College five.

Coach Chick Davies, of the Dukes, expects to use the following starting lineup against the Iowans tonight: Vernon, center; Capt. Benedict and Lubic, forwards; Stephens and Wilder, guards.

BELMONT BOXES COOPER TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, becomes a "big leaguer" in boxing tonight, when he meets Farmer Joe Cooper, of Terre Haute, Ind., in the 10-round main bout in Motor Square Garden. It will be the first start of the veteran James (Red) Mason's welterweight protege in a windup at a major club.

Jimmy has been priming for this opportunity for months and is fit to make the most of it. When he went with Mason he stood discredited as a prospect after making a fine start upon his desertion of the amateur ranks for the professional rings. A series of bad fights got him into the bad graces of the fans, but Mason put him back on the winning path and built him along to main bout estate, and now he's ready to step out against the best.

Just how Belmont, a hard hitter, will fare with Cooper remains to be seen. The Farmer, in his only other start here, grabbed a decision over Buck McTiernan. That was about a month ago. He showed a lot of ring cunning that night and he will match his experience and generalship against the youth and punch of Belmont.

Young Rudy, of Charleroi, boxes Jackie Herman, a good welterweight, of Wheeling, in the eight-round semi-final tonight. Young Joe Walcott, of Washington, Pa., and Gene Reed, of Charleroi, are in the second bout and Elmer Freeman, one of the stars of the recent West Penn amateur championships at McKeesport, turns professional against Cowboy DeLuca, of Lawrenceville, in the opener.

M'TIERNAN TO REST

Jack (Buck) McTiernan, of Swissvale, who was knocked out by Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, in the third round of their main bout at the Moose Temple last Friday night, leaves today for a stay of four or five weeks at Hot Springs, Ark., where he will take treatment for the after effects of his siege of rheumatism before donning the gloves again. Following the stay at the Spa he probably will go up into the Adirondack Mountains in New York

LOCALS STOP IN DODGE CITY FOR DRILL

BY JESS CARVER,
Staff Correspondent.

DODGE CITY, Kan., Dec. 9.—Carnegie Tech's Touring Tartans, their hearts and minds set on the intersectional game Saturday in Los Angeles with the University of Southern California, stopped off here today for their first workout of the long trek across the nation.

Today's stop marked the completion of the second leg of the journey. The squad left Pittsburgh Saturday night, spent half a day and a few bucks in Chicago yesterday, rolled through Kansas City sometime during the night and then stepped gingerly off their Pullmans here this morning.

SNAPPY WORKOUT

The bucks mentioned that were spent in Chicago went for the first souvenirs of the trip. Most of the young men of Carnegie determined to save their dough in order to buy real Indian blankets, moccasins, beads and other aborigine knick-knacks in New Mexico and Arizona; knick-knacks which are manufactured in Fall River, Jersey City and West Twenty-third street, New York City.

Today's workout was a snappy one. Coaches Steffen and Waddell put the boys through some invigorating setting-up exercises, and then ran through some of the formations. No little attention was paid to the aerial game, with McCurdy flipping the ball to Rosenzweig, Eyth, Pete Flanagan and Lanky John English. The squad was well photographed, several group photos of John Karcis being taken.

So far, there have been few serious attempts made to put across any delicate finesses in the various bridge battles on the train. Joe Morbito tried to finesse a jack last evening, but when his partner very dutifully trumped it after it had gone through, Mr. Morbito, to say the least, was peeved. Well, I can't watch the cards and the scenery at the same time.

TECH SERIOUS

Seriously speaking, that is just how the Tartans are taking this game with the Trojans. Seriously I mean. The players are getting a wonderful kick out of the pleasant trip, but they are also laying deep and dark plans to knock the tar out of old U. S. C. The Skibos feel that if they can click against the Trojans as they did against New York U. in Gotham Thanksgiving Day, they will be able to beat Southern Cal. This is a very commendable attitude for the Tourists to take. It will certainly put the old fix on Pitt's Rose tournament game with U. S. C., if Tech beats 'em this Saturday.

Tomorrow will find this happy family (though it won't be so happy if I don't pair up a set of face cards soon) in Albuquerque, New Mexico. It has been sug-

FEW FAVORITES COME THROUGH AS EXPECTED

By CAPT. BIFF JONES
Head Football Coach, United States Military Academy.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 9.—No football year has ever seen more upsets and surprises than the current one. Teams that were conceded high places in early season fell by the wayside and many with lesser expectations rose to the heights.

In the East, Pittsburgh, Harvard, Yale, Army, Dartmouth, Columbia, Navy and N. Y. U. were the early-season favorites.

It was not long in the season before most of them started to hit the bumps. Pittsburgh was the only one to hold on successfully.

First went N. Y. U. when they met Fordham. The latter team, as proved by this game and by later events, was very much under-rated. N. Y. U. had its passing game turned back by interceptions and on its part could not stop Fordham's heaves. The result was a decisive 26-0 defeat for N. Y. U. They were later defeated by Georgetown and Carnegie Tech.

COLUMBIA FALLS DOWN

Columbia started off with high hopes. Dartmouth, at the peak of its game crushed it under an avalanche of touchdowns, 34-0. Defeats by Cornell, Colgate, Penn and Syracuse followed. Be it said for Columbia that its Cornell game was lost by the closest margin of the year. On the final play of the game, the officials had to retire for a conference to decide whether or not Columbia had made a touchdown. This score, if made, would have at least tied Cornell, and provided the point after touchdown had been made, would have won the game for it.

Dartmouth after its Columbia game was heralded as the strongest team in the East. Spectators at the Harvard-Dartmouth game were ready to concede that position after watching the Dartmouth's four-quarter dash and charge. On the following Saturday, however, Yale successfully turned back Dartmouth, accomplishing a great surprise to all the dopesters. Incidentally, in all their years of competition Dartmouth has never beaten Yale and this was supposed to be the year. Dartmouth in their last game of the season was defeated by Navy. However, the Hanover team was without the services of Marsters, their star back, after the Yale game.

Army was tied by Harvard in the last minute of play by a sizzling pass hurled by Barry Wood. On the following Saturday, Yale beat the Cadets, when Albi Booth made three touchdowns after Army was 13 points to the good. Illinois and Notre Dame later beat the Army in close games.

YALE COMES BACK

Yale, after an early-season defeat at the hands of Georgia, came back fast and won from Brown, Army, Dartmouth and Princeton, but lost their climax to Harvard.

The surprise teams of the East were Fordham and Colgate. They are rated after Pittsburgh as the strongest in the East.

In the Western Conference great things were predicted for Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Illinois finished second, Wisconsin had its worst season in several years and Minnesota fell before Iowa and Michigan. Purdue, not given much of a break in the early dope, gave the first indication of strength in that final period at Michigan. Purdue went through an undefeated season. Credit to Mr. Stagg also for his two victories over Chicago's intersectional rivals.

Nebraska ran true to form in the Big Six Conference. It was held to a scoreless tie in its opening game by Southern Methodist and beaten in a close game by Pittsburgh, but these two were among the strongest in the country.

In the South, Tennessee ran true to form, holding its undefeated record for three years. Georgia Tech and Alabama had disappointing seasons, both being heavy favorites in the Southern Conference. Tulane, Vanderbilt and North Carolina all had unexpected success.

The Pacific coast race showed the futility of trying to figure games on the basis of previous scores. Southern California beat Stanford. Then California beat Southern California, only to be defeated later by Stanford.

WANTS RETURN BOUT

Buck has his heart set on another meeting with Solmen, who put up a great battle to turn the tables on him Friday night after having been stopped by the local man in the same ring last spring. Buck still is one up on Mickey, it develops, for their bout last week was their fourth and not their third meeting. They first fought in McKeesport, with McTiernan winning the honors. Then they boxed a draw at Motor Square Garden, after which they engaged in their two battles at the Moose. McTiernan, while not disposed to take away any of the credit or glory from Solmen for the latter's clean-cut victory in their most recent clash, still is confident that he is Mickey's master and his comeback campaign after his layoff will be concentrated on demonstrating this.

Solmen was in virtually the same physical condition and frame of mind when he was knocked out by McTiernan last spring as Buck was last Friday night. Mickey had been boxing too often and was stale when he faced McTiernan and proved an easy victim. His manager, Eddie Weygandt, announced that he was going to give Mickey a rest of a couple of months and then have him fight his way back to another meeting with Buck in which he promised his man would even the score. Solmen came back bigger and stronger than ever before in his career and hung up a string of knockout conquests, climaxing it with his sensational victory over Buck. What Mickey accomplished with a rest, McTiernan and his manager believe the Swissvale product also can do. The experiment should prove interesting.

Pin Event Leader Ends String With Perfect Score

TOLEDO, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Rolling in the singles of the Central States Bowling Association tournament here yesterday, Johnny Crimmins, of Detroit, ended his string with a perfect 300 game, that, with other games of 224 and 201, gave him a total of 725 and the lead in the individual division.

Between Rounds

Phil Scott to beat Otto Von Porat, Maxie Rosenbloom to beat Yale Okun and George Hoffman to take Marty Gallagher look like good bets in the New York American's Christmas Fund show in Madison Square Garden tonight.

This Moise Bouquillon, the French-Canadian, who boxes Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City heavyweight, in one of the feature bouts of the Christmas fund show headed by a meeting between Johnny Risko and Ernie Schaaf in Cleveland tonight, fought Primo Carnera, the Italian giant, in Paris some six months ago, losing the decision.

It will be a case of a fast-moving boxer with one of the most versatile left hands in the business against a rugged body puncher when Young Saylor, of Charleroi, clashes with Tom Malco, of Soho, in the 10-round windup in the Moose Temple Friday night.

DeMARCO AT M'KEESPORT

Cuddy DeMarco, of McKeesport, fighting his way back along the comeback trail, has consented to take on Danny Russell, of Baltimore, in the first 10-round bout on the all-star card of three 10-rounders and a six-round opener at McKeesport Thursday night. Russell is touted as a good puncher and is being brought here by Nick Glasser, of Braddock, former local promoter. Ike McFowler and Chuck Taggert, heavyweights, will box the windup and Eddie Brannon is in with Georgie Safron in the first 10-rounder.

Matchmaker Ray Eberle, of the new indoor boxing arena at Junction Park, New Brighton, has signed Johnny Rich, of Cleveland, protege of Bryan Downey, former middleweight star, to take the place of Johnny Kusic, of Youngstown, against California Joe Gans, in the main bout of his show next Monday night. Rich is a hard hitter. Kusic drew the color line on Gans after accepting the bout.

In the two six-round preliminaries at Junction Park, Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, will box Billy Burke, of Cleveland, and Al Iovino, of Swissvale, will meet Young Sapienza, of New Castle, in the two four-rounders. Gritty Kid, of Beaver Falls, will meet Eddie Reynolds, of Cleveland, and Young Frankie Porto, of the Hill, will box Fury Frank, of Aliquippa.

Long's Sport Comment

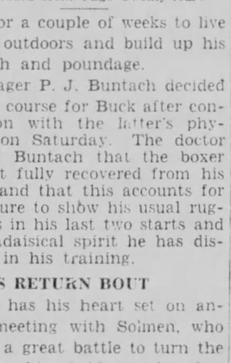
Sharkey and a chance to try for Gene Tunney's discarded crown will be eliminated in New York tonight, when Phil Scott tangles with Otto Von Porat.

Max Schmeling is by long odds the logical man to be sent against Sharkey in the proposed match at Miami Beach or Atlantic City this winter, but conditions are such that Schmeling is on the outside looking in, and tonight's winner it is expected, will get the Florida or New Jersey call. A Sharkey-Schmeling fight, if Sharkey still is leading the pack, probably will be worked up for a big outdoor show next summer.



Phil Scott

TONIGHT'S bout will be another test of boxing skill and speed against a punch. Scott is the better and faster boxer by far, and Von Porat has the wallop. The Norwegian, in fact, is rated the most dangerous puncher among the big fellows of today, but he has little else to recommend him, being a plodding, methodical ring workman, slow of foot and of brain. Scott does not look like a world beater, by any means, but the record he has made is not a poor one, on the whole, as measured by present-day heavyweight standards, and with everything considered the chances appear to be that the big Briton will outpoint Von Porat and win the decision through his superior speed and cleverness.

MORRY-FINTEX, ELIZABETH IN LEAGUE FRAY

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The Elizabeth Independents, one of the new entries in the Allegheny County League this season, will make their first appearance of the year at Duquesne University tonight when they oppose the Morry-Fintex quintet in the only league battle on the program.

The Elizabeth team scored an impressive victory over the Homestead Ackermans in its first league game of the season and is expected to present a strong front against the Fintex passers.

Two games are scheduled in the County League tomorrow, the Goldensons invading Duquesne to meet the champion Lafayettes, while the Franchinas open their home campaign by engaging Dad Rogers' Allentown Turners at Columbus Temple.

Manager Sammy Goldenson of the South Siders made an effort to postpone the game with the Lafayettes tomorrow owing to the fact that three of his regular stars will be unable to participate in the contest, but Ed Minnick, coach of the champions, refused to agree to a postponement. As a result the Goldensons will have to take the floor with a makeshift lineup.

The Commercial-Industrial League will start its basketball season tonight when four of the seven members swing into action for the first time. Real Estate Savings and Trust opposes Reick-McJunkin, while Potter, Title & Trust engages Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad. Judging from early reports this league is expected to enjoy its best season on the floor this winter.

Dribbles

Old rivals come together in the two West Penn League games on the schedule. The Knickerbockers, last year's champions, appear in the North Side Moose against the Ray Schnelders, present league-leaders, while the South Side Falcons act as hosts to the Penn Five of Sharpsburg.

Two games are listed tonight in the Central Pittsburgh League with Equitable Life at Trinity Church and the Forresters at National Music. The Irene Kaufmann Settlement House is setting a torrid pace in this loop, having won four league games in succession.

Johnny Beckman, who was released to the Celtics by the Rosies, will be back in the Cleveland lineup next Thursday night when the American League champions oppose the Morry-Fintex team at Duquesne University. Beckman recently was repurchased when the Celtics decided to disband for the season.

Davey Banks, star forward of the Celtics, who was sold to the Fort Wayne Guards only to refuse to report, has changed his mind and has joined the Indiana quintet. Nat Holman, ace of the Celtics and coach of the City College of New York varsity team, has agreed to go to Syracuse. The Celtics will finish out their American League schedule with an entirely new team.

Equitable Gas meets Sales-Service and Bylesby plays Pittsburgh Railways in the two Philadelphia Company League games carded at the Fifth Avenue High School tonight.

The Steel City League gets its official start tonight when North M. E. opposes the Stowe Independents.

In the City Junior League opener tonight the We Little Five invades Sharpsburg to meet the Penn Little Five.

The undefeated St. Michael's gridiron team, of Johnstown, flashed its stuff in the Pittsburgh district for the first time yesterday afternoon, and lost its battle with the much heavier McKeesport Olympics by a 12-to-0 score. The game was played on muddy field at Rainbow Gardens.

The Tube City outfit, being much heavier, battered the Mikes around, especially in the first half. Toline again proved himself the best ball carrier on the Olympic club by stringing off long gains. He scored the first touchdown in the initial quarter by plunging the line. Lee Berkman was on the receiving end of a forward pass to score the second touchdown.

Gall, the Mikes' center, played a great game. Minnick and Stulginski were the outstanding stars for the Tube City aggregation. The lineup:

Magai and Holm Join All-Eastern Eleven

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Walt Magai, guard and a star lineman at Pennsylvania for three seasons, has accepted an invitation to play with Andy Kerr's East eleven in the San Francisco Shriners' Hospital benefit game New Year's Day. Tony Holm, first choice for fullback on the Associated Press all-America team also joined the East's ranks.

Kerr will leave for the West Saturday to join Dick Hanley, Northwestern coach, in the job of assembling the all-star party at Evanston.

The Heidelberg Eagles trimmed the German Sport Club, 3 to 1, in their National amateur cup soccer battle at Bower Hill yesterday, in a fast, well-played contest.

The scheduled National open game between the Pierpont Motors and the Walkerville club, in Detroit, yesterday, was postponed until next Sunday due to inclement weather.

Fitz Henry won over Vestaburg 4 to 2; Douglas cracked the Jeannette Rovers, 8 to 2; Glendale swamped the Jeannette F. C., 6 to 1; Crafton Heights downed National Tube, 3 to 1; Union Switch trimmed Lewis F. C., 5 to 2, and Crucible Steel shut out New Castle, 5 to 0, in other big contests.

Donora's booters came through to topple Mather, 3 to 1, in their game, while Thoms Run walloped Celtic A. A., 8 to 2. Houston was blanked by Canonsburg, 2 to 0, in their battle.

The Pittsburgh Rovers drew with the Pittsburgh Celtics, 2-all, and Harwick and Corinthian tied, 2-2, in two deadlocks.

Moore, Pitt Star Cops National A. A. U. Crown

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Gus Moore, Negro star of the University of Pittsburgh, won the National A. A. U. senior cross-country championship over the Van Cortlandt Park course yesterday. It was his second successive victory. Moore covered the muddy six-mile course in 31 minutes 10 seconds.

Eino Heikkila of the Dorchester Club, Dorchester, Mass., finished second, about 300 yards behind Moore. Another Dorchester runner, Eldridge Stevens, was third.

The team title went to the Dorchester Club, with a low total of 33 points. The Meadow Brook Club, of Philadelphia, was second with 46 points and the Millrose A. A., New York, third with 56. Other team scores were: Nativity Catholic Club, Philadelphia, 88 points, and the Brooklyn Harriers A. A., 102 points.

Moore's victory was not counted in the team scoring as he was an individual entry.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 9.—The World Champion Rosies, of this city, who are to appear in Pittsburgh Thursday, maintained first place in the American League last night when they defeated Nat Hickey's Chicago Bruins, 19 to 15.

The contest was fast and furious. Ely, Kennedy, Russell and Hickey, all former Rosie stars, played hard to beat their former mates.

Until the closing five minutes, the game was always in doubt and Chicago led several times, but a sudden attack on the hoop by Husta and Skurnick decided the game. The better foul shooting of the home team was the deciding factor, as the field baskets were even at six. The lineup:

Cleveland—19.		Chicago—15.
Barr	R. F.	Hickey
Skurnick	L. F.	Kennedy
Lapchick	C.	Kellett
Diebert	R. G.	Ely
Husta	L. G.	Russell

Substitution—Wickhorst for Hickey. Field goals—Totals: Cleveland, 8 out of 40. Chicago, 6 out of 44. Individual—Skurnick 4, Lapchick 1, Husta 4, Hickey 1, Kellett 2, Ely 3. Foul goals—Cleveland, 3 out of 7. Chicago, 3 out of 6. Disqualified, Hickey. 20-minute halves. Referee, Sadler.

Why shudder at the word "SPIT"?

Yet continue to accept spit-tipped cigars. Why take chances—smoke Cremo.

The law against spitting is being violated by thousands of cigar smokers. There is hardly a smoker who doesn't remember seeing at least one filthy cigar shop where the man in the window rolled the leaves with dirty fingers and spit on the ends.

The authorities are doing all they can to stamp out such vicious practices. But it will take time. Meanwhile don't pay the penalty—avoid cigars you're not sure of.

Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by United States Government approved methods. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the danger of spit. Over $7,000,000 was spent in perfecting the method of manufacture used by Certified Cremo.

* * *

A suggestion, deliberately made with confidence to all smokers: Try a Certified Cremo—made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, all ripe and mellow. Each leaf goes through a slow, expensive maturing process that develops the fullest flavor and mildness. You never realized how good Certified Cremo is—don't let its 5-cent price stand in your way. Your physician will recommend a mild cigar in place of heavy, expensive brands. There isn't a bit of scrap in Certified Cremo . . . not a trace of floor sweepings. All long filler . . . all fresh, tender leaves . . . and topped off with a wrapper that is really fine! Crush-proof . . . immaculate . . . foil-wrapped . . . Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly had in mind when he said: "What this country needs most is a good 5-cent cigar."

Maybe that will be plenty long.

NATIONAL LOOP CONFAB OPENS TOMORROW

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Burleigh Grimes

Confident they have made a good move in acquiring Firstbaseman Gus Shur, of the San Francisco Seals, Pirate officials today were all set for further action in New York. Manager Jewel Ens and Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss left last night for the annual meeting, while Owner Barney Dreyfuss departed this morning for the metropolis. The sessions are due to get under way tomorrow.

Manager Bill McKechnie, of the Boston Braves, also is on the ground for the pow-wows. Skipper Bill spent Sunday with his family after returning from the Chattanooga meeting. The new boss of the tribe was unable to get any deals through at the minor league convention but he, with the other officials of the team, will stay in New York throughout the coming confabs.

GRIMES TO ATTEND

Another important member of the Pirate team who expects to put in an appearance at the winter session is Pitcher Burleigh Grimes, who spent a day in Pittsburgh last week after a sojourn in his home surroundings in Wisconsin. The ace of the sharpshooters says he wants to get a glimpse of a winter session, but, as he is one of the unsigned stars of the club, it is highly probable that he will meet with his employers regarding terms for next season. Burleigh is reported to be the highest-salaried member of the club.

That Suhr will lend an emphatic drive to the Buccos' attack is the firm conviction of Manager Ens. Jewel has had plenty of opportunity to study the young slugger in the past several years. Gus has played practically all of his professional baseball in his home town and Ens, in the role of assistant manager, has always been a student observer in the games in which Suhr has contested against the Buccos. Jewel noted the marked improvement in the work of the player who now will carry the Pirate banner.

ARGUMENT ON RADIO

The much-disputed question which concerns the broadcasts of ball games doubtless will be seriously discussed on Thursday when the two major leagues meet with Judge Landis. At least one owner—Phil Ball of the Browns—is opposed to giving the public the thrills without any return at the park. On the other hand, there are some magnates—the Cub bosses, for example—who think the new trend is helping the game.

The Browns lost a barrel of money, while the Cubs made close to a million last summer. The games were broadcast in both cities, so the question appears to have two sides.

If Judge Landis has his say in the matter, this white-haired jurist is apt to swing into the pace with the modern things, judging by his utterances of many years ago when an effort was made by the newspapers of New York to keep out the microphones. At that time Landis declared that in the light of progress he would be making a drastic move if he were to interfere with the development of the radio, or words to that effect.

MANY EAGER TO SWAP

The matter of a closing date for the regular season is another point to be threshed out. The plenitude of open dates that preceded the curtain of last October was not pleasing to some of the powers-that-be.

Nearly every club in the two major circuits is anxious to do some swapping, or at least to talk about it. Moreover, there are seven new pilots in the big show for next year and changes of this nature generally enliven the trade market. The National League has four new chieftains, three new appointments being noted in the junior circuit.

National League magnates will regret that they can no longer convene at the hospitable Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The building is to be dismantled, forcing the diamond folks from their long-time home. They will move to the Commodore Hotel for their sessions.

Iowa Director Puts Thoughts Into Poetry

IOWA CITY, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Dr. E. H. Lauer, director of athletics at the University of Iowa, has put into poetry his version of how the Big Ten became the Big Nine. Closing his talk at a mass meeting of students and alumni at Iowa City yesterday, Lauer recited:

Ten Western Conference schools
Getting along fine;
One went amateur—
And then there were nine.

Chillysauce

The action of the baseball-writer judges in awarding Rogers Hornsby the most-valuable-player prize will cause much surprise around the stove league circuits. The award marks the close of the custom in the league both major circuits having done away with the unsatisfactory departure.

Hornsby, perhaps was the most valuable player in the league last season, but he had won the prize before and there are many who think that the rules of procedure should eliminate a player who has copped the glory. The American League followed this course. Hornsby won the prize in 1925 and is therefore the only athlete to gain the plum twice.

Three stars of the Pittsburgh club figured well in the voting, they being Burleigh Grimes, Lloyd Waner and Pie Traynor. Grimes was fourth with 35 ballots; Brother Lloyd netted 30 and Capt. Pie picked up 27. The writer figured Traynor to be the most valuable player in the circuit, after Hornsby.

Redstone High Gets Fayette Trophy

ODDS FAVOR VON PORAT

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Phil Scott, the fighting fireman from London, battles Otto Von Porat, heavy-punching Norwegian heavyweight, in a 12-round bout for sweet charity's sake and, incidentally, for the possible chance of meeting Jack Sharkey at Miami in February tonight. The struggle looms as one of the most important of the winter season and officials of the Christmas Fund show have added an additional lure for boxing fans by announcing that the referee will be William Harrison Dempsey, Jack Dempsey for fistic purposes.

The show is being staged by the New York American. Mrs. William Randolph Hearst is chairman of the committee.

Because of his tremendous punching power, Von Porat has been established a slight favorite over Scott, but there is plenty of English money that says Scott will outbox and outspeed the big Norwegian and gallop away with the decision.

Maxie Rosenbloom, whose clownish tendencies in the ring have nothing to do with his capabilities as a boxer and fighter, meets Julius (Yale) Okun, another New York light-heavyweight, in the 12-round semi-final. George Hoffman, of New York, erstwhile national amateur heavyweight champion, takes on Marty Gallagher, of Washington, in a 10-rounder and two four-rounders complete the card.

Stowaway Grid Quarter Comes Back Hero

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Joe Marquette is one stowaway who made good.

Two weeks ago when the Pasadena Junior College football team sailed for the Hawaiian Islands for a game with the Kamehameha School, of Honolulu, Joe, a third-string quarterback, was dropped from the squad. He had other ideas, however, so he stowed away.

A touchdown behind and with only three minutes to go in the game played yesterday, Coach Frank Baker cast a worried eye around and spied Joe.

"Jump in there, stowaway, and do your stuff," he shouted.

Joe jumped, landed in a huddle, snapped a signal and tossed a long pass to Cox who scampered across for a touchdown.

Pasadena won, 14 to 13.

(This is the start of the third week of a daily feature which will take the fans and players through a series of 24 plays such as may come up at any time during a game. A better understanding of what is going on during a contest will be derived from following this interesting series.)

PLAY NO. 13.

During the intermission period between the first and second halves, Ragsdale, of DePauw, changes his jersey, which bears a different number. The second half starts and he has failed to report the change in the number to the scorers and the referee Then this is noted.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

The referee rules not only a technical foul against DePauw, but disqualifies Ragsdale for the remainder of the game.

Westinghouse May Pay More on Stock

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

A GREATER return to the stockholders of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company is believed to be in sight. This expectation is based on the continued activity of the company's business, its excellent financial condition, its rapidly increasing surplus and the fact that the present year's earnings will be nearly 2½ times the annual dividend requirements.

Bookings have gained steadily this year. Net profits have increased in line with bookings and the amount of orders on hand indicates that a high rate of earnings can be expected for some months to come.

Outlook Favorable

WHILE the general business outlook for 1930 is uncertain, several special factors make it seem quite probable that this company will continue to enjoy a good volume of orders. High money rates are known to have delayed the making of improvements by some utility companies which did not find it convenient to finance expansion by the sale of stock. The current state of the bond market should facilitate this delayed financing and should stimulate power station construction.

The year will also be a good one in the field of railroad electrification. Westinghouse will share heavily in the $100,000,000 program which the Pennsylvania is getting under way. Other roads also are working on important programs.

To Earn $9.75 a Share

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC is expected to earn about $9.75 a share on its combined preferred and common stocks in the present year. These issues are on a $4 annual dividend basis. The preferred and common stocks share equally in dividends after each has received $3.50 a share. Dividends have been paid at the $4 rate since 1920. In this period only 54 per cent of earnings was paid to stockholders. The only special payment during this time was a stock dividend of 10 per cent in 1924.

In the first nine months of this year net profit was $19,544,211 or $7.32 a share. This compared with $6.03 a share in the corresponding months of 1928. In the full year of 1928 net profit was $20,814,940 or $8.78 a share which established a high record.

Funded Debt Retired

THE company has no funded debt. On March 1 the issue of $30,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds was retired. Funds to do this were secured by offering holders of each eight shares of common or preferred rights to subscribe for one additional share of common at $105 a share. This increased the outstanding stock from 2,370,063 shares to 2,666,315 shares.

The readjustment of the capital structure resulted in a saving equivalent to about 11 cents a share on the stock each year. Interest of $1,500,000 a year was saved. Dividends on the 296,252 shares of additional stock at the present rate amount to $1,185,008, making $314,992 of additional money applicable to earnings over the regular dividend requirements.

Growth in Business

THE growth in business and profits is indicated by the following table of results for the first three quarters of the present year:

	Bookings	Billings	Net Profit
First	$ 59,852,029	$ 45,680,249	$ 5,631,700
Second	61,332,517	54,247,541	7,499,681
Third	64,440,589	59,716,988	6,412,830
Total	$185,625,135	$159,644,778	$19,544,211

New orders booked in the first nine months of this year were 29 per cent greater than in the corresponding period of 1928.

An increased return to the Westinghouse stockholders would be in line with action taken by other leaders in the electrical business. Both General Electric and Allis-Chalmers have taken such steps.

Yearly Cost of Coal Mishaps High

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Annual financial loss due to coal mine accidents is estimated at $188,000,000, which amounts to an additional cost of 14 cents for each ton of coal mined, according to Bureau of Mines.

In a recent typical year, bureau states, accidents caused a loss to miners in wages of $106,000,000. In this period, 2,518 men were killed and 181,300 accidents occurred involving loss of time. If the total compensation paid in case of all accidents averages one-ninth of the wages lost, miners annually lose about $125 for each man employed in direct wage loss due to accidents.

In metal mining, 430 men were killed and 30,500 men lost time by injuries. An average of 114 days lost time for each fatal and non-fatal injury, computing a fatality of 6,000 days lost, accounts for annual loss of 3,523,944 days, or a wage loss of $17,619,000. Such days lost in coal mining amount to 21,212,100. Losses to metal miners in wages total about $15,700,000 annually, or $122 for each individual.

5 Sisters, Vagrants, Occupy Same Cell

WINSTON-SALEM, — (INS.)—Five sisters, Lorene and Christine Ayers, Ida Belle Ayers Metley, Willie Ayers Russell and Alberta Ayers Gordon, occupy the same cell in the Forsyth County jail here.

The sisters, all natives of this city, were arrested and sentenced for vagrancy.

N. Y. State Buys Mountain Park Land

ALBANY, N. Y.—(INS.)—New York State has purchased 7,000 acres of new land in the Adirondacks and Catskill parks at a cost of about $60,000.

The state now owns about 7,000,000 acres of land in these two parks.

'Frisco Budget for 1930 Sets Record

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—St. Louis-San Francisco railway will expend $24,127,117 during 1920 for roadway and structures, new equipment and construction, the largest yearly expenditure ever made by the 'Frisco lines.

BIG BUSINESS NOW POPULAR IN AMERICA

Hoover Prosperity Confab Shows Swing From Old Days of 'Trust Busting'

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—The new way to political preferment seems to be in boasting concerning what you have done to promote business profits. Before the war, in the trust busting days, there was political capital in denouncing wicked corporations as exploiters of the public.

Of course, the recent Hoover stabilization conference with executives set a new high record in governmental approbation of the social utility of private business corporations operated for profits. A sign of the times is to be found in the annual report of the Federal Trade Commission. The commission, which started out some years ago as a foe to business, prefaces its present accounting to Congress with a section telling about the commission "as an aid to business."

The commission, conceding the popularity of business as a human institution, points out "American business saves hundreds of thousands of dollars each year through the Federal Trade Commission's activities in preventing and correcting unfair methods of competition"

"It would be impossible even to estimate for a given year what the abandonment of unethical and economically wasteful practices means to the business community in terms of dollars. The cost of private litigation that would be necessary were it not for the commission's procedure would alone be enormous to contemplate."

MORE BOND OWNERS

In a different political setting a governmental agency would have reported the same facts by emphasizing how it had rescued consumers from the clutches of greedy and profiteering corporations, managed by bloated capitalists.

In spite of the recent speculative debacle, securities are still far more widely distributed than in the past. The average American aspires not simply for a full dinner pail, but also for a tin box filled with good securities.

James Truslow Adams, retired business man and essayist, has written a book to prove that American culture has become almost wholly a business man's civilization. In his new volume, "Our Business Civilization," Mr. Adams points out: "Unlike in Europe, the business man with us finds himself the dominant power in the life of the nation and almost alone in his control over the direction of its entire life, economic, social, intellectual, religious and political. It is a situation that, so far as I know, is unique in history.

"I am by no means decrying business. If the business man has not, culturally, been a creator, he has done marvelous work as a middleman. In the phonograph and the radio, for example, the business man has brought together the work of the scientist on the one hand and the musician on the other in such a way that the lonely resident of a country village can listen to the symphony orchestras of perhaps a half-dozen cities."

BROKERS CUT STAFFS

Evidently Wall street brokers are not participating in President Hoover's experiment toward economic stabilization. The Chief Executive refrained from inviting creators and distributors of securities to the White House. Some brokers, responding to the shrinkage in speculative activity, are reported to have cut down their clerical staffs, being as ruthless with employes as with marginal customers.

The recent speculative debacle was not limited in its ravages to the small fry. Doubtless the losses to large interests resulted in shifting of control in numerous corporation setups. In time the public will be told of the changes. The first important public announcement concerns the William Fox interests. Announcing relinquishment of control of his vast motion picture producing and theater chains, Mr. Fox disclosed the apponitment of a board of trustees for the management of his interests. He is to be one of the three trustees. The announcement indicted that the reason for the new setup was the existence of obligations totaling $91,000,000 which Mr. Fox had arranged on a temporary basis. The financial storms evidently interfered with the refinancing program. This dramatic episode is in line with the economic trend of the control of great enterprises from the sway of individuals to that of large cooperative groups.

Against this trend, there remain some notable exceptions, especially Henry Ford, the economic sage of Dearborn, who survived the greatest crises of his career in 1927 when the Model T had become obsolete. Mr. Ford's comeback has been remarkable. Virtually all the gains in automobile sales in this record breaking year have been absorbed by his company.

Wall St. Journal Editor Is Dead

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—William Peter Hamilton, editor of the Wall Street Journal and well-known author and writer on financial and economic subjects, died at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., at 8 o'clock this morning after a brief illness of pneumonia. He was 63 years of age.

Forbes

A Nationwide Survey Yields Good Results

By B. C. FORBES

SATISFACTORY progress can be reported.

Industrial reports, while mixed, are encouraging under all existing circumstances.

Christmas retail buying is exceeding expectations in many centers.

Unemployment is being systematically kept down as much as possible by responsible enterprises.

The money market is distinctly attractive to borrowers.

Stock quotations moved up every day last week, with one exception, yielding a net gain for the week of some 15 points.

Hysteria has completely disappeared from Wall street. And business men, with few exceptions, are living up to the spirit of the Hoover conferences.

GROSS farm income for 1928-29 was $12,527,000,000, the highest—with the exception of 1925-26—since 1920-21. 9nd Secretary of Agriculture Hyde reports that agricultural conditions are improving and that total income for the current crop year should equal or exceed its predecessor. Conditions and prospects, "joined to the expectation that benefit will accrue to agriculture from the Federal farm board under the new agricultural operation of the Federal farm board under the new agricultural-marketing act, warrant confidence that better times are in store."

That's far-reachingly important.

THOSE of us who imbibe more or less of the Wall street atmosphere have a grossly exaggerated idea of the extent to which the rank and file of the people throughout the country have been directly affected by recent happenings. The estimate was recently ventured in this column that less than five per cent of our families had suffered direct losses in stocks.

On a week-end visit to Detroit I learned that an extensive national survey had been conducted "to determine basic conditions now existing in general industry, agricultural, wholesale and retail trade" following the Wall Street debacle. Henry Ewald, head of Campbell-Ewald, the far flung advertising agency, delegated men to interview "leading bankers, Federal Reserve executives, government and state officials, wholesale and retail store managers, and newspaper executives."

I have been privileged to examine the just-compiled results. Naturally, unevenness is recorded in different sections. On the whole, however, the picture is far from depressing.

IN facts revealed regarding the extent of the public's participation in the stock market decline are worth summarizing here, since they will brush away a lot of misconception and create a truer perspective. Thus:

Georgia—Not over 5 per cent of total families were losers. The average department store buyer is not interested in the stock market and will buy regardless.

Connecticut—It is thought the market drop took but few of the people with it. No recession of holiday retail trade is looked for.

North Carolina—Very few families were touched and there is no reason why the drop should affect retail trade.

Ohio—About 5 per cent of families lost paper profits. This will not affect retail buying.

Colorado—Apparently 5 per cent would easily catch all the losers. This will not affect retail trade to any great extent.

Iowa—Between 3 and 4 per cent were affected. This will have some influence on general retail conditions.

Texas—Stock losers don't exceed 5 per cent. They were a class who could afford to lose. No effect is noticeable thus far on trade.

Indiana—Only one per cent lost in the stock upheaval, it is estimated. This will not injure general trade.

Missouri—Not 5 per cent were affected at all. Farmers remain indifferent to security prices. Retail trade will not be appreciably influenced.

Arkansas—Many of the more wealthy families were caught, but the effect will be only minor throughout the state. Buyers are nervous, however, and few chances will be taken.

California—Not over 5 per cent. The effect on trade will be negligible.

Tennessee—Very few families suffered losses. The drop will have no possible bearing on anticipated business.

Minnesota—Results of security crash will not be much in evidence here. Some high-priced commodities may be somewhat retarded.

Louisiana—Only 3 per cent losses and mainly paper profits. The average customer is ignorant of securities.

Oklahoma—No appreciable effect on retail trade.

Nebraska—About 3½ per cent, mostly of the wealthier class. Slump expected after Christmas.

Maine—Very few affected.

Oregon—Not over 2 per cent. Trade unhurt.

Kansas—Probably not over 10 per cent sustained actual losses. Outlook not in danger thereby

WALL STREET and its doings are tremendously important, but Wall street does not constitute the whole of the United States. Life throughout the land apparently is going along very much as usual. And that's all that is necessary for reasonable prosperity.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (AP.)—Reduction in the volume of buying orders was accompanied by slight irregularity in the prices of bonds today. Profit taking was apparent, but it was of a minor nature and the dullness that characterized the early trading was attributable to a temporary slackening in inquiry.

Banks and corporations, which have been large customers in the last fortnight, are now showing less interest and it is apparent that the list has reached a level beyond which these purchasers do not care to bid, at least for the present. The municipal market has been offering lively competition to listed obligations and there has also been some switching of funds to stocks.

Time money rates stiffened, quoted 4¾ to 5 per cent for all maturities against 4½ to 4¾ last week. Demand for funds was reported to be increasing. Call loans renewed at 4½ per cent again, but the tone was firmer as the holiday requirements became more pressing.

Prices fluctuated in small fractions, on the whole, although a few of the inactive low coupon rails made wider gains on small transactions. Delaware and Hudson 5s, Indiana, Illinois Central first 3½s, Illinois and Iowa 4s and Western Pacific first 5s rose 1 to more than 2 points. St. Louis and Southwestern consolidated 4s lost a point. Adjustment income rails were on an upward move. Missouri, Kansas and Texas 5s rising a point and Hudson Manhattan 5s a large fraction.

Utilities and industrials dragged, although prices held firm. Pacific Telephone 5s, Wilson first 6s and American Ice 5s advanced, the last named selling 2 points above the last transaction.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

STEEL SHARES LEAD STOCK ADVANCE

Heavy Profit Taking Causes Sharp Declines In Some Recent Leaders

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—The rally in stock prices, which has continued with few interruptions since last Monday, was resumed today under the leadership of U. S. Steel common, but heavy profit taking brought about sharp recessions in some of the recent leaders. Extreme gains in the active issues ranged from 1 to 8 points, with Auburn Auto scoring an extreme gain of 31¼. Trading was in fairly heavy volume, with the ticker running about half an hour behind the market in the early afternoon.

The announcement of a 4-for-1 stock splitup in Swift & Co. common, coupled with rumors of other splitups and stock dividends, provided the chief background for the advance, a running in of the short interest, particularly in the copper and automobile shares, also stimulated the advance.

POOLS ACTIVE

Little attention was paid for the time being to unfavorable business news, many traders apparently taking the attitude that the recent reaction had sufficiently discounted the current recession in the steel and other leading industries. Pools were again active in a number of specialties, but there was a wide difference of opinion among brokers as to the size of their public following.

Brisk bidding for U. S. Steel common carried that issue up more than 6 points to 189, or 39 points above the low point reached in the break last month, but profit taking cut down the gain. Boston and Maine, a large block of which is reported to have been acquired by the Pennroad Corporation, ran up 8 points and Hudson and Manhattan preferred advanced 3, but the other rails failed to make much progress. Union Pacific and Erie each selling down 3 points.

The ries in the motors was regarded as the usual pre-automobile show demonstration, and was facilitated by the existence of a large short interest in those stocks.

COPPERS RISE

Anaconda, with a gain of more than 4 points, led the advance in the coppers, based, in part, on unofficial assurance that the 18 cents a pound price for the red metal would be maintained.

Otis Elevator converted a loss of 8 points into a gain of 4, and substantial gains were recorded by Johns Manville, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Air Reduction, Montgomery Ward and Electric Auto Lite. On the other hand, J. I. Case broke 6 points, Westinghouse Electric 5, Allied Chemical 5¾ and General Electric 6¼, although the last-named recovered part of its loss.

Establishment of a new high level since 1927 by sterling exchange, bringing it above the "gold export" point, featured the foreign exchange market.

COTTON YIELD HIGHER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Crop reporting board of United States Department of Agriculture places production of cotton in the United States as of December 1, last, at 14,919,000 bales, against 14,478,000 in 1928 and 12,955,000 in 1927.

The Census Bureau estimates ginning for 1929 crop prior to December 1, at 12,857,971 bales, against 12,560,154 in 1928 and 11,638,338 in 1927.

The crop reporting board estimates crop of 14,919,000 bales is equal to a yield of 155.3 pounds of lint per acre on 45,981,000 acres left for harvest after an abandonment of 3.3 per cent of 47,569,000 acres in cultivation on July 1, last. In 1928, yield per acre was 152.9 pounds and the 10-year average was 155.8 pounds per acre.

Production by states was estimated as follows: Virginia, 46,000; North Carolina, 735,000; South Carolina, 845,000; Georgia, 1,345,000; Florida, 29,000; Missouri, 215,000; Tennessee, 515,000; Alabama, 1,335,000; Mississippi, 1,915,000; Louisiana, 810,000; Texas, 3,950,000; Oklahoma, 1,200,000; Arkansas, 1,490,000; New Mexico, 84,000; Arizona, 156,000; California, 212,000; Lower California, 80,000.

Ginnings by states were: Alabama, 1,200,092; Arizona, 103,147; Arkansas, 1,251,765; California, 17,910; Florida, 29,675; Georgia, 1,176,882; Louisiana, 781,335; Mississippi, 1,692,572; Missouri, 161,553; New Mexico, 64,916; North Carolina, 599,352; Oklahoma, 960,035; South Carolina, 702,568; Tennessee, 395,907; Texas, 3,517,877; Virginia, 35,717; all other states, 5,668.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP.)—Operators for the advance struggled with frequent cross currents of profit taking on the curb market today, but despite interruptions were able to keep most of the popular shares headed higher. Price trends, however, were irregular and confusing, and changes were for the most part narrow.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

TRUSCON STEEL OUTLOOK GOOD

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 9—President Julius Kahn, of the Truscon Steel Company, voices the belief that 1930 business will be larger than in 1929.

"We have received reports from all parts of the country," states Mr. Kahn, "indicating that building construction will be much heavier in 1930 than this year. Industry has made much money this year and will keep on growing. The indicated amount to be spent for new construction is tremendous and will require, of course, heavy tonnages of fabricated steel products."

Truscon Steel will benefit materially from the public works projected for next year. Operation at present are 10 per cent above the seasonal level.

This Unusual Opportunity

Is Free to You—It Sure Looks Great

Maybe $50.00—$100.00 —$500.00 or MORE will be yours in a very short time . . . And this opportunity is FREE. Here it is in a nutshell.

I am drilling a test well for oil in Angelina County, Texas. I own the drilling rig. I will drill this well to 3,000 feet unless I find oil at lesser depth. I have reached a depth of 1,000 feet and it SURE LOOKS GOOD.

Big major companies have bought thousands of dollars of leases around my well.

In order to get acquainted with several hundred people who may be interested in my ventures, although under no obligation whatever, I am going to issue assignments to those who answer this advertisement, in a 35-acre oil and gas lease about a mile and a half from my drilling well. This is a valuable lease and worth real money right now. There are 1,000 interests in this lease to be given away free. If this lease proves to be oil land, I will sell it and divide the money with those holding these free interests handling for these interest holders without charge.

FILL OUT THIS COUPON AND MAIL IT TO

J. M. (Joe) Burnham
LUFKIN, TEXAS

ANYTHING, BUT THAT!

Before Paul Whiteman departed for Hollywood a few weeks ago he forgot himself and stepped on the accelerator of his machine. A cycle officer caught up to him and motioned him to the curb. "Pretty fast guy, ain't you?" grumbled the bluecoat, as he proceeded to write out a ticket.

"See here," cried the most famous orchestra director, "you can't give me a ticket. I'm Paul Whiteman!"

"Is that so?" was the devastating reply. "well I wouldn't care if you wuz Rudy Vallee!!!"

HEHEHEH

"WHAT," asks a health writer, "is more pleasant than a cold bath before breakfast?"

No cold bath before breakfast.

OLD, BUT CLEAN

Among F. P. A.'s favorite anecdotes is the one about Bugs Raymond, the once famous southpaw. The highbrow members of the Giants used to guy Raymond a great deal, some of the guying taking the form of large words. Christy Mathewson and McGraw were talking about a pitcher in Kansas City who used to pitch part of the game right-handed and part of it left-handed.

"Why, Bugs," said Matty, "do you know that fellow is positively ambidextrous?"

"Sure," Bugs is supposed to have answered, "that guy'd shoot you in a minute."

EAVESDROPPED

After looking at them for six hours at Madison Square Garden last night, a chorus girl said that the Six Day Bike Riders were wasting their time.

SILENT GREETING

Oh, I have felt the chill embrace
Of loneliness so long
That when you came to greet me, love,
I had for you no song.

Silent, I stood and bowed to you,
No welcome word I said;
It was so hard to realize
That loneliness was dead.

—Jennifer Goodman.

IN REBUTTAL

"MY dear Mr. Winchell: In your column, which I read daily, hoping you'll mention my name, I got a great kick out of your 'Love Finds A Way,' and it was very sweet of you to make it seem as though we were the 'Love Birds' of the theatre. I hate to disillusion a nice fellow like yourself (Ed. Note: Now no hero worship, madame), but I can't cheat a poor critic even if he did give me a good notice. So here goes for the truth.

"I'm up in the morning around 11 and out to breakfast alone. Back home to find husband dressed and on his way to his morning meal alone. The usual makeup on my face and off to the stores to go 'wish' shopping. I wish I had that ermine coat. I wish I'd married a Vanderbilt. I wish this show would run a year. I wish I had that pear-shaped diamond, and so on down the line till I can't get in the apartment door because I'm so laden with phantom bundles. Lo and behold! there's the baby boy sitting and reading the stock market page.

"He tells me what one share [illegible] Tel. and Tel. did for a [illegible] low in Worcester and if [illegible] could get two or three [illegible] would do for us. I [illegible] him because I hate to see people suffer, so I listen till he blackjacks me into a 'Darling, do just as you please, you have never been wrong.' Exhausted, I rise from my chair and suggest dinner. He wants to go to a nice tea room, and I want something to eat!

"After the fight, I mean meal, we hasten to the theater, where I meet Billy Gaxton several times during the performance and I keep thinking, all the while what a great break his wife Madeline Cameron got.—Sincerely, Helen Broderick."

OWWWW!

MAX STEINER, the pint-size orchestra director, was testing voices for the "Sons o' Guns" male chorus before the hit show opened. After accepting several lads, in walked a six-footer with terrific shoulders. Dropping his raccoon coat, he went up the scale, revealing a titter-provoking falsetto.

"You won't do," said the tiny Steiner as he waved him away.

"Wot do you mean I won't do?" replied the big "brute" as he twisted his pan into a threatening look.

"See here," promptly answered Steiner, who was half his tormentor's build, "you may be able to lick me, big boy, but you can't sing bass!"

MERCILESS TRUTH

Louis Schurr, known as the best of the big-time casters, who furnishes the first-raters you see in Mr. White's "Scandals," in the Warner's flickers and in most of the other entertainments, was having a difficult time of it with a so-so looking girl, who had failed in Hollywood.

"I'm sorry," said the exasperated casting expert after she called for the 'steenth time, "but you won't do. In the movies just now it seems to be a survival of the it-est."

THE RETORT GRAND

THEY credit it to Maurice Watkins, who authored the play "Chicago" a few seasons ago. When she was here one of the newspapers hired her to cover the Ruth Snyder-Gudd Gray murder case. Her first day in court Miss Watkins encountered an old newspaper friend.

"Well, well, well," exclaimed the friend, "murder trials certainly make strange bedfellows, don't they?"

"You mean," whispered Maurine, as she looked at the defendants, who eventually went to the chair, "that strange bedfellows make murder trials."

BEGIN WATER TANK WORK

The Pennsylvania Water Company has begun operations for the erection of a 665,000-gallon tank, of standpipe construction on Homewood avenue hill, Trafford.

This action has been urged for some time and was only brought about through considerable agitation on the part of the citizens and members of council. The water pressure has been low, especially at the higher points, and the erection of the tank, it is said, will create a uniform supply in all parts of the borough.

Women Voters Will Hold Anniversary

The tenth anniversary of the Twenty-sixth Ward unit, League of Women Voters, will be observed tomorrow afternoon in the American Legion home, 2610 Perrysville avenue. Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, Mrs. John Miller and chairmen of the various branch organizations in the city will be guests of honor. A program of music and talks has been arranged. Mrs. George Rickley is chairman of the Twenty-sixth Ward unit.

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES
DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e".

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

I KNOW HE'D NEVER COMPLETELY LOSE HIS HEAD OVER ANY WOMAN, ESPECIALLY ONE AS SCATTERBRAINED AS FLORENCE. BUT ON THE OTHER HAND HE'S JUST LIKE ANY OTHER MAN WHEN A FRIZZY-HAIRED WOMAN ROLLS HER EYES AND CRIES ABOUT BEING TERRIBLY MISUNDERSTOOD.
WELL BELIEVE ME SHE WASN'T MISUNDERSTOOD BY ONE PERSON. SHE JUST WANTED TO SHOW ME HOW EASY IT WAS FOR HER TO LOOK AT ANY MAN AND HE'D RUN ROUND IN CIRCLES. HA, HER DAYS OF VAMPING MEN WERE OVER 10 YEARS AGO! FIGURES DON'T LIE. SHE'S EXACTLY 1 YEAR AND 2 MONTHS OLDER THAN I AM AND NEXT APRIL I'LL BE.....WELL NO MATTER, SHE'S OLDER THAN ME AND I HAD THE SATISFACTION OF TELLING HER SO TOO.
I BLAME GEORGE, TOO. MORE IN A WAY, BECAUSE THIS AFFAIR MADE ME REALIZE HOW LITTLE A MAN APPRECIATES ANYONE WHO SLAVES FROM MORNING UNTIL NIGHT WITH A BROOM IN HAND WEARING HERSELF TO SKIN AND BONES. COOK-COOS by Ted Cook

(Copyright, 1929)

According to its president, Cyrus A. Cook, the purpose of the National Memorial Parks Association is "to make a graveyard a more cheerful spot."

Considering what has happened to the home, the wide-open spaces, and the cafe it might not be a bad idea.

* * *

But if they become too cheerful they'll attract too many visitors, and soon be more depressing than ever.

* * *

For example, consider the following news item

PEABODY (Mass.)—Disclosures of wild revels in a Peabody cemetery were made today by police who swooped down on a party in the cemetery chapel last Saturday night. Nine girls and women and twenty-six men were caught in the raid. Twenty gallons of beer were found in a tub in the cellar of the brick chapel.

And what the Wall Street lamb gets is the olden fleece.

PROGRESS RETURNS

For years the women fought until
In Freedom's name they won
Release from corsets fit to kill
And skirts that weighed a ton;
So now, in victory, they turn
And scamper back to where
They started out, so long ago,
To learn what not to wear.

* * *

Says Genevieve the kitchen cynic—

"Popular greatness comes from the ability to be extraordinary, with the accent on the ordinary."

More Snappy Excerpts from "Palaces of Sin"

SYNOPSIS—Ruth Willmore, the Michigan Beauty, is attending her first society function in Washington, D. C., and although she applauds the author's temperance speech, she is twitted into sipping champagne by Alonzo A——. Now go on with the shameful story—

"BEFORE the evening was over," declared the text, "Clara had drank more wine, and was 'mixing' with this strange crowd of society idiots with as much ease as though she was a veteran and had been brought up in the midst of such debauchery. In order to urge her on and make sure of her downfall, whenever she would display utter abandonment, the crowd, both men and women, would applaud her, which of course led her to believe in her bewildered condition that she was making the 'hit' of her life.

"Alonzo, the 'Ape' she was with, had the audacity to come to me (the author) and remark, 'Your convert, Miss Willmore, is a sample of your foolish twaddle about temperance.'

"I simply remarked that my sentiments were those of a gentleman, therefore I did not know whether he could comprehend their meaning."

Tomorrow you will be surprised to learn what Alonzo thereupon did!

Politics Proves Potent In Council Election

The election by Council and the mayor of George J. Kambach, lawyer of the South Side, as a member of Council, vice Daniel Winters, who resigned to take up the duties of city controller, proved, as previously indicated, that any independent element in Council is in the minority. The Kline administration is "in the saddle." In stating this, we are not passing judgment on Mr. Kambach, who is highly spoken of by those who know him.

It will be the general hope that he will make a good councilman.

It would have been a gracious act for the colleagues of Councilman P. J. McArdle to have united in choosing him for the vacancy, allowing him to stay in a body in which his service in behalf of the people has been conspicuous. A member of the "original nine," Mr. McArdle has been devoted to the ideal as well as practical in doing for the city, and it can truthfully be said that he has been a good councilman for the people.

Mr. McArdle continues to serve until the new councilmen, elected in November, come into office.

Are We Civilized?

Yes, in Spots.

"BLOODING" MISS CAREW.

This picture shows that our civilization may not seem entirely beautiful to angels that look down from above.

A new member of the Eridge Pack of Foxhounds in England, Miss Zia Carew, being "blooded" by the Master of the Hounds.

The Master smiles pleasantly. The lady looks as well pleased as possible, while she holds the bleeding "mask," the head of the fox just killed, and the Master smears her face with some of the fox's blood, using for that purpose the "brush," sporting name for the tail of the dead fox.

There's plenty of blood and the lady probably didn't look so beautiful as she turned away with the animal's blood on her face.

That is part of "sport," and there is, of course, really no harm in it. It is a survival of days when Victor Hugo's "Hans d'Iceland" drank the blood of his slain enemy out of a cup made from the top of another enemy's skull.

Those that are convinced that the highest function of a civilized human being is to kill some of the inferior animals, must do something to vary the monotony.

"Blooding" a new member, smearing a girl face with the [illegible], is in the program, and it doesn't hurt. The fox can't feel it. The lady is trying, and pleased, to be [illegible]tswoman."

Nevertheless, if we saw a gorilla kill another animal and then affectionately smear the blood over the face of a young female gorilla, we should be more than ever annoyed at being told that the gorilla is our cousin.

It is the gorilla that OUGHT to be annoyed about that relationship, for he is a vegetarian and sheds no creature's blood unless attacked.

Back to the Old

Revival of Ancient Names Advocated.

The new map of Europe, brought out by the National Geographic Society, is a startling commentary on the rise of nationalism since the World War. It gives the names of cities as the citizens insist they be spelled.

Warsaw is no longer that but Warszawa. Petrograd, of course, is Leningrad. What do you suppose the postman would do, if you were so ignorant as to write it St. Petersburg? Would it be lese Majeste, and would he indignantly deliver it at the end of the tongs? But most of the names hark back to the ancient traditions and foster a laudable native pride.

A movement is afoot in some American states to revive the old names of the territories, and use no disrespectful abbreviations. Wyoming wants to be called Mcheuwomink. Worst of all, some Bostonians hanker for where they live to be renamed Massawadschuasch. This sort of thing, as you will agree, can be carried altogether too far.

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

1—A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
2—Rapid transit.
3—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Community Fund for charities.
6—Town Hall, seating at least 15,000.
7—Voting machines to insure honest elections.
8—Development of river transportation.

The Ghost Writer

Drawn by Nelson Harding

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Off for the Icy South

A MEMBER of Parliament rocked gently on his elected heels the other day and welcomed England's guests to the South Pole.

"Bugs" Baer

If this is a typical parliamentary welcome it makes a guest room out of a cold storage plant.

It also reminds us that the intrepid Shackleton was the discoverer of the Antarctic picnic grounds.

We already have the mandatory over the north hub of the wheel. Admiral Peary discovered that and his claims were verified when Doc Cook used gumdrops as scientific instruments.

Neither Pole is within easy commuting distance of the high rent districts and the Republican Campaign Committee is slugnutty if it spends any gravy in these remote counties.

We concede England's claim to the land of the midnight freckle. We were polar explorers ourselves at the Army-Notre Dame game.

Eighty-five thousand bugs were chilblaining sweetly when the referee blew the whistle for the opening kick-off at that frozen tournament.

Zero was all over the place. Raccoon coats were voicing the call of the wild freshmen. It was so cold we gained 50 yards jumping up and down.

We checked up 30,000 silver pint flasks in skirmish formation. Then the old graduates opened with their heavy quart batteries at point blank range.

We got just as cold as anybody else, even if we never went to college. Our life was saved by a Princeton man breathing in our direction.

That game gave the public an idea of what Commander Byrd suffered trying to grab the handle of the world. He has opened up a new world for the peace advocates to wrangle over.

It is a continent of smiling icebergs and duplex igloos. Commander Byrd has discovered some new mountains for automobile tests.

We would like to join a basket party headed in that direction. But it must be a big basket.

Our share of the geographical plunder will be the forty-ninth state entitled to two Senators below zero.

England retains her rights of prior discovery and we hope she tries to grow tea there.

Ye judges who give judgment by law, ought to be obedient to the laws.—Cicero.

Life is a pure flame, and we live by an invisible sun within us.—Browne.

EUREKA!

By Herbert Kaufman

THOMAS ALVA EDISON, the Old Sleuth of Menlo Park, has unravelled another baffling mystery by locating the long-lost heir to the Rubber Kingdom.

Applying the identical detection methods which so signally triumphed in the famous "Case of the Incandescent Lamp," he has managed to eliminate all the false pretenders to a multi-billion-dollar estate, and establishes the Golden Rod's right to that succession.

He has not only produced artificial rubber, but, according to authorized report, manufactured it by a process which, on large scale operation, enables the substitute to be turned out at a cost approximating 16 cents per pound.

But much water and many moons must pass before such preliminary estimates may be verified. The requirements of industry, will scarcely be garnered from sporadic weed patches.

BEFORE goldenrod can qualify as a mainstay for enterprises requiring thousands of tons PER DIEM of raw material, vast areas must FIRST be devoted to its REGULAR cultivation, a harvesting technique developed and a complicated marketing system engineered.

The expense of gathering volunteer plants from here to hell-and-back precludes the possibility of utilizing such gratuitous growths.

Should the hope be vindicated, that we are to become independent of foreign sources and SOME day shall subsist our omnivorous needs from a native larder, it can only be after YEARS of deliberate preparation, and heaven knows WHAT adventures with overhead.

Mr. Edison must admit that labor, transportation and distribution will drastically correct his experimental calculation sheets.

IT'S one thing to walk into the back lot and uproot a batch of WILD FLOWERS, but quite something ELSE to contract for an incredible acreage of crops, tortuously shipped from every section of the continent.

The sap content of the stuff is obviously so negligible that a whole truckload, when concentrated into synthetic caoutchouc, would hardly seem adequate for a HOT WATER BOTTLE.

The handling charges, between farm and reduction laboratories ALONE, will likely equal 16 cents per NET pound—and probably EXCEED it.

So don't look for East India shares to crash just YET.

We'll be QUITE satisfied to pay current prices for any of his goods that conform to analytical standards. And thank Providence, TO BOOT, for release from the menace of war blockades and the consequent hamstringing of military and commercial efficiency.

OUR fortunes, our prosperity, our safety, are wrapped in rubber, and we shall not be ENTIRELY SELF-SUFFICIENT until American soil yields this vital necessity.

No man will deserve more from his countrymen—or IMMORTALITY—than the genius who thus enriches and secures our tomorrows.

From present indications, it appears that the most useful citizen of the nation has AGAIN placed the Stars and Stripes in eternal debt and pinned ANOTHER pair of donkey's ears on the morons who confide ALL EXPECTATION of important achievement in MIDDLE AGE and UNDER.

It takes a Gladstone, a Clemenceau, a Bernard Shaw, or an Edison, to prove how silly an Osler, with his HALF-CENTURY deadlines, can be.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

IT'S a common enough story . . . perhaps that's why it touches one so.

He's thirty-five . . . married . . . three kids. Last year he was running a small neighborhood theater . . . doing pretty well. But suddenly he got sick of it all. All his life he'd been breathing dirty city air and seeing sordid city sights. Now his youngsters were growing up that way, too. His little girls would be flirting around, wearing fake jewelry, living fake lives. His boy, maybe, would be one of those patent leather sheiks. He couldn't stand the thought of it . . . it got his goat.

Suppose he broke away . . . took them with him? Got a little place down country? He'd never farmed, but there couldn't be anything very hard about farming—other fellows were making a go of it. Perhaps he wouldn't make as much as he could in a movie, but they'd be really living at last.

Well, he did it. Of course everyone raised Cain—said he'd fail—pitied his poor wife and kids. But they couldn't budge him. It was the only big idea that had ever come to him . . . his one glimpse of Truth. If you're religious you might call it his one glimpse of God.

(You'd be surprised to know how many tired business men get glimpses like that.)

He's been there over a year now, and he has certainly had a tough time of it. He's still sure that it was a great idea and he feels that if he can hold on, he'll make a success of it. But the other night he got the blues and he sat down and wrote me how discouraged he was. Said that he didn't know himself why he wrote to me, a total stranger. . . . But he was "sunk so low" he couldn't talk to anyone else. "Seems like everything has failed me," he cried. "Maybe I was crazy to tackle it."

Hundreds of letters like that come. They're not really written to me at all, though they bear my address. They're a cry in the dark. They usually come from people who are trying to do something fine—but unpopular. People who are trying to write or study music after working hours—or who've cut loose from some bad environment and are gnawed by loneliness. People who've seen some glimpse of Truth or Beauty . . . then lost it, temporarily, in the fog.

Mighty few of us but have known that hour!

When it comes to me I clutch at the memory of those who are going or have gone through it, too . . . like you'd clutch a hand . . .

There's that story they tell of the Christ. He, too, had His big glimpse and made the sacrifice. In spite of our twistings, that record remains immortally beautiful. I am sure that He felt that it was worth all that it cost Him. And yet—even He had His black hour. Just before the end everything seemed to fail Him and He gave that terrible cry—"My God! My God! Why hast Thou forsaken me?"

That sense of loneliness and defeat—it's part of the price one pays for a glimpse of the Truth. If one can think of it that way, as a price rather than a punishment, it helps.

Text for Today

Thou compassest my path and my lying down and art acquainted with all my ways. For there is not a word in my tongue, but lo, O Lord, thou knowest it altogether.—Psalms, lxxxix:3, 4.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

IN THE intact mammal—ourselves for example—there is always a similar undercurrent of reflex activity. When we stand erect, or even when we sit up in a chair, there is a constant stream of impulses from the sense-organs responsible for our equilibrium, and a constant counter-stream that controls the tautness of our muscles and makes slight adjustments of the positions of our parts. And in this category come many of our other activities—such as breathing movements; but we cannot catalog them here.

H. G. Wells

Neither, unhappily, can we go into the mass of accurate information that has been collected about reflex actions. Roughly speaking, they depend on the way in which nerve-fibres are disposed in the central nervous system; they are literally parts of our anatomy. But the story is a complicated one, and, fortunately for those who know the fascination of research, it still has its obscure passages; we cannot do justice to it here.

There can be little doubt that the distinctively large cerebrum of man is associated with the distinctive complexity and definiteness of his thought-processes.

We may note here a curious part of the brain lying at the back, behind and below the cerebral hemispheres and having a more closely wrinkled surface than they. This organ, the cerebellum, is a sort of private secretary to the cerebral hemispheres.

It is discriminating but not conscious. Its activities may best be displayed by a single instance. A very intricate complex of reflex actions keeps our bodies balanced. Suppose that the cerebrum intervenes and sends a command to the appropriate motor cells in the spinal cord so that the right arm is raised.

The center of gravity of the body will be shifted, and in the absence of any compensating adjustments we should sway over to the right side. But the cerebellum sees to this.

It watches the acts of the superior authority, so to speak, and takes unobstrusive but appropriate steps so that the general equilibrium of the body may not be upset—in the example chosen, it would call forth a slight compensating movement of the left arm or a slight adjustment of the position at the hip-joints.

Occasionally Mr. Everyman may afford an unpremeditated demonstration of the function of the cerebellum. It is sensitive to an excess of alcohol in the system and speedily becomes disorganized under its influence. The cerebrum itself may be even elated by this drug and may issue many bright and pleasing orders in consequence, but the cerebellum fails in its customary secretarial care.

Consequently, Mr. Everyman's movements become unbalanced. He walks, but he no longer walks with grace and precision; he may become excited by ideas and garrulous, but his larynx, lips and mouth fail in the fine adjustments necessary for perfect articulation. He seeks to give playful slaps to his friends and misses them perplexingly.

This is as far as it is convenient to carry our account of the brain at the present time. Throughout the parts that follow this one we shall be gathering the material for a later more exhaustive attack on the mysteries of that coating of grey matter upon the outside of the cerebrum, which is the seat of Mr. Everyman's dreams and desires, the vehicle of his imagination, the medium of his joys and sorrows, the most important stuff in the universe for every human being.

BOOK THE FIRST.

Chapter IV.

The Wearing Out of the Machine and Its Reproduction.

1.—AGE AND DECAY.

IN the course of time Mr. Everyman discovers that he is growing old. He has avoided complex chills, his leucocytes have defeated a score of dangerous infections, he has had wounds and they have healed, but nevertheless it is borne in upon him that he cannot go on forever. He realizes a slow rusting up of this strange machine with which he is identified and neither he nor any help he can call in seems to be able to arrest that inevitable march towards cessation.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and talked to Billy De Beck, newly home from two years in France and to my puttering tasks. Outside my window a street musician began playing on a piccolo and I waved him away but he waved back as though receiving a greeting.

In the afternoon to Larchmont to see a gentleman who has acquired a three months old cub bear, chubby and playful as a kitten, and it became friends with my dog although the latter constantly bristled as though scenting danger. Home through Harlem.

Abroad with my wife to dine and we had a dessert of flaky pie crust rolled in nuts and spread with honey, as delicious as ever I tasted. So driving through white lit Broadway and past the old Hotel Majestic, where we used to live, now dark and despoiled by wreckers.

Jed Harris seems to have definitely passed up Broadway and at 30 is in a state of semi-retirement in Europe. He is variously reported occupying a town house in London and a villa on Lake Como. One thing is sure, his theatrical offices are closed and his name in gilt scratched from the door.

Harris became an over-night figure in that odd microscopic phenomenon we call the Rialto less than two years ago. At one time he had seven shows running—three on Broadway and four on tour—and his income was $40,000 a week. Just as suddenly he tired and sailed away.

He was born on the Newark outskirts, the son of a large Jewish family. He is thin, pale, and as brittle as spun glass but has the burning black eyes and flaming enthusiasm of the zealot. He weighs only 120 pounds. Among his eccentricities was to go for weeks without shaving.

* * *

With customary Broadway scepticism most people thought Harris—born Jacob Horowitz—was a type of show-off peculiar to the street and regarded his affectations as a pose. His genius as a theatrical producer, however, could not be denied. He burst upon the district, after knocking about as a road show press agent, with the smash hit "Broadway." He followed this up in quick succession with "Coquette," "The Royal Family" and "The Front Page"—all knockouts.

* * *

Despite these honors, the attitude of Harris was uppity. He professed with dilettante languor to regard it only as a temporary expedient before "doing something worth while." He was contemptuous toward everybody connected with the theater and airily drove two dramatic writers from his office. In other ways he was a fresh young upstart, ready to explode like a skyrocket at any moment. But he succeeded where so many others failed. Broadway stood in complete awe. His retirement manifesto was received with a grand grin. Press piffle! But several days later steamship departures carried the name of the intrepid idealist.

* * *

Jed Harris bristled with that electric quality that expresses itself in quick changes of mind. In younger days he went to Yale for a term and one day in the middle of class suddenly walked out. A day later, although he flinches at every dip of the ship and gags at each new smell, he was stoking coal on a cattleboat bound for Liverpool.

* * *

Another odd genius of the Jewish faith was Louis Marshall, the great lawyer and philanthropist, who died in Switzerland a month or so ago. He was rich, but always rode on street cars. He followed baseball scores carefully, but never attended a big league game. He gave fortunes away, but often saved uncancelled stamped envelopes and readdressed them. If one did not return a borrowed book, he would call for it.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU may be a recent arrival in a large city.

Its bigness, its hurrying crowds, its lack of sympathy and apparent selfishness have caused you to become bewildered.

Homesick, you feel yourself outclassed.

You feel inferior and out of place and are tempted to return home.

Only pride prevents you going back.

Be thankful that you have pride enough to carry you along to the point of at least attempting to gain what you set out to get in the city.

If you have only ordinary efficiency in your line of work, you made a mistake in going to the big city.

Metropolitan centers need and can command experts.

Have you tried to make yourself more than ordinary in your profession?

If not, you have no place in the big districts of bright, alert and studious persons who dash unswervingly and constantly at their job, with a precision that comes from unrelenting practice and desire to master.

Perhaps you started out an ordinary worker, but can you put the necessary push to cope with unusual talent, for if you can't stir yourself enough, the small town is kinder to your class.
